LET'S LOOK AT

THE DEATHS

In 1976, the rushed-to-market Swine Flu vaccine was halted after 25 deaths and dozens of case of Guillain-Barré syndrome occurred in the first 6 weeks of rollout.

We are now at 5.4 million adverse reactions, including 77,000+ recorded deaths post-CV19 vax in the US & Europe alone.

UPDATE: CDC Reports 1,637 Deaths Following COVID-19 Vaccinations

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) told The Epoch Times in an email that as of March 8, over 92 million doses of mRNA vaccines for COVID-19 have been injected, with 1,637 deaths occurring following the injections. The CDC claims the vaccines are safe, but a comparison between the rates of deaths following the vaccines for COVID and those for influenza raises questions.

VAERS was put in place in 1990, to capture unforeseen reactions from vaccines.

“Established in 1990, the Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System (VAERS) is a national early warning system to detect possible safety problems in U.S.-licensed vaccines. VAERS is co-managed by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA). VAERS accepts and analyzes reports of adverse events (possible side effects) after a person has received a vaccination. Anyone can report an adverse event to VAERS. Health care professionals are required to report certain adverse events and vaccine manufacturers are required to report all adverse events that come to their attention.

Since this article was published on March 6, 2021 the updated injury & death count as of August 1, 2023 (for US & Europe only) is:

Death of Florida doctor after receiving COVID-19 vaccine under investigation

Karen Weintraub USA TODAY
Published 9:00 p.m. ET Jan. 6, 2021 | Updated 9:26 a.m. ET Jan. 7, 2021

A Florida doctor has died several weeks after receiving a COVID-19 vaccine, although it's not yet clear whether his death Monday was related to the shot he received on Dec. 18.

Dr. Gregory Michael, 56, an OB-GYN at Mount Sinai Medical Center in Miami Beach, died after suffering a hemorrhagic stroke apparently resulting from a lack of platelets.

In a Facebook post, Michael's wife, Heidi Neckelmann, said he sought emergency care three days after the shot because he had dots on his skin that indicated internal bleeding.

January 5 at 11:00 PM · 🌐

The love of my life, my husband Gregory Michael MD an Obstetrician that had his office in Mount Sinai Medical Center in Miami Beach Died the day before yesterday due to a strong reaction to the COVID vaccine.

He was a very healthy 56 year old, loved by everyone in the community delivered hundreds of healthy babies and worked tireless through the pandemic.

He was vaccinated with the Pfizer vaccine at MSMC on December 18, 3 days later he saw a strong set of petechiae on his feet and hands which made him seek attention at the emergency room at MSMC. The CBC that was done at his arrival showed his platelet count to be 0 (A normal platelet count ranges from 150,000 to 450,000 platelets per microliter of blood.) he was admitted in the ICU with a diagnosis of acute ITP caused by a reaction to the COVID vaccine. A team of expert doctors tried for 2 weeks to raise his platelet count to no avail. Experts from all over the country were involved in his care. No matter what they did, the platelets count refused to go up. He was conscious and energetic through the whole process but 2 days before a last resort surgery, he got a hemorrhagic stroke caused by the lack of platelets that took his life in a matter of minutes. He was a pro vaccine advocate that is why he got it himself.

I believe that people should be aware that side effects can happen, that it is not good for everyone and in this case destroyed a beautiful life, a perfect family, and has affected so many people in the community. Do not let his death be in vain please save more lives by making this information news.

Dr. Jerry L. Spivak, an expert on blood disorders at Johns Hopkins University, told the New York Times Tuesday that he believes "it is a medical certainty" that Pfizer's COVID vaccine caused the death of Dr. Gregory Michael.

His wife died from Johnson & Johnson Covid vaccine

For the first time, Stan Thomas shares the story of how his wife, Monica Melkonian, died from vaccine-induced immune thrombotic thrombocytopenia, a rare side effect.

March 2, 2022

BEND, Ore. – Monica Melkonian wanted the Johnson & Johnson Covid vaccine. It was only one shot and then she would be protected against the virus. So she was thrilled when the vaccination clinic at the Deschutes County Fair & Expo Center on April 7 had her first choice.

But on April 13, Melkonian started experiencing headaches, a sharp pain behind her left eye. That same day federal health officials announced a pause in the use of the J&J vaccine after learning that six people had developed a rare blood-clotting disorder following their shots.

“We were literally talking about how amazing our lives have been and how lucky we were,” Thomas said.

Less than a week later, she was dead.

On that day working around their home, her headaches had mostly gone. They went to bed basking in the warmth of their perfect day. But at 4 a.m. the next day, April 18, Thomas heard Melkonian cry out and hit the floor. She had experienced a seizure and couldn't move her right arm. Thomas suspected a stroke and immediately thought of the vaccine.

“No! This isn't happening to me,” Melkonian cried out as Thomas spoke with the 911 operator.

As they waited for the ambulance, they used those precious minutes to tell each other the kinds of things you say when you don't know what the future will hold. By the time the ambulance arrived, she could no longer speak.

Dr. Scott Rewinkel, a neurologist who specializes in clinically complex patients at the hospital, was paged about a seizure patient. He reviewed Melkonian's CT scan. She had experienced several brain bleeds on the left side of her frontal lobe.

Despite doing everything called for in the treatment guidelines, doctors were struck by how quickly her condition deteriorated.

Posted on Twitter May 2, 2022 (South Africa) - My son, Arthur Grice, 22, died 24.2.22. 6 weeks after his 1st J&J vaccine. The day after the shot his nose started running and he did not feel well. He had episodes of vomiting and the 13.2.22 was his last 'healthy' day. His health deteriorated very very fast his last weeks. He went to the Dr. were they treated him for a stomach ulcer first. He was vomiting the whole time and severely dehydrated with severe stomach pain. I took him back to another Dr a few days later and told him he had the vaccine, and with a stomach xray they confirmed there's no movement in his bowel. They treated him for paralytic ileus. My son had difficulty swallowing, he could not eat, he had no stools, he stomach was bulging and he was still vomiting. His whole body was shutting down, his kidneys, brain, etc. He looked like a cancer patient. The hospital released him on a Fluid diet, I took him back but he died in my arms. They wanted to resuscitate him, but all that vomit came out his nose and filled his lungs, nothing they could do for him. This photo was 2 days before his death. He was severely dehydrated and his body shutting down. He complained he could not sleep since he got the vaccine, his brain did not switch off and he felt strange. We are still waiting for the pathology report as all organs was sent for hystology.

Vaccinated in secret from his parents: died after the Pfizer injection

Владимир в день смерти сделал вакцину Pfizer. Источник: ugi.edu.ua

Mr. Salo was a member of a Seventh-Day Adventists church. Mr. Salo's entire family was staunchly against the CV19 vaccines.

Died a few hours after the injection

In the village of Dobrosin near Lviv, the relatives of a 19-year-old student of the Ukrainian Humanities Institute, Volodymyr Salo, cannot recover from grief. The guy was vaccinated against the coronavirus at about 14:30 on September 13, and by the evening he had a fever. At about 20:15, convulsions began, after 20 minutes the pulse was gone.

"He did not tell anyone from his family about the decision to be vaccinated. Perhaps he knew that everyone would be against and would discourage such a decision. And he was so risky by nature, he could make spontaneous decisions. He could be very limited in his desires. They say that those who were not vaccinated will not be able to travel freely, go to cafes, etc. We think that this is what prompted him," says OBOZREVATEL Ruslan, husband of Vladimir's sister.

According to a relative, the guy was vaccinated with a drug from Pfizer. Several hours after the injection, Vladimir felt well, he ate in the student canteen, and then played table tennis.

But in the evening his condition worsened sharply, he began to choke. The ambulance doctors, who came to the call, carried out resuscitation actions for about an hour, but they could not save Vladimir.

According to the preliminary conclusion, the cause of death was cardiopulmonary insufficiency, pulmonary edema, acute coronary insufficiency. Final conclusions will have to wait for about a month.

INQUEST INTO DEATH OF YOUNG FOOTBALLER DELAYED DUE TO VACCINE MANUFACTURER LACK OF ENGAGEMENT

The inquest into the death of a young footballer has been delayed due to lack of engagement from a pharmaceutical company. Roy Butler (23) from Waterford died five days post Janssen vaccine. The Janssen vaccine is the 'one shot' Covid 19 vaccine manufactured by Johnson and Johnson.

The process of preparing an inquest into his death requires specific information from Janssen but this had not been forthcoming. "I have continuously hoped over the past 18 months that I would not have to do this, but when the inquest into my brother's death is being delayed I am left with no choice," Aaron Butler said.

Roy Butler felt unwell immediately after receiving the injection at a vaccination centre on August 12 2021. He complained of headaches, fever, grogginess and pain in his jaw in the days following the procedure. On Sunday August 15, Roy went to work a night shift at the contact lens manufacturing plant Bausch and Lomb. After he finished work, he drove home and slept before going to the gym. He was unable to carry out any physical activities at the gym and returned home early. At home, he complained of feeling extremes of hot and cold and went upstairs to his bedroom where his condition deteriorated rapidly.

The talented young footballer, who had plans to travel to Dubai, began to suffer seizures, vomiting and convulsions. Paramedics arrived at the family home and Roy was transferred to University Hospital Waterford. He was pronounced dead the following day, August 17.

It is unlikely the inquest will be held, before Coroner Phillip Comyn, until 2023 at the earliest.

Healthy 32-year-old goes into cardiac arrest & dies less than 24 hours of J&J shot

Benjamin G.
Goodman

Benjamin Goodman went to a Walgreens pop-up COVID-19 vaccine clinic in Chelsea, New York on Saturday, March 13. He received the Johnson & Johnson shot, according to his stepmother Pamela Goodman. Benjamin texted his father, Jeff Goodman, and told him he received the shot. Benjamin had a severe headache and started feeling ill. He fell asleep, hoping the symptoms would pass after some rest. Mr. Goodman woke up at 1 a.m. with a high fever and chills. His fiancée, Lindsay Janisse, was awakened to Mr. Goodman having seizures at 4 a.m.. Ms. Janisse called 911 as Mr. Goodman went into cardiac arrest. Paramedics tried, unsuccessfully, to revive him on the scene. Mr. Goodman was rushed to a nearby Mount Sinai Hospital. But he was pronounced dead at 6:05 a.m. Sunday morning, March 14.

Dear friends, there is nothing that can bring our son Ben back. Jeff, Natasha, Carson and I cannot let the truth of what happened to Ben pass with any of you thinking he had some type of underlying health problems that caused his death. He didn't. Ben just celebrated his 32nd birthday, was working full time, golfing, traveling and living the best life he could in NYC. Ben knew our family history with vaccines. He knew. But everyone has been pushing the experimental travel pass and so many things we know and many others do not.

We are very aware and respect every persons choices and medical freedom. This is what happened to our son. There is no B/W or grey, the autopsy came back suspicious and inconclusive pending further investigation.

We don't need to wait for anything, we already know what happened. Nothing can bring him back.

Obituary

It is with deep sadness we announce the passing of Ben Goodman, age 32, who died suddenly due to heart failure on March 14, 2021 in New York City. Ben is survived by his fiancée, Lindsay Janisse, his mother Cindy Shelley, his father and stepmother Jeff and Pamela Goodman, his brothers Andrew Shelley and Carson Goodman, his sister Natasha Goodman, his dogs Kiva and Wilson, and his many beloved colleagues and friends. Born on March 8, 1989 in Manhattan, Ben graduated from Northport High School in June of 2007 and received a Bachelor's degree in International Business from Florida Atlantic University in December 2014. Govt probes death of medical student after Covid-19 vaccine

The government authorities are investigating the death of Rosette Kyarikunda, a fifth-year medical student of Busitema University, which happened on Tuesday, two weeks after she took the AstraZeneca Covid-19 vaccine jab.

Ms Peace Kalungi, the university spokesperson, confirmed that the deceased had taken the jab as a requirement to resume learning at the institution.

The deceased took her first jab on August 17, a day after returning to school, according to Mr Boniface Osodi, the president of Federation of Uganda Medical Students' Association (Fumsa).

"After taking her shot, she started experiencing mild headache and general body weaknesses. When she went back to her room, she asked her friends to

"On August 25, her condition worsened and she was admitted and managed at Mbale Regional Referral Hospital, which doubled as her training hospital because she was a fifth year medical student at Busitema University," he said.

"They referred her to Kiruddu for a CT scan and on reaching there, she was in coma and was admitted in Intensive Care Unit. Then we were later told [by doctors at Kiruddu] that she developed multi-organ failure," he said.

He added: "The doctors suggested that they put her on dialysis but it was not completed because her serum albumin levels were low. They administered albumin and put her on dialysis."

Mr Osodi said after more than 48 hours in coma, "the passionate and full of life" Kyarikunda lost the battle.

"The diagnosis, according to the doctors at Kiruddu, has changed from a Covid jab side effect to malaria. But now we are wondering how a normal young girl, who was previously very fine with no illness, no hypertension or diabetes before taking the Covid shot, and now in a period like two weeks, after the shot she gets multi-organ failure and dies.

Malaria can't cause that. We need a clear scientific explanation otherwise medical students are too scared," he said.

The family of Joël Crochet, 63, who died in March in Haute-Savoie of "multiple thrombosis" after a first injection of AstraZeneca's anti-Covid vaccine, filed a complaint against X for "involuntary homicide", we were told. learned this Tuesday, April 6 from the Annecy prosecutor's office.

"The complaint was lodged with me urgently on Tuesday morning", confirmed to AFP this Tuesday evening Véronique Denizot, the public prosecutor of Annecy.

It was on March 7 that Joël Crochet received his first dose of AstraZeneca vaccine in Annecy, during a major vaccination weekend.

The next day, however, he encountered respiratory and joint problems. Treated by his doctor with cortisone, his condition improved within a week. But the following weekend, it deteriorates again.

"In the space of a day and a half, he multiplied problems after problems, thromboses on vital organs, the liver, the kidneys, the brain... then he was placed in intensive care. It was dazzling", testifies his brother Jean-Luc Crochet that our team had met last Tuesday, March 30, before he decided to file a complaint.

Coroner confirms Dunedin death linked to Covid vaccine

A coroner has confirmed a Dunedin plumber died as a result of receiving the Covid-19 vaccine.

Rory Nairn (26) died at the home he shared with his fiancée Ashleigh Wilson on November 17 last year and a three-day coronial inquest into his death began last month.

Coroner Sue Johnson has released an initial decision in which she confirmed the man had died of myocarditis, a rare heart condition, due to the Pfizer vaccine he had received 12 days before his death.

The inquiry heard Ms Wilson and Mr Nairn had been out for breakfast to celebrate buying their dream home when he made an impromptu decision to get the jab.

At a family dinner later that night he commented his chest felt "weird" and made further disclosures about heart flutters over the following days.

On the night of his death, Mr Nairn's discomfort became more severe and just minutes after agreeing to go to hospital he collapsed in the bathroom.

Emergency services rushed to the scene, but he was pronounced dead shortly afterwards.

Pathologist Noelyn Hung said Mr Nairn's heart was "soft and pale" when she examined it.

Mr Nairn did not have rheumatic fever, there was no sign of a bacteria, virus or fungi, and he had not been using anti-psychotic medications which were known to cause the inflammation of the heart muscle.

'He was 26 years old, with no pre-existing medical conditions. He played rugby, went diving and hunting on the weekends, worked hard as a plumber, and had his whole life ahead of him, Ms Wilson said.

A Canadian woman on Sept. 14 died suddenly in a drug store within minutes of receiving the new bivalent COVID-19 booster shot, according to her daughter.

Carol Pearce texted her daughter, Stephanie Foster, at 12:31 p.m. to say she received her booster shot and was waiting the recommended 15 minutes at the drug store. At 12:38 p.m., Pearce was unconscious.

An eyewitness told SASKTODAY.ca she was in the store when she heard screaming and crying. "They were saying in the store that it was about seven minutes," after Pearce got the booster shot that she collapsed on the floor, the witness said.

A spokesperson from Saskatchewan Health told SASKTODAY.ca on Thursday Pearce died from natural causes.

"The Saskatchewan coroner's service has investigated this instance and determined that the person died from natural causes," Dale Hunter, a communications consultant from the Saskatchewan Ministry of Health said in an email.

"I do not believe this was caused from natural causes," Foster said. "My Mom had no health conditions. I believe had she not gotten that Covid shot then she would be here with us today!"

The family said when Pearce left for her appointment, she was happy and healthy.

✓ Camilla Canepa, the 18-year-old from Sestri Levante vaccinated with AstraZeneca, died

Camilla Canepa, the eighteen-year-old from Sestri Levante hospitalized Sunday at San Martino in Genoa after a cavernous sinus thrombosis and operated on to remove the thrombus and reduce intracranial pressure, died. She had been vaccinated with AstraZeneca's vaccine on May 25 on the open day for over 18s.

The girl received the vaccine on May 25 during an Open Day. On June 3 she went to the emergency room for the first time with headache and photophobia. Always at the San Martino in Genoa. She had undergone brain CT scan and neurological examination, both negative, and was discharged with a recommendation to repeat the blood tests after 15 days. On June 5 she returned to the emergency room with motor deficits. Subjected to cerebral CT scan "with hemorrhagic outcome", she was transferred to the neurosurgery of the hospital where she had undergone two operations. In the Prosecutor's Office there are four open files for people who have died after vaccination. The first case concerns the 32-year-old teacher Francesca Tuscano who was inoculated with Astra-Zeneca. The latest suspected death is on May 15 and concerns a frail 83-year-old woman who was administered Pfizer. Of the four cases, the coroner Luca Tajana is dealing with the hematologist Franco Piovella.

Surgeon who operated on young Italian vaccine victim: 'You have never seen anything like this'

Camilla Canepa was operated on by Gianluigi Zona, director of the neurosurgical and neuro-traumatological clinic of the San Martino hospital: "I had never seen a brain that was affected by such an extensive and severe thrombosis."

The neurosurgeon on duty in San Martino that night was Alessandro d'Andrea, who also called the chief physician to his side at the operating table. "We decided to have a decompression craniotomy, in which the skull is opened to relieve internal pressure."

Zona recounted the experience: "All venous sinuses were blocked with thrombi, a scenario I have never seen in my many years in this profession. Think of the venous sinus as the river in the middle of a valley where several streams converge. If a dam is built in the middle of the watercourse, the river swells and the tributaries can no longer drain at this point, so that the pressure rises upstream."

edited for length

But the girl's family, assisted by the lawyer Angelo Paone, is firm on this point. "Camilla had no disease," explained their lawyer. Supporting their claim, are two different CT scans. She had undergone the two scans, and was discharged after the first one that had not shown the situation of the thrombosis in progress, but immediately transferred to the hospital after the second showing that her health had been compromised.

The memories of mum Oxana and dad Lorenzo dissolve in the excruciating pain of having lost their only daughter at the age of 16, "sixteen hours after the second dose of the vaccine" explains the mum.

The mayor of Bastiglia, Francesca Silvestri, who on Thursday had left for a few days of vacation, returned yesterday afternoon and proclaimed city mourning. The events scheduled in the country have been canceled. "Giulia is the third young woman in our community to have left us too soon. The pain is great, there are no words"

Her mother, Oxana, a healthcare worker, immediately called emergency services when she found her daughter unresponsive and began CPR.

Jessica died from vaccine-induced thrombotic thrombocytopenia (VITT).
Twitter fact-checkers put a “misleading” label on the obituary her husband wrote and prevented people from replying to, sharing or liking the tweet.

Jessica Berg Wilson | 1983 – 2021 | Obituary

Harvey Family Funeral Home

Jessica Berg Wilson, 37, of Seattle, WA, passed away suddenly on September 7th from COVID-19 Vaccine-Induced Thrombotic Thrombocytopenia (VITT) surrounded by her loving family. Jessica was an exceptionally healthy and vibrant 37-year-old young mother with no underlying health conditions.

Jessica was born on October 29, 1983 to Arthur and Gwen Berg in Portland, OR. She attended Riverdale Grade School, graduated from Jesuit High School in 2002, and earned a B.A. from Oregon State University in 2007. After college, she had a successful professional career in human resource management and devoted her free time to numerous volunteer causes. She met Tom, her loving husband, in 2009 and they wed in 2012, going on to have two daughters, Bridget (5) and Clara (3).

Jessica's greatest passion was to be the best mother possible for Bridget and Clara. Nothing would stand in her way to be present in their lives. During the last weeks of her life, however, the world turned dark with heavy-handed vaccine mandates. Local and state governments were determined to strip away her right to consult her wisdom and enjoy her freedom. She had been vehemently opposed to taking the vaccine, knowing she was in good health and of a young age and thus not at risk for serious illness. In her mind, the known and unknown risks of the unproven vaccine were more of a threat. But, slowly, day by day, her freedom to choose was stripped away. Her passion to be actively involved in her children's education—which included being a Room Mom—was, once again, blocked by government mandate. Ultimately, those who closed doors and separated mothers from their children prevailed. It cost Jessica her life. It cost her children the loving embrace of their caring mother. And it cost her husband the sacred love of his devoted wife. It cost God's Kingdom on earth a very special soul who was just making her love felt in the hearts of so many.

Along with being a superb mother, Jessica was a devoted and supportive wife and created a beautiful, serene home for her family to thrive in while establishing her family in the wonderful Laurelhurst and Assumption-St. Bridget communities of Seattle. Jessica and Tom were a remarkable team who prioritized family values and morals, and their Catholic Faith.

Jessica Berg Wilson, a 37-year-old stay-at-home mother from Washington, was a healthy and vibrant woman, according to her family who said she passed away suddenly on Sept. 7. A family member said doctors diagnosed her with vaccine-induced thrombotic thrombocytopenia \(VITT\).

In an exclusive interview with The Defender, Tom Wilson, Jessica's husband, and Thomas Invancie, her uncle, said Twitter's fact-checkers — who have never spoken with their family to verify Jessica's story — affixed "misleading" and "misinformation" labels to her obituary.

On Sept. 2, Jessica went to a Seattle pharmacy to get her COVID vaccine and was told she would be receiving the Johnson & Johnson \(J&J\) shot. Jessica had no underlying health conditions, her husband said.

Jessica was "vehemently opposed" to taking the vaccine, "considering her stay-at-home mom status, state of good health and young age in conjunction with the known and unknown risk of an unproven vaccine," Wilson said.

But Jessica was pressured to get the vaccine due to a vaccine mandate at their child's school requiring "room moms" who wished to serve in the classroom be fully vaccinated.

In an email to The Defender, Ivancie said Jessica immediately became ill after receiving J&J's vaccine, and went to the emergency room at UW Medical Center.

"Jessica explained she had been vaccinated and was suffering various severe symptoms," Ivancie said. "Attending doctors kept her isolated for hours, insisted on giving her a COVID test and sent her home. They did not pursue any other protocol, even though Jessica protested."

Once at home, Jessica fell into a coma and was taken by ambulance and admitted to Harborview Medical Center in Seattle, where doctors diagnosed her with VITT. A team of doctors worked to relieve pressure on Jessica's brain, but ultimately, they determined she was brain dead, and life support was removed.

Popular Devon dad and footballer died 11 days after AstraZeneca jab

8 DEC 2021

A Devon dad died of a severe brain-bleed in Derriford Hospital just 11 days after receiving the AstraZeneca vaccine, an inquest has heard.

On arrival at the Royal Devon and Exeter Hospital he underwent a CT scan which revealed an acute right-frontal lobe haemorrhage, which caused compression of the brain stem. He was then transferred to Derriford Hospital for neurosurgery. However during the operation, which noted that his brain had become "very swollen and very tense", the surgeon found there was no improvement, despite the removal of the blood.

A decision was then taken by the neurosurgeon not to continue with the craniotomy further "due to futility as to the appearance of the very swollen and very tense brain and the absence of response to the haematoma evacuation was associated with a negligible chance of survival and recovery."

He said Mr Bounds' diagnosis was "vaccine-induced thrombotic thrombocytopenia" and it was noted that he had received the AstraZeneca vaccine "11 days beforehand".

Irish boy, 14, dying three weeks after Covid-19 vaccine significant public concern,' inquest hears 22 NOV 2022

A request for safety information from Covid-19 vaccine manufacturer Pfizer is to form part of the 'considerable investigation' to be conducted into the death.

The teenager, a second year student, was vaccinated with the Pfizer Covid-19 vaccine on August 20, 2021. He died at home just over three weeks later on September 13, 2021.

Joseph McGinty suffered significant medical deterioration following the administration of the vaccine, the inquest heard.

He was hospitalised on September 1 and stayed overnight at Mayo University Hospital before he was discharged the following day. He attended hospital again on September 8 for review.

"The circumstances of Joseph McGinty's death is that Covid vaccination was administered to him. That there appears to have been either a reaction or a significant change in his medical circumstances following the administration of the vaccine and that subsequently, unfortunately, Master McGinty died," Coroner Pat O'Connor said.

As a result, the case could take "months or possibly years to conclude its findings," Mr O'Connor said.

Woman Dies Of Brain Hemorrhage Just Days After Receiving J&J COVID-19 Vaccine

By Danielle Ong

A 20-year-old woman in Slovenia died of a brain hemorrhage just days after receiving the single-dose Johnson & Johnson COVID-19 vaccine, leading the government to temporarily suspend the vaccine's distribution.

The woman, whose identity has not been revealed to the public, was hospitalized on Monday at the Ljubljana University Medical Center a few days after she received the J&J COVID-19 shot. She later died of a brain hemorrhage and blood clots.

"The patient had blood clots and bleeding in the brain at the same time, intensive care was not successful," Igor Rigler, a neurologist at the Ljubljana hospital center, told the STA national news agency.

The officials did not elaborate when the woman received her vaccine. But according to The Associated Press, the woman received the J&J shot two weeks prior to her death.

Slovenian Government suspends Janssen Covid-19 vaccine after death of Katja Jagodic

Katja Jagodic was vaccinated because it's mandated for universities in Slovenia. She received her shot September 16. She was hospitalised September 27 at the University Clinical Center (UKC) in Ljubljana. She died on 29th September in the early morning. Igor Rigler, head of the emergency neurology department at the University Clinical Centre said, "she fell ill with a very serious condition. At the same time, she had blood clots and low platelet counts, causing bleeding in her brain. We have done everything that modern medicine can do in such conditions. We consulted all the experts involved in this field at UKC – vascular specialists, haematologists, nephrologists and neurologists. We approached the treatment aggressively, but unfortunately we could not help her."

Slovenian Minister of Health Janez Poklukar ordered the suspension of the Janssen vaccine after the news.

The father of the deceased 20-year-old was present at a protest Sept 29 against the 'COVID-Pass'. The participants of the rally dedicated a minute of silence before he said: "She wanted to have freedom, just like everyone else here. On September 16, she went to get vaccinated with Janssen so that she wouldn't be limited by nonsense. She is no more today. My Katja was not a percentage. She was my Katja."

The protesters, who are against the mandatory COVID-Pass in order to work and shop were then shot with water cannons by police.

Lisa Shaw: Presenter's death due to complications of Covid vaccine

A radio presenter died due to complications from the AstraZeneca Covid-19 vaccine, a coroner has found.

Lisa Shaw, who worked for BBC Radio Newcastle, died at the age of 44 in May after developing headaches a week after getting her first dose of the vaccine.

Newcastle coroner Karen Dilks heard Ms Shaw suffered blood clots in the brain which ultimately led to her death.

The coroner said: "Lisa died due to complications of an AstraZeneca Covid vaccination."

Ms Dilks said Ms Shaw was previously fit and well but concluded that it was "clearly established" that her death was due to a very rare "vaccine-induced thrombotic thrombocytopenia", a condition which leads to swelling and bleeding of the brain.

Ms Shaw, a mother of one from Consett, received her first dose of the vaccine on 29 April.

On 13 May she was taken by ambulance to University Hospital of North Durham after having a headache for several days.

In a statement, Dr John Holmes who treated her said she complained of having a "severe headache shooting and stabbing" across her forehead and behind her eyes.

Tests were carried out and blood clots were found in her brain, prompting her to be moved to the neurology specialist unit at Newcastle's Royal Victoria Infirmary (RVI).

Dr Christopher Johnson, a consultant in anaesthetics and intensive care at the RVI, said Ms Shaw had been conscious for several days and had been treated for the clots with drugs which seemed to be successful.

But on the evening of 16 May Ms Shaw said the headaches were worse and she had difficulty speaking.

Scans showed she had suffered a haemorrhage in the brain and after her condition deteriorated, part of her skull was removed to try and relieve the pressure inside her head.

Her condition continued to worsen and despite more surgery and treatments, she died on 21 May.

Dr Johnson said doctors were in a daily conference with a national panel about vaccine-induced thrombotic thrombocytopenia, the condition Ms Shaw was believed to be suffering from.

EXCLUSIVE: 'Wonderful and loving' mum died from complications of AstraZeneca Covid vaccine

Healthy Alpa Tailor, 35, who took the vaccine to 'protect her family', fell ill just over a week after getting her first dose in March this year after complaining of a headache

By Adela Whittingham, Court Reporter

21:24, 11 Sep 2021

A 'wonderful and loving' mum-of-two died from complications of the AstraZeneca coronavirus vaccine, a coroner has ruled.

St Pancras Coroner's Court heard Alpa was complaining of a headache and a day later experienced paralysis on the left side of her body.

The inquest heard paramedics rushed Alpa to the National Hospital for Neurology and Neurosurgery on April 8 as she was showing all the symptoms of a stroke, including slurred speech and a facial droop.

Doctors carried out blood tests and quickly diagnosed her with a new syndrome called vaccine-induced immune thrombocytopenia and thrombosis (VITT).

It affects one in 50,000 people under the age of 50 who have had the first dose of AstraZeneca, the inquest heard.

Professor Marie Scully, a consultant haematologist at University College London Hospitals, said at the time of Alpa's admission around 250 people had been diagnosed with VITT in the UK and around 50 had died.

Alpa had surgery that afternoon to relieve pressure on her brain and doctors initially thought she was responding well to treatment.

However by April 22, intensive care doctors noticed a change in brain function and carried out a CT scan to find massive brain hemorrhaging.

A post-mortem found Alpa had multiple brain clots.

"A week or so after the surgery I was actually quite optimistic, I thought we had got her through a real nasty condition and I was really surprised when I found out about the tragic demise approximately two weeks afterwards."

Professor Scully told the inquest: "Nobody could have considered diagnosing a brand new syndrome at this stage. It's completely out of the blue.

"In April the number of people dying was very very few. Because of those statistics the UK has decided anyone under the age of 40 doesn't receive an Astra Zeneca vaccination - because the risk of dying from COVID is so low compared to the risk of dying from VITT which has a significant mortality."

"There's going to be somebody who's affected by this and this was Alpa. Having heard all the evidence I have no hesitation in saying that she died as a consequence of the vaccination."

According to the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency, as of September 1 there have been 416 cases of VITT and 72 deaths.

Utah woman, 39, dies 4 days after 2nd dose of COVID-19 vaccine; autopsy ordered

SALT LAKE CITY (KUTV) — During a KUTV investigation into COVID-19 vaccine side effects and where to report them, we found four reported deaths, filed by Utah families and their caregivers to the CDC's Vaccine Adverse Effects Reporting System.

One case stood out, a 39-year-old single mom from Ogden who died four days after her second dose of the Moderna COVID-19 vaccine. Her family, who is now waiting on an autopsy, held a celebration of life for her this past weekend.

Kassidi Kurill, by all accounts, was healthy, happy and "had more energy" than just about anyone else around her. Her family told 2News she had no known health problems or pre-existing conditions.

Four days after Kurill's second dose of the COVID-19 vaccine, she was gone — dead before most of her family could say their goodbyes.

"She came in early and said her heart was racing and she felt like she need to get to the emergency room," Hawley said.

"They did a blood test and immediately came back and said she was very, very sick, and her liver was not functioning," Hawley said.

Kurill was flown to Intermountain Medical Center in Murray, a trauma center where they had the ability to do transplants if needed. Her liver was failing and a transplant, doctors believed, was her best option at survival.

She died, he said, 30 hours after they arrived in the emergency room.

Arcadia: "I have a question to find out what Elias left", says the brother of the 15-year-old who died after being vaccinated

The 15-year-old was found dead in his home by a relative, while it is being investigated whether his death is related to the fact that he was vaccinated with the first dose for the coronavirus last Friday.

According to protothema.gr, his 31-year-old brother Nikos, Louis, as he was affectionately called, before he was vaccinated last Friday morning, had also visited a pediatrician, in order to do all the necessary examinations:

"Elias got the vaccine on Friday morning at a vaccination center in Tripoli. But before we decided to get vaccinated, my parents had taken him to the pediatrician three days earlier, in order to do all the necessary tests, so that we can be sure."

I talked to the pediatrician yesterday and he told me that all he did was listen to him with the stethoscope and nothing else. She did not give him any test, nor any blood test.

"On the weekend after the vaccination, the little one did not complain about anything. It was fine, my parents told me. On Sunday he even did a self test to go to school the next day, he had prepared his bag, his clothes. But on Monday morning, when my sister went to wake him up, she unfortunately found him unconscious."

The 15-year-old was transported to the Panarkadiko Hospital and despite the superhuman efforts of the doctors to bring him back, unfortunately this was not possible.

The boy's father: "My son has always been healthy"

In Sedico, in the house of the Bristot family, father Paolo cannot rest: "We don't know how to give us any explanation for what happened, my son had always been well and seemed perfectly healthy". And then the answer can only come from the autopsy: on Monday the prosecutor of Belluno will entrust the task to the coroner Antonello Cinnelli, and the medical records and all the documents compiled by the emergency room staff on duty on Tuesday night will be acquired, when Davide was taken to hospital with "neck pain and vomiting". What worried him above all was the headache that had been afflicting him for a few days and that in the afternoon had become unbearable. However, it seemed like a passing malaise, for a boy like him, who had never had any serious health problems, was fit and had played volleyball since he was a child. Instead, on Tuesday evening, in a pizzeria with friends, he ran to the bathroom to throw up. And at that point the parents decided to accompany him to the Belluno hospital.

"They told us that everything was fine, no one thinks that an 18-year-old boy could have something serious", the family members vented who also yesterday repeated that they did not want to accuse anyone "but only to understand what happened". Back home, the student immediately went to bed. And there his mother found him the next morning, now lifeless. The coroner of the prosecutor's office (who will be joined by Sarah Nalin, the consultant appointed by the family) will have to clarify what killed him, but also if there was any way to intervene, and therefore if the medical staff operated correctly.. However, any correlation between death and the Covid 19 vaccine that the student had done a month ago seems excluded.

Ian's 34yo daughter Katie died after receiving AstraZeneca's vaccine. He wants to honour her. But he also wants answers

Katie Lees was a 34-year-old actor and comedian, due to start a performance at Sydney's Flight Path Theatre after last year's strict winter lockdown lifted.

Less than two weeks after Katie had her first dose of the AstraZeneca vaccine in late July, she died from blood clots and a low platelet count, known as thrombosis with thrombocytopenia syndrome (TTS).

AstraZeneca was not recommended to people under the age of 60 but the preferred vaccine, Pfizer, was in short supply and only available to people aged between 40 and 60. Although not recommended by ATAGI, adults could get an AstraZeneca vaccine after conducting their own risk assessment and consulting with their doctor. Katie spoke with her GP and got her first dose on July 22. On August 5, the day after she died, the Therapeutic Goods Administration confirmed her death was a result of the AstraZeneca vaccine.

"Nothing can be done to bring Katie back, but in the future, let's not have a vaccine that kills people."

Hospital blamed over women's death from heart inflammation after vaccination

By TOI STAFF

2 April 2021, 8:58 pm

capture: Channel 13 news)

Shirel Hilel, 22, received her second vaccine dose two weeks ago, her sister Nofar told Channel 13 news, in a segment aired Thursday evening. She later reported feeling unwell and said she was experiencing muscle pain.

However, Hilel's condition worsened and she began to have difficulty breathing and pains in her chest and was taken to Safed's Ziv Medical Center.

At the hospital, Hilel was diagnosed with myocarditis, inflammation of the heart muscle, which boyfriend Eyal said the doctor compared to a swollen shoulder.

"On the last day of hospitalization, a deterioration in her situation began. Persistent heart rhythm disturbances developed that didn't respond to care and after continued resuscitation, she was pronounced dead. We share in the sorrow of the family over the heavy loss," it said in a response to the network.

Last month, the Health Ministry instructed hospitals to report any cases of heart inflammation among the vaccinated.

"After several such cases of this type happened close to receiving the vaccine, it was decided to put a specific focus on this issue," Tal Brosh, head of the Infectious Disease Unit at Assuta Medical Center in Ashdod, told the Ynet news site at the time.

Exclusive: Autopsy Confirms 26-Year-Old's Death From Myocarditis Directly Caused by Pfizer COVID Vaccine

A 26-year-old South Dakota man who died Nov. 12, 2021, of myocarditis — four days after his booster dose of Pfizer's COVID vaccine — had no idea he was experiencing a rare and supposedly "mild" heart problem after the shot.

Joseph Keating's only warning signs were fatigue, muscle soreness and an increased heart rate, family members said.

In an exclusive interview with The Defender, Joseph's father, mother and sister said the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) has not investigated Joseph's death.

The CDC also did not contact the pathologist who performed the autopsy or request the documents which confirmed Joseph's death was caused by the Pfizer vaccine.

According to the autopsy report and certificate of death, Joseph died from severe heart damage from "myocarditis in the left ventricle due to the recent Pfizer COVID-19 booster vaccine."

"He wasn't really acting sick, just exhausted," she said.

Cayleen, a critical care nurse of 35 years, took her son's vitals and noted his temperature was up to 100.2 and his heart rate was elevated to 112. She thought it was related to the fever, so she gave him Tylenol.

Later that day, Joseph texted his mother that his fever was down. By 4:30 p.m., his oxygen was at 100%, but his heart rate was still elevated.

Joseph's father, William, visited his son around 5 p.m. and they had dinner. William left at 6 p.m. Two hours later their son was dead.

The family knows when Joseph died because of the Apple Watch data they retrieved from his phone. Joseph had an app enabled that measured his heart rate up to the time of his death.

Cayleen said when they found Joseph the next morning, there were no signs he knew he was going to die.

"He was even having a two-way conversation with several of his friends before his death. The phone and remote control were on his lap," his mother said.

Cayleen said she is thankful an autopsy was performed because it revealed her son died directly from the vaccine and the myocarditis he suffered was from the vaccine.

"It's documented proof," Cayleen said. "He died directly from the Pfizer booster."

CDC ignores reports of death caused by myocarditis

Both Joseph's family and the pathologist submitted a report to the Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System (VAERS), but to this day, neither have been contacted by the CDC about Joseph's death.

"You would think the death of a child from a reaction to a COVID vaccine that's documented on the death certificate and autopsy, the CDC would have reached out to us immediately," Cayleen said. "You would think the CDC would have called the pathologist."

Cayleen said:

"We've heard no response. We contacted the local news station to get the word out that this happened, and they said their hands were tied. We called the pathologist, no comment. The governor, no comment. The health department, no comment. The CDC, no comment. So, nobody's talking about it."

Cayleen said her main goal in sharing her son's story is to let other families know this happened without any warning.

Nasos Katris: Mysterious death of 32-year-old stylist - He was vaccinated with AstraZeneca

The 32-year-old stylist Nasos Katris was found dead in his apartment yesterday.

"The EKAB ambulances that received his body told us that it was very likely that his death was related to some side effect of the vaccine," she said after being informed by Nasos that she had been vaccinated by AstraZeneca on Monday, June 7.

"Nasos got the vaccine on Monday at noon at 16.00 and returned home. It was fine. He ate with a friend and then went to sleep. What we learned is that he vomited, bled and probably drowned from it, that is, sucked. His phone was found on the other side of the bed. The man who lives just below him, heard voices and noises around 6 in the afternoon but did not pay attention because as he told us he did not want to disturb. "The doctors told us that after the autopsy they would be able to know more about what caused his sudden death," said the designer.

Family Blames Pfizer Shot After Their 18-Year-Old Healthy Daughter Dies Suddenly From Unknown Cause

"Our sweet, funny, fierce, caring, kind, strong, there are not enough words, daughter is gone. In the blink of an eye, gone. Trista Deanè Martin passed away yesterday evening & we have no answers. No why. Just gone.

"She actually had already had COVID twice & the media made her think she still needed the shot,"

My Friends are Dying of Heart Attacks

I'm headed out to Maui to celebrate my brother's 50th birthday. One of our oldest friends—a 53-year-old named Dan who was my roommate in graduate school—was scheduled to be on my flight, but he isn't because he died of a heart attack two weeks ago. Both of his parents attended the funeral; both were in exceptionally good physical condition in spite of their advanced age. Dan received the initial two doses of a COVID-19 mRNA vaccine last year, but apparently decided to forgo the boosters.

Another one of our closest friends—a 55-year-old surfing legend named Loch Eggers—was also looking forward to celebrating with us. I spoke to him on the phone last week. He expressed great excitement about our forthcoming reunion and all of the fun we were going to have surfing, barbecuing, and partying.

Loch also won't make it because he had a fatal heart attack last Saturday. His life and death are chronicled in this beautifully illustrated obituary.

Loch's case was especially poignant. He was found on the side of a hiking trail that led to a peaceful place where he'd recently erected a shrine to his brother, Hunter, who died of a heart attack a few months ago. Both Loch and Hunter were in exceptionally good physical condition from daily water sports. Loch was one of the greatest amateur surfers on earth.

The Maui County Medical Examiner mentioned to Loch's devastated girlfriend that he'd autopsied Hunter a few months ago and noted that his heart was conspicuously inflamed. I am waiting to hear the autopsy report in Loch's case. Both brothers received the mRNA vaccinations plus boosters.

Michigan woman's death caused by vaccine autopsy report says

The Johnson & Johnson COVID-19 vaccine brought about the April 21 death of her mother, 60-year-old Sandra Jacobs of Saline, a grandmother, a friend, an employee.

Jacobs died 13 days after she received the single-shot at a CVS pharmacy on April 8, just five days before federal health agencies temporarily paused the vaccine administration while they examined an unusual blood-clotting disorder.

Inquiry into death of Nantes student, 24, who had Covid jab

Anthony Rio, 24 years-old, was found lifeless in his apartment by fireman after family and friends raised alarm-bells as they had not heard from him in days. He had died in his sleep. A source close to the investigation said, that following an autopsy, his death was found to be caused by an “internal hemorrhage caused by a blood clot”. The autopsy concluded Anthony did not suffer from any bacterial or vascular diseases. The conclusions of the medical investigations “undoubtedly reinforce the hypothesis of a link between the vaccine and the death of the young man,” said the lawyer of the family, Mr. Etienne Boittin.

The family of Anthony described him as a “brilliant, sensible and sporty” person who was in “perfect health” with no existing medical conditions: “My brother, beyond being a brilliant person, took care of himself. My oldest daughter wrote this for her sister Cheyenne!!!! Hello everyone, I have been thinking about sharing my experience as a grieving nurse on here for a while! I hope that out of decency, stupid comments will refrain! My little sister of 15 years, passed away this morning. 2 weeks ago she went into cardiac arrest out of nowhere, she was resuscitated several times! 1 1/2 weeks after her vaccination with comirnaty Biontech! She was in a coma for 2 weeks now!

It is now under investigation and doctors do not rule out heart muscle inflammation caused by vaccination! Thrombose it. Poor Does it really have to be testing the vaccine on our children? More and more cases are being made public! This is not an isolated case!

Give it a thought ! My mother regrets her signature!

She was such a cheerful, brave, humorous, helpful girl. She had her whole life ahead of her! 🥺no pre existing illness

Protests over post-vaccination deaths spread across South Korea

26 Dec, 2021

One of the most vaccinated nations on earth is seeing increased public pushback over Covid-19 jabs, as demonstrators in South Korea are demanding accountability for deaths that they blame on the shots.

Protesters gathered in Busan on Sunday after a similar rally was held in Seoul on Christmas Day. Aggrieved demonstrators held up large portraits of deceased family members – like those typically displayed at funerals in South Korea – and testified as to how their loved ones died soon after being vaccinated against Covid-19.

More than 1,000 South Koreans died shortly after receiving Covid-19 shots, but the government has confirmed a causal connection to vaccines in only a few of those cases. In one of the rare instances where a serious adverse reaction was acknowledged, a nursing assistant was recognized in August as a victim of an industrial accident and awarded government benefits after suffering paralysis in the wake of receiving AstraZeneca's Covid-19 shot.

Just one week into its rollout of Covid-19 vaccines in late February and early March, South Korea's Disease Control and Prevention Agency said that seven people had died and 24 had reported serious adverse reactions after receiving their AstraZeneca jabs. The government reportedly began an investigation in August after a teenager with no underlying health conditions died following inoculation with the Pfizer-BioNTech Covid-19 vaccine.

927 million baht paid to over 8,000 people suffering side effects from COVID vaccinations

Between April 5th and December 26th, Thailand's National Health Security Office (NHSO) paid out about 927 million baht in financial aid to 8,470 people who suffered undesirable side effects after being inoculated with COVID-19 vaccines.

Of the approved cases, to whom financial compensation payments have been made, 1,962 suffered death or disability, while the remainder suffered less severe side effects.

In case of death or permanent disability, each family will receive 400,000 baht. 240,000 baht is paid for those who lose a limb or sustain a disability which affects their livelihood and 100,000 baht is paid to those who suffer a chronic illness.

Annemiek died after her vaccination

VIDEO The 74-year-old mother of Jasper and Femke van Eck from Breda is one of 381 people registered as 'deceased after corona vaccination'.

Annemiek van Eck (74) from Breda went to play tennis on Monday 19 April and then cycled to the vaccination location of the GGD for her first shot. Delighted, she took a selfie and sent it to her son Jasper and daughter Femke. In the evening she sent another text message: 'If they gave you the vaccine at night, you wouldn't even notice.'

That night Annemiek died in her sleep. Jasper found her the next evening. Immediately thoughts turned to vaccination. „That seemed only logical to us”,

I was so excited about my sold out Cyprus villa weekend this weekend. Woke up feeling fine and then within an hour I had fully body shakes, all my joints seized and I was struggling to breathe and was cold to the bone with a persistent headache and dizziness.

I was convinced I'd come down with Covid!

Mum and dad came to look after me and took me for a covid test, which thankfully was negative... but it still doesn't explain what the problem is.

Unfortunately this now means I am having to postpone my Cyprus villa weekend and I am

Contacting everyone individually to apologise.

Thank fully the villa owners are happy for the whole thing to just be moved.

Now, after an IV, I'm off to get full blood work done to see if we can figure out what the problem is.

I am beside myself and really find this hard to take in. Stephanie Dubois has taken a bad reaction to the Covid vaccine which attacked her platelets and caused a brain haemorrhage. She was in a coma but sadly she passed away today.

Stephanie, a brilliant model stayed with us just last year and I took many photos of her at my home studio and around our great city. Beautiful and so friendly. RIP Stephanie. We will all miss you 😭

Tragic: 14-Year-Old Israeli American Girl Suffers and Dies from COVID Vaccine – Makes a Video of Her Story Five Days Before Her Death

By Jim Hoft
Published January 7, 2022

Sarah Jessica Blattner, a 14-year-old Israeli American girl with an underlying health condition, died in her sleep on October 12th reportedly from a heart attack after receiving one dose of the Pfizer vaccine five months earlier.

According to a Facebook post, Blattner's mom, Ilana, shared that they need to give her the COVID vaccine because she is at risk due to her underlying health condition. "It was important for us to give her the vaccine due to low lung capacity due to scoliosis (spinal curvature) that developed from a young age (because of an oncological disease from which she suffered up to two years old)."

Ten days before the vaccination she underwent surgery that was supposed to improve her leg rest and her posture. It is important to understand that immediately after the same surgery she went and everything was fine. A week after the vaccine she suddenly couldn't stand or walk and the doctors who tested her said it was a neurological phenomenon related to the vaccine and it would pass. And yet, she worked and restored great within two months.

On October 12th she came back from school, I was shopping with her and she went to sleep. At 4am I walked into her room, she couldn't fall asleep so I covered her in a blanket and stayed with her until she fell asleep. At 8:30 am I walked into her room and she was no longer alive.

Only then did I remember that a few days ago she complained about strong heartbeats and I thought she was probably stressed because of school. I didn't think for a moment that there was a problem with her heart. There never was.

Doctors said she probably had a heart attack or something electrical in her heart. We didn't agree on the post-death opening.

12-Year-Old Child In Germany Dies 2 Days After Receiving The Pfizer COVID-19 Vaccine

Coroner: Another cause of death cannot be ruled out

According to the preliminary autopsy protocol, experts from the Institute of Forensic Medicine at the University Medical Center Hamburg-Eppendorf considered it likely that the death was due to the vaccination. "We are confronted with a particularly tragic case here," said the head of the health department, Kai Dehne.

Mobile vaccination teams withdrawn

The child died shortly after the second vaccination with the Biontech / Pfizer vaccine. Because of the close temporal connection, the district health department had ordered an investigation. According to information from the NDR in Lower Saxony, the State public prosecutor currently sees no reason to investigate the case. According to information from NDR Lower Saxony, Cuxhaven's district administrator Kai-Uwe Bielefeld (independent) has withdrawn the mobile vaccination teams from the schools. They had been out and about for days to vaccinate children and adolescents.

Five suspected cases by the end of September

According to its own information, the PEI recorded a total of five such suspected cases by the end of September, which relate to deaths of children and adolescents two to 24 days after vaccination with the Biontech / Pfizer product.

First, thank you David for posting this. I've been trying to stay off of Social media because everyone has an opinion on whether or not to get the vaccine. I'm the widow of David's brother. Here is my story. Luke received his first vaccine on May 14th. After he received his first moderna shot he was complaining about his chest hurting. His heart hurt. His personality and health started drastically changing after receiving the first shot. He just didn't feel well and anyone who knew Lucas knew he would never complain, that just wasn't him. He received his second vaccine on 6/11 at 10:30 am. When he returned home he looked horrible. He was pale, pasty and couldn't remember anything. I was watching him lose his thought processes before my eyes. He kept saying his chest hurt and had a fever with aches. I kept telling him to rest and he said he was fine. I saw and spoke to my husband for the last time at 3:59 pm. He said he was going to send out a couple of emails/make calls and come down to rest. At 4:50 pm I'm carrying our 7 week old son up stairs to check on him. I couldn't find him anywhere until I opened the closet door and found him blue lying on the floor. I screamed and grabbed my phone to call 911. I started doing CPR waiting for the Ambulance to arrive. He was in cardiac arrest. The whole time I praying for Jesus to bring him back to us. They pronounced him dead 5 min after arriving at the hospital. The coroner said the autopsy will take up to 4 months. I still have not received the death certificate or His death is still under investigation.

ASHA worker dies in Andhra, family alleges adverse event due to COVID-19 vaccine

An ASHA (Accredited Social Health Activist) worker named Vijayalakshmi died in the Government General Hospital in Guntur, Andhra Pradesh, on Sunday. While hospital authorities said that she suffered a brain stroke, her fellow workers and family have expressed apprehensions that she died days after she was given the COVID-19 vaccine. However, government officials have said that the exact cause of death will only be known after the post mortem.

Vijayalakshmi, who was 42, worked as an ASHA in Tadepalli. Her son Sharath told the media that she was healthy before she was given the vaccine on Wednesday, January 20, at the Tadepalli PHC (Primary Health Centre). "She was fine on Wednesday. On Thursday, she said she felt tired, and went to sleep at night saying she was feeling dizzy. Later around 2 am, she got a fever, her blood pressure went down and her condition worsened. Private hospitals refused to admit her, saying it could be an adverse event from the vaccine and told us to go to Guntur GGH."

Sharath also alleged that since his mother was admitted to the GGH, hospital authorities did not communicate her health status and treatment details to her kin properly, until they held an agitation.

Tim Zook's last post on Facebook brimmed with optimism. "Never been so excited to get a shot before," he wrote on Jan. 5, above a photo of the Band-Aid on his arm and his COVID-19 vaccination card. "I am now fully vaccinated after receiving my 2nd Pfizer dose."

Zook, 60, was an X-ray technologist at South Coast Global Medical Center in Santa Ana. A couple of hours later, he had an upset stomach and trouble breathing. By 3:30 p.m. it was so bad his colleagues at work walked him to the emergency room. "Should I be worried?" his wife, Rochelle, texted when she got the news. "No, absolutely not," he texted back. "Do you think this is a direct result of the vaccine?" she typed. "No, no," he said. "I'm not sure what. But don't worry."

There were suspicions of COVID and a diagnosis of congestive heart failure. Zook was put on oxygen, then — just four hours later — a BiPAP machine to help push air into the lungs. Multiple tests came back negative for COVID.

Shortly after midnight on Jan. 7, the hospital called. Zook was in a medically induced coma and on a ventilator to help him breathe. But his blood pressure soon dropped and he was transferred to UC Irvine Medical Center. "On Friday I get a call, 'His kidneys are failing. He needs to be on dialysis. If not, he could die — but there's also a chance he might have a heart attack or stroke on dialysis because his blood pressure is so low,'" Rochelle Zook said.

By 4 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 9, Zook had gone "code blue" twice and was snatched back from the brink of death. There was a third code blue in the afternoon. "They said if he went code blue a fourth time, he'd have brain damage and be a vegetable if he survives," Rochelle Zook said.

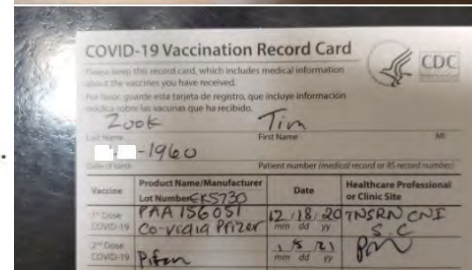

Later that day, Tim Zook died.

Rachel McKinney, 35, leaves behind her husband Kevin, stepson and two sons aged 8 and 12, after her tragic death on April 3.

The care home nurse from Stockport began developing symptoms of confusion, and slurred speech in February this year.

She had received both doses of the Pfizer vaccine in December and January and reported classic side effects, her sister Gemma said.

But a month later, her family became increasingly concerned as she displayed signs of a stroke, and Rachel was advised by 111 to attend Stepping Hill Hospital.

Due to Covid restrictions, her family were not allowed to accompany Rachel, and received a text to say she'd had an MRI scan which showed she had inflammation of the brain.

After arriving at Salford Royal Hospital, Rachel started suffering from seizures, and a decision was made to place her into a coma.

Man dies after developing autoimmune disease from vaccine

A man with local ties died Jan. 28 after doctors say his second COVID vaccine caused an immune response that led to the development of an autoimmune disease.

Brandon Pollet, 33, was born and raised in LaPlace and lived in St. Charles Parish for 10 years before moving to Ponchatoula.

"Brandon had no prior medical history," Brandon's wife Jessica Pollet said. "After his second Pfizer vaccine, Brandon developed a headache right away then fever 48 hours after." His first hospitalization was Oct. 21 – Nov. 7.

"He was worked up for hemophagocytic lymphohistiocytosis, or HLH, but it was ruled out and he was diagnosed with a rare autoimmune disease called Still's Disease," Jessica said. "After discharge, Brandon went home for about a month and was then re-hospitalized Dec. 14."

"He received the HLH protocol treatment, which included chemotherapy," she said last week. "Unfortunately, none of the usual treatments have worked. The doctors have agreed that the COVID vaccine caused an immune response that led to the development of the autoimmune disease and HLH."

The father of my children died. Dropped dead. In front of them. At 2 and 6 years old they lost their daddy. Traumatically. Brandon's death shook our community. I have been very open about every aspect of it. From posting 12 hours after his death, to continuing to share our story, and all aspects of my journey through grief. You, the community, have encouraged everything about this. This will be the biggest thing I share. Listen closely.

Brandon died of Lymphohistiocitic myocarditis.

This was determined by the Ontario Coroner's Office at Kingston General Hospital. Because of the absolute shock of a healthy, active 34 year old man dropping dead, his body was sent to Kingston for a full and extensive autopsy. The results can take several months, and I have just recently received the full report (which had to be formally requested).

When they eventually gave the cause of death, it shocked both the local coroner and our family doctor. It was assumed he died of a cardiomyopathy — a genetic condition that he would have been born with and gone undiagnosed. This was not the case.

Lymphohistiocitic myocarditis is caused by a virus. His heart was extensively damaged. There was so much scar tissue, that it literally couldn't pump another beat. I had no chance at reviving him. The official report states that his entire heart was damaged — not one ventricle or one area — top to bottom damaged. Fully attacked, for multiple months. Brandon did not have covid.

SYNOPSIS

The decedent was found unresponsive in his bedroom after his mother was checking on his welfare long after he was supposed to wake in the morning. The decedent was pronounced dead at the scene due to obvious death. The decedent had been in good health with no medical history and had received his second Pfizer COVID-19 Vaccination approximately two days before his death.

The decedent's body was transported to the Sonoma County Morgue Facility, where he was registered for a postmortem examination by a forensic pathologist.

After extensive research, additional testing, and collaboration with numerous other entities, the cause of death was determined to be: "STRESS CARDIOMYOPATHY WITH PERIVASCULAR CORONARY ARTERY INFLAMMATION (hours to days), due to, UNKNOWN ETIOLOGY IN SETTING OF RECENT PFIZER-BIONTECH COVID-19 VACCINATION (days)." There were no other significant conditions contributing to the death listed.

Since the etiology of the stress cardiomyopathy with perivascular coronary artery inflammation was unknown but was in the setting of a recent Pfizer-Biontech Covid-19 vaccination, I mannered this death as "UNDETERMINED," which was consistent with the circumstances and cause.

Popular Devon dad and footballer died 11 days after AstraZeneca jab

Coroner's court revealed how dad Adam Bounds suffered a severe and rare reaction to the Covid-19 vaccine, which led to his death in Derriford Hospital

A Devon dad died of a severe brain-bleed in Derriford Hospital just 11 days after receiving the AstraZeneca vaccine, an inquest has heard.

On arrival at the Royal Devon and Exeter Hospital he underwent a CT scan which revealed an acute right-frontal lobe haemorrhage, which caused compression of the brain stem. He was then transferred to Derriford Hospital for neurosurgery.

However during the operation, which noted that his brain had become "very swollen and very tense", the surgeon found there was no improvement, despite the removal of the blood.

A decision was then taken by the neurosurgeon not to continue with the craniotomy further "due to futility as to the appearance of the very swollen and very tense brain and the absence of response to the haematoma evacuation was associated with a negligible chance of survival and recovery."

He said Mr Bounds' diagnosis was "vaccine-induced thrombotic thrombocytopenia" and it was noted that he had received the AstraZeneca vaccine "11 days beforehand".

Sporty plumber, 26, DIES 12 days after getting the Pfizer Covid vaccine

Mr Nairn (pictured with Ms Wilson) started feeling 'heart flutters' on the evening of November 5, the same day he received the vaccine

While his cause of death remains undetermined, it is suspected the rare condition myocarditis, an inflammation of the heart, may be to blame.

He had fallen, his body was blocking the door, his full weight was against it and I couldn't get it open.

'I could just see him through a crack in the door, I could see that he was gone.'

Ms Wilson, who is vaccinated, said no matter what the post-mortem results show, the public should be more aware of the potential side effects so they know to seek help immediately

Mr Nairn started feeling 'heart flutters' on the evening of November 5, the same day he received the vaccine.

The symptoms continued and 12 days later, he started to suffer heart palpitations and an 'uncomfortable' feeling in his chest.

'We finally decided to head to the hospital at 3am for reassurance,' Ms Wilson said.

'Within moments, Rory went into cardiac arrest and died instantly in our home.'

Paramedics who arrived at the scene moments later tried desperately to revive Mr Nairn but after 40 minutes he was declared dead.

'He was 26 years old, with no pre-existing medical conditions. He played rugby, went diving and hunting on the weekends, worked hard as a plumber, and had his whole life ahead of him, Ms Wilson said.

dies the day after the vaccine: prosecutor investigates

Siena, 18 July 2021 – To a friend had sent a voice message shortly before get vaccinated, Thursday 15 July in Montevarchi, in the province of Arezzo where his family lives. In the afternoon he had sent another, always to the same person, saying they had injected her Moderna. It was the first dose. For this reason many, when yesterday they learned that Valentina Bencini, 49 years old had been found lifeless in her home in San Gusmè the day after the administration,

And right on causes of death is investigating the prosecutor's office. It will also shed light on the eventual correlation between the dose of Moderna injected into the woman last Thursday and her death. The prosecutor Valentina Magnini has opened a file (at the moment there is no crime report), obviously without suspects because the main hypothesis is in the current phase that of a death occurred from natural causes.

Gloucester resident dies within hours of receiving Pfizer vaccine

58-year-old Gloucester resident Drene Keyes was a gifted singer, a mother and grandmother of six.

Unexpectedly, Lisa lost her mother on Saturday within a couple of hours after Keyes received the Pfizer vaccine in Warsaw.

Keyes had diabetes, sleep apnea and was obese. Her job made her eligible for the first dose. So, on Saturday, Keyes got the Pfizer vaccine and spent 15 minutes in the mandatory observation period.

The coworker she was with said she was trying to get in the car and said, "Something is not right. Something's not right."

Doctors later on told Jones her mother couldn't breathe and started vomiting. They did administer an EpiPen, CPR and oxygen as well.

"They tried to remove fluid from her lungs. They called it 'flash pulmonary edema,' and doctors told me that it can be caused by anaphylaxis," said Jones. "The doctor told me that often during anaphylaxis, chemicals are released inside of a person's body and can cause this to happen."

"Why are we allowing people with underlying conditions to be guinea pigs for a vaccine that is still in clinical trials and emergency use?" Jones questioned.

Edinburgh mum found dead 48 hours after having second Covid vaccine

A MUM was found dead in bed 48 hours after having her second Covid vaccine.

Tragic Karen Tully, 59, felt dizzy and reported having a headache in the wake of her follow-up AstraZeneca jab.

The asthma sufferer, who only returned to her job as a police 999 call handler on Monday after shielding for a year, took paracetamol before husband Richard, 63, left for work on Thursday.

But he discovered his wife of 37 years lifeless when he returned three hours later to the couple's home in Colinton, Edinburgh.

The shattered school coach driver said: "She had her jab on Tuesday morning and went to work that night. But she wasn't feeling great so she came back early.

"I left for work about 6am on Thursday and gave her a cup of tea and a couple of tablets for her sore head. When I left she was fine. I came back just after 9am and that's when I found her."

Ambulance crews raced to the pad but Karen was pronounced dead at the scene.

Chief Superintendent Roddy Newbigging paid tribute to former medical secretary Karen, who joined the Bilston centre 15 years ago.

He said: "She provided a highly professional service. She will be sorely missed by all of her colleagues and the thoughts of Police Scotland are with her family."

The AstraZeneca vaccine has been linked with rare blood clots. But this is believed to be the first reported death of anyone so soon after having their second jab.

Last month, solicitor Neil Astles, 59, from Warrington, Cheshire, died two weeks after his first AZ dose in a suspected blood clot tragedy.

'Extremely fit' Sussex woman died after covid vaccine induced thrombosis

By India Wentworth
Wednesday, 15th June 2022,

Mrs Ashton had been married to Brian Ashton until 2007 and was in the middle of a six-month period staying with him due to moving house. Mr Ashton told the inquest Mrs Ashton was 'keen on exercise' and an 'extremely fit woman'.

He also said she was in 'excellent medical condition'. Mr Ashton said Mrs Ashton was 'reluctant' to get the vaccine due to worries about side effects. He said on May 16, six days after the vaccine was given, 'things started to go wrong'.

Mr Ashton said from May 16-23 she was feeling 'progressively worse' but due to her hard-working nature she postponed going to see her GP. Mr Ashton said she had 'monstrous headaches' and blood spots on her face which she covered with make-up.

However, on May 20 Mrs Ashton believed she was feeling well enough so went ahead with plans to go to London with her partner, Mark Kempster, that weekend (May 22-23). On the morning of May 23 Mr Kempster said Mrs Ashton did not eat much and they got the train back that afternoon. He got off at Wadhurst and Mrs Ashton stayed on until Hastings. That afternoon Mrs Ashton was taken to Hastings Conquest Hospital by Mr Ashton. East Sussex coroner Alan Craze said, "There was clear deterioration that day and it became a major problem quite quickly."

A CT scan was done on May 23 which was labelled as 'normal' and 'unremarkable' according to Medica, a company that deals with weekend radiology reports. However, the inquest heard that on the morning of May 24 Mrs Ashton's CT scan was viewed again at the request of Dr Athanasios Nakos and a blood clot in the brain was found. Dr Nakos said, "We were all very alarmed of the condition and provided all the treatments we could as soon as possible." The Conquest team arranged a transfer to University College Hospital (UCH) in London for a plasma exchange.

Dr Nakos said, "Plasma transfer at UCH was her only chance of survival but her condition 'continued to deteriorate'. Mr Ashton said he was told on May 24 that it was 'too dangerous' to try and relieve pressure on the brain due to a low platelet count. Dr Flower said palliative care started and she died at 4pm on May 25. Dr Flower concluded the hemorrhage was due to a vaccine induced thrombosis.

HURON, Ohio, January 27, 2021

A 39-year-old woman with no known comorbidities died unexpectedly in northern Ohio within 48 hours of receiving a COVID-19 vaccine, which was reportedly required by her employer.

Janet L. Moore, a nurse aide at Admirals Pointe Nursing Home (APNH) in Huron, was found unresponsive in her car outside her apartment complex on December 31 around 8:00 p.m., her brother Jacob Gregory told LifeSiteNews.

"She was coming home from work and as soon as she drove into her parking lot she passed away," he said. "According to her neighbors she wasn't feeling good directly after the vaccine, and then ever since the vaccine she was actually feeling nauseated, she'd have like migraines and stuff like that. And then, within 48 hours, she ended up passing away."

Gregory mentioned that his deceased sister, a mother of two sons, was required to receive this vaccine due to her nursing home employment.

A nursing home in Janesville, Wisconsin, which mandated their employees receive these experimental biological agents did in fact lay off workers who declined the injections.

Nearly a dozen employees were forced from their jobs due to the policy, and 27 wrote letters of complaint seeking to have the policy changed.

Their concerns included how this biological agent, which was rushed through development and testing, may have dangerous, unknown long-term effects, while others expressed worries about it affecting their pregnancy or fertility.

More generally they objected to being told they had to take a vaccine which was not approved by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA). While these vaccines have been given emergency use authorization by the FDA, neither has the full approval of the agency.

The U.K. government issued a 10-page report late last year that warned coronavirus vaccines should not be used by pregnant or breastfeeding mothers. With regard to their impact on fertility, the document simply states it is "unknown whether COVID-19 mRNA Vaccine BNT162b2 has an impact on fertility."

Safety concerns with these vaccines also include "allergic" and "potentially fatal reactions," that they may actually cause an increased vulnerability to the virus, and that, indeed, worries over long-term effects remain legitimate as these vaccines lack proper testing.

In addition, the FDA also drew up a document this fall listing the possible side-effects from a COVID-19 vaccine, including strokes, encephalitis, auto-immune disease, birth defects, Kawasaki disease, and death.

AUBURN (CBS13) – The Placer County Sheriff's Office announced Saturday that a person tested positive for the virus in late December and died hours after getting the vaccine on Thursday.

Now, there are questions from the community on the safety of the vaccine. An Auburn woman says she witnessed the tragedy first hand.

In a post on Facebook, she said she saw her grandfather's aid, a 56-year-old man, get the vaccine at a senior living facility on Thursday.

"Twenty minutes later he realized his legs felt tingly and he was having shortness of breath. He was wheeled out in an ambulance...1 hour later he was in ICU on a ventilator and three hours later he passed away," she wrote.

This is what the epidemiological bulletin of the Directorate of Epidemiological Surveillance \(DIVE\) informed, linked to the Superintendence of Surveillance in Health of Santa Catarina, belonging to the State Department of Health. state, regional and municipal immunization teams.

“This is a 28-year-old man, resident in Blumenau, who started symptoms (chills, feverish sensation and headache) on August 23, progressing to death on August 26, this outcome being triggered by a condition of thrombosis of central nervous system with associated thrombocytopenia”, informs the document, also mentioning the death of a 27-year-old woman, with reactions similar to Bruno’s, after taking the same injection.

“Both deaths were temporally associated with the AstraZeneca vaccine, with these two confirmed cases having their outcomes in relation to Thrombosis Syndrome with Thrombocytopenia (TTS)”, emphasizes the agency. “TST is defined by the presence of thrombosis/thromboembolism, usually in unusual locations such as the cerebral venous sinus or splanchnic veins with marked thrombocytopenia after vaccination with a non-replicating adenovirus vector vaccine against Covid-19.”

British Indian Cardiologist Links Father's Sudden Death To Pfizer Vaccination

A top London cardiologist who was one of the first to take the COVID-19 vaccine and promote it on British television now is calling for a suspension of the shots, arguing in a scientific paper that there is evidence the risk of harm is greater than any benefit.

A personal loss and tragedy made Dr. Aseem Malhotra look into the evidence on COVID vaccines, specifically the mRNA vaccines. In his recent research paper, Dr Malhotra, a National Health Service (NHS) trained cardiologist, has 'critically appraised' the true benefits and potential harms of the messenger ribonucleic acid (mRNA) coronavirus disease (COVID) vaccines. "I suffered quite a personal tragedy with the sudden death of my father in July last year. He was a very fit and well man. He was 73 years old. During the whole lockdown he was walking 10 to 15 thousand steps a day. He was very conscientious of his diet," he told a media outlet. "I had assessed his heart a few years earlier, and in fact he had actually improved his lifestyle since then," he adds. Dr Malhotra has said that his father's rapidly progressive coronary artery disease and sudden cardiac arrest was most likely due to the mRNA product. "His postmortem findings really shocked me. There were two severe blockages in his coronary arteries, which did not make any sense. As a cardiologist and intimately knowing my dad's lifestyle and health," he says. Not long after that data started emerging on the possible link between mRNA vaccine and increased risk of heart attacks. From a mechanism of increasing inflammation around the coronary arteries. "Re-analysis of randomised controlled trials using the messenger ribonucleic acid (mRNA) technology suggests a greater risk of serious adverse events from the vaccines than being hospitalised from Covid-19," writes Malhotra in peer-reviewed Journal of Insulin Resistance.

Doctors suspect COVID delayed immune response in young surgeon's death

Published: February 10, 2021

A young orthopedic surgeon with OrthoSouth who died early Monday, Feb. 8, may be the nation's first case of an adult who died of a delayed immune response to COVID and had received the vaccine.

Dr. J. Barton Williams died early Monday at Baptist Memorial Hospital-Memphis. He was 36.

"What we think so far is that he suffered from multi-system inflammatory syndrome (MIS)," said Baptist infectious disease expert Dr. Stephen Threlkeld.

The syndrome, more common in children, often looks and acts like Kawasaki disease, which causes inflammation in the blood vessels.

MIS is a reaction in someone who has had the COVID infection weeks or months earlier and mounted a severe, delayed immune reaction, which often causes significant damage to the organs.

Williams told doctors he was not aware of having had COVID and he tested negative several times in the hospital, which is not unusual, Threlkeld said,

Dr. Williams died Feb 8, 2021 yet the CDC has still not made any recommendation in testing for previous COVID infection prior to shots, which could prevent more MIS deaths.

Dr. Stephen Threlkeld helped treat him at Baptist Hospital.

Threlkeld says the disease quickly went from diagnosis to death.

"It was matter of days," Threlkeld said. "Just a tragedy."

The family of an Italian woman who died weeks after having the Oxford-AstraZeneca coronavirus vaccine have told Sky News they are taking legal action to establish whether the jab was to blame.

The case comes after 55-year-old Augusta Turiaco, from Messina, Sicily, received her COVID jab on 11 March before her condition worsened in the days following her vaccination.

The music teacher was keen to receive a jab as she worked with young people and even expressed her joy at getting the dose in a Facebook post, writing "fatto" - the Italian word for "done".

She developed a high temperature and a very bad headache, before going for blood tests and ultimately scans that identified blood clots.

She fell into a coma on 28 March and died on 30 March - 19 days after having the AstraZeneca injection.

"My sister was in excellent health, she did not take drugs because she did not have diseases such as hypertension or diabetes."

Medical records seen by Sky News showed blood clots had formed in Ms Turiaco's body, including in her brain.

Her platelet levels had fallen.

These are conditions also found in others who died after having the Oxford-AstraZeneca vaccine.

The legal proceedings launched by the family are just one of a number of cases across Europe being mounted against AstraZeneca.

The family's lawyer, Daniela Agnello, told Sky News: "The excellent state of health of Ms Turiaco, the absence of previous pathologies, the very short period of time between the administration of the vaccine, the appearance of the first illnesses and the very serious clinical picture and then death."

A photo of 24-year-old Tawy carrying his 67-year-old father Wahu on his back to a Covid-19 vaccine hut in the Brazilian Amazon has gone viral.

Tawy and Wahu who belong to the Zo'e indigenous community "live in relative isolation across dozens of village in an area equivalent to 1.2 million football fields in the northern Pará state" and "had to walk for hours through the forest to reach the vaccination site," BBC reports.

BBC notes, adding, "In September, Wahu died for reasons that remain unclear. Tawy remains with his family and has recently taken his third vaccine dose."

I was Pro 🙄, I spoke to all the doctors and got medical advice on what was the safest most responsible action to take in order to keep my family and baby safe. This story is the result of professional medical doctors.

I got the first P 🙄 on the 13th of September, I was 32 weeks pregnant, and I didn't have any reactions whatsoever, I just continued with life as usual.

I had the second 🙄 on the 4th October, I was 37 weeks pregnant, my baby was healthy and perfect through the entire course of my pregnancy and she was due any time now. 2 days after my second 🙄, I had a pre natal appointment. My baby was in the right position and I was told everything everything was fine.

On the 9th October I noticed my baby wasn't moving the way she usually would and a few days later I went in for an ultrasound and they found an Intraventricular Haemorrhage in my baby's brain. Which meant she had a blood clot.

Professional ballerina NaTalia Johnson (38) died unexpectedly 13 days following her shot. Her sister stated Natalia's cause of death is still unknown, but she most likely suffered a heart attack or stroke. Based on her sister's account, NaTalia held out her arms and became stiff...

Some minutes later, her body started tightening, that was the time I came to know that she was really in a distress, I immediately placed her on the floor and began performing CPR. And when she didn't respond I ran out and yelled to our neighbours to call 911.

Police and emergency personnel arrived so quickly and did all they could to revive her back but sadly she didn't make it.

Sonia Battaglia died: she had entered a coma a few days after the vaccine

March 18, 2021 12:16 pm

The health conditions of Sonia Battaglia, the 54-year-old hospitalized in intensive care at the hospital of the Sea, have worsened irreversibly until her death today. The confirmation came, hard as a boulder, from Raffaele Conte, son of Sonia Battaglia: "My mother is dead", he tells NapoliToday. It doesn't add anything else. Too much pain. Raffaele hoped until the last that the doctors of the hospital of the sea would be able to rescue his mother from the coma in which she had fallen. After the assessment with neurological criteria, carried out in the hospital, as per protocol, in the afternoon the death of the 54-year-old was confirmed and an autopsy was ordered.

On March 1, Sonia underwent the AstraZeneca vaccine, batch ABV5811, which was then withdrawn throughout Italy. Initially he had not experienced any particular problems, but in the following days his condition gradually worsened. At the moment, no correlation has been proven between the dose administered and the cerebral hemorrhage that hit her, then also followed by a heart attack, but the woman's family have been asking for the truth for days.

We met in high school and became the very best of friends. As sometimes happens, we grew apart yet always remained in each other's hearts. Years later we reunited; and we married in 2016. The love we shared more than made up for our shortened time together.

The morning of Apr 29, Steve experienced a heart attack that led to cardiac arrest. The Naperville Fire Department responded quickly and the EMTs worked to keep Steve breathing until they got him to Edward Hospital. EXCLUSIVE: Netflix has become the first major Hollywood studio to implement a blanket policy mandating vaccinations for the casts of all of its U.S. productions, as well as those who come into contact with them on set.

I hear the streamer just informed its production teams and partners that it will be requiring vaccinations for everyone working in "Zone A," which consists of the actors and those who come in close proximity to them.

The new return-to-work protocols agreed upon by the Hollywood unions and major studios last week give producers "the option to implement mandatory vaccination policies for casts and crew in Zone A on a production-by-production basis."

Maple Ridge woman compensated for mother's death from COVID-19 vaccine

Sep. 6, 2022

Maple Ridge's Franci DuPerron lost her mother to a COVID-19 vaccine.

She is one of the first people in Canada to be compensated for the death of a family member under Canada's Vaccine Injury Support Program. The payments of the program are not yet published.

DuPerron has lived in BC since the 1980s. In January 2021, she received a call from a retirement home in Windsor, Ontario, telling her that her 79-year-old mother had died.

Her mother had received a Moderna vaccine. Ten minutes later she found it difficult to breathe. Soon she was unconscious. A nurse gave her two EpiPens – one in a leg and one in an arm, but they couldn't save her.

"She was gone in 15 minutes."

This is my 18 year old healthy, athletic daughter. The first pic is of her and her boyfriend at prom 5 or so months ago. She just started college. She was so happy. She went to bed on September 8th. I found her passed away in her bed the next morning. She had been sleeping in the same position she always did. She had two Flavored cupcakes. Then she had a 3rd one for good measure 7 months before the 8th. I'm telling you all, she was healthy. With her crazy schedule; choir, theater, drill team, morning practices, rehearsals, football game halftime performances, plays, concerts, excelling in her honor dual credit classes and everything else she did there was no way she was sick. If she was she wouldn't have been able to do that. Still waiting to find out something.

"Cupcake" is a substitute word for the CV shot to prevent social media censorship. "Flavored" refers to Pfizer.

Her high school years proved transformative as she attended Naaman Forest High School. Her love for theatre branched off into a love for choir, dance, and drill team. She was able to bring her theatre, drill team, and choir families into one big family where every single person could feel loved and wanted.

This is the incredible impact that Kayla had on every single person she met.

Kayla graduated with more awards and recognitions than anyone could possibly imagine, including over $60,000 awarded in scholarships.

56-Year-old Greek Woman Dies Minutes After Second Pfizer Vaccine

By Patricia Claus June 18, 2021

The middle-aged woman, who was vaccinated during her 10:00 AM appointment in the morning of Friday at the hospital was pronounced dead just a few minutes after she received her second inoculation with the Pfizer coronavirus inoculation.

As is normal procedure, the woman was sitting in a separate area while she was monitored for negative developments that can occur after the vaccine administration.

Just ten minutes after she was vaccinated, she complained of a "burning" pain in her chest and her back, and collapsed.

Doctors on the scene tried to revive the woman, and even to intubate her, but stopped their frantic efforts one hour after she collapsed.

The woman's death is particularly poignant since she and her husband had moved from the capital city of Athens to the village of Kertezi, Kalavrita, in order to feel safer during the pandemic.

According to forensic doctors, the death of a young woman was related to the AstraZeneca vaccination

It is one of those tragic stories that happened during the vaccination campaign against the coronavirus: According to the Herford district, a 32-year-old woman died in connection with a vaccination with Astrazeneca. According to Wednesday's announcement, an immune reaction to the vaccine led to the death of Dana Ottmann, according to a finding by the University of Greifswald. The cause was therefore a coagulation disorder with bleeding into the brain.

Her mother now expressed dismay at the death of her daughter, who worked as a psychologist. On March 9, she found them lifeless in the bathroom, as Petra Ottmann told the "Westfalen-Blatt". Because the 66-year-old was afraid that something might be covered up when her

Wigan dad seeks answers after daughter died following Covid-19 vaccine dose

Vanessa Newton, from Skelmersdale, died in Wigan Infirmary on March 2 at the age of just 45.

Special needs teacher Vanessa had received her first dose of the AstraZeneca vaccine on Valentine's Day and was admitted to hospital on February 25 after she developed severe abdominal cramps.

However, from the Tuesday evening until the Thursday, when she went to A&E, she had abdominal cramps so severe that Mr Jones said she told him they were like labour pains.

She was admitted to hospital for a scan to be done on the Friday and Mr Jones said that returned showing she had blood clots in several organs. He spoke to her over the weekend when she felt a little better but on the Tuesday morning she was booked in for another emergency scan after being in severe pain from around 5.30am. Vanessa died between 11am and noon that day.

Dr. Vincent Wang

Erica speaking about the loss of her Husband to the Pfizer Booster Vaccine:

My Husband was a retired Infection Disease Doctor. After he got his third Pfizer Shot (Booster), he felt dizzy, low pressure and fainted on the stairs during Sep 5th. My husband passed away in the middle of last month because of the Covid-19 Vaccine.

His doctor didn't give him time to go to hospital. He felt better on Sep 15th, but he passed away in the early morning on Sep 16th during deep sleep.

We have been busy contacting the complex medical system in the United States to obtain his medical records, and we have also completed our own pathological anatomy (non-suicide and crime must be at our own expense), but the report will take six to seven weeks to get the results. It's been almost a month, and we haven't received a death certificate, so he can't be cremated yet.

We also required a private autopsy and reported this to the CDC and Pfizer. So far, we didn't get any compensation.

He was given NO treatment by the medical community..... his MD told him to drink more water!

We have lost my two kids' father, our financial support, and I have lost my dearest love. So, his departure has hit us very hard and we're still weeping.

We came to the United States two and a half years ago during the summer, from Taiwan. We did not have any relatives and it took great courage to come to America at the age of fifty.

Simoes was intubated in the ambulance and was taken to Harborview Medical Center in Seattle. Thirty minutes later he was declared dead, Henrietta said.

"The pathologist said Victor was not dilated, did not have an aneurysm and did not have high blood pressure. He also didn't have the normal things that would lead to dissection."

Michael "Mike" Anthony Granata

Michael, a longtime resident of Gilroy, passed away on November 1, 2021. Never a kinder more gentle man did I know than my husband, Michael.

For those who knew Mike, you know that he was a good and honest man. He was kind, considerate, and always polite.

Mike was adamant that people know what happened to him that caused his early and unexpected death. Message from Mike: "Many nurses and non-nursing staff begged me and my wife to get the truth out to the public about the Covid-19 vaccines because the truth of deaths from the vaccine was being hidden within the medical profession. I promised I would get the message out. So, here is my message: I was afraid of getting the vaccine for fear that I might die. At the insistence of my doctor, I gave in to pressure to get vaccinated. On August 17th I received the Moderna vaccine and starting feeling ill three days later. I never recovered but continued to get worse. I developed multisystem inflammation and multisystem failure that medical professionals could not stop. My muscles disappeared as if to disintegrate. I was in ICU for several weeks and stabbed with needles up to 24 times a day for those several weeks, while also receiving 6 or 7 IVs at the same time (continuously). It was constant torture that I cannot describe. I was no longer treated as a human with feelings and a life. I was nothing more than a covid vaccine human guinea pig and the doctors excited to participate in my fascinating progression unto death. If you want to know more, please ask my wife. I wished I would have never gotten vaccinated. If you are not vaccinated, don't do it unless you are ready to suffer and die."

Mike did not deserve the pain and suffering he endured. He was a good man and deserved better.

39-year-old Marilyn Gotay received her Moderna vaccine as a prerequisite to donating her kidney to her husband Amauriz "Mo" Gonzalez, who was in end stage renal disease. Having been deemed healthy enough to donate and being a good match for her husband, Marilyn was required to get the COVID vaccine to move forward with the operation. Now it is possible Marilyn's husband will die without her kidney, and their two children (one is autistic) will be orphaned.

She was an amazing partner, mother, daughter, sister and friend. Marilyn was born on July 6, 1981 to Edward "Bolo" Gotay and Eva Roldan-Gotay. She met the love of her life, partner and best friend Amauriz "Mo" Gonzalez, January 5, 2000 and together they had two beautiful children; Edward (16 and autistic) and Alexia (11). Mo is currently on the NYC waitlist for a Kidney transplant as he suffers from end stage renal disease and is on dialysis and disability.

Marilyn was caring, thoughtful, beautiful and loving. Everyone who met her was touched by her ability to be present and listen, she was a mother first, and she was everyone's best friend and the glue that kept everyone together. Her health was in good standing with no underlining conditions, as she was being actively evaluated to match with Mo as a potential kidney donor.

As the whole world around us has been grieving some kind of loss or tragedy during this difficult year, nothing could of prepared the Gotay family for such a loss at the hands of the newly found COVID VACCINATION. As she prepared to become an organ donor, and getting CLEARED as being a healthy match for a loved one she was informed she must receive the covid vaccine first. April 9th was the day of injection, later that evening little did anyone know she would say her last goodnights to her sisters, the last i love you's to her children as they went to sleep. 4:30am, April 10th, her 11 year old daughter found her face down unresponsive. She was pronounced DOA. An amazing mother, loving sister, aunt and friend she was.

Après une mise au placard, je peux enfin de nouveau m'exprimer 😞
Triste mois de juillet avec la perte subite de mon fils Ludovic dit Lulu ou Ludo et que bon nombre d'entre vous connaissaient bien 😞
Nous étions complices tous les deux malgré des périodes de séparation nous nous appelions chaque jour ou presque.
Durant de nombreuses années il fut professionnellement à mes côtés et avait fini par nous rejoindre à la Baule en novembre dernier.
J'ai perdu une énorme partie de moi-même ce terrible jour de juillet et conserverai une grande place dans mon cœur à ce fils adoré.
Pour mon petit-fils Melvin qui n'a que 13 ans, je dois pourtant continuer à vivre et faire honneur à mon Ludo 😞
Repose en paix mon bébé 🙏

Ludo's Story Told by his Father Jean Francois

My son received his second Moderna injection on Thursday, July 22nd at around 5pm. The next morning he informed me of pain in the arm where the injection had been done.
The next day Saturday 24th around 12noon we he tried to wake him and my son wasn't moving and blood had spilled his nostrils!
Despite the response of the firemen I urgently contacted, they could only see his death 😞
I lost a huge part of myself this terrible day in July and will hold a great place in my heart for this beloved son.
For my grandson Melvin (Ludo's Son) who is only 13 years old, yet I have to keep living in honour my Ludo
Rest in peace my baby

On April 1st, my mother was vaccinated with the J&J vaccine. April 3rd her symptoms began. A CT of her brain in the ER would later show multiple areas of SAH (subarachnoid hemorrhage) and a very large ruptured cerebral aneurysm. This aneurysm was one of the largest the vascular surgeon had ever seen. Yet my mom was completely asymptomatic until 2 days after her vaccination? These areas of hemorrhaging, the physicians were adamant my mom had fallen and hit her head, with no bumps no bruising at all and even after my mother REPEATEDLY DENIED HITTING HER HEAD, WHILE COMPLETELY ALERT AND ORIENTED. Her cerebral aneurysm was successfully coiled and she was completely herself after surgery. But these areas of hemorrhaging kept forming, her cerebral edema would worsen to the point she needed a burr hole craniotomy to relieve pressure. She fought and fought until the very end.

This vaccine is causing severe cerebrovascular congestion. Which is exactly what happened to my mom. I know it caused not only her aneurysm and the rupture but all of the UNEXPLAINED areas of hemorrhage which in turn caused the swelling. I haven't seen a single study in the US reviewing any of this.

My mom was healthier than me. And now I have to live my life, my children who she loved with her whole heart, have to live their life without her.

My good friend and neighbor of 4 years, Walt Chatham of the Placer County Sheriff's office, died suddenly, three days after receiving a COVID-19 vaccination. I was told it was a blood clot. I'm not commenting on the vaccine's safety, but the timing is highly suspect to me.

Placer County Sheriff's Office
June 7

It is with great sadness that we announce the sudden passing of retired Placer County Sheriff's Deputy Walt Chatham.

Walt began his career at the sheriff's office in 1976, where he served the Placer County community for nearly a decade. He briefly left the agency, but returned in 1987. During the course of Walt's career, he held various positions within corrections and patrol. Walt was an FTO and a hostage negotiator. His passion for kids also allowed him to serve as a D.A.R.E. officer and S.R.O. When he wasn't assigned to the schools, he worked Marine Patrol (Marine 1). During overtime opportunities, Walt also served as a bailiff in the courts. Walt was a decorated deputy; he was awarded the Gold Medal of Valor in 1992 and the Silver Medal of Valor in 1989. He retired from PCSO in 2007.

1st vaccination

I mean this with all of my heart, and it is truly spoken with love. If you don't believe in vaccinations, I genuinely think you are an idiot. Like, legitimately dense. A moron. I hope that every soda you order is flat. I hope that one of your boot-heels has a click and you can't figure out why. I hope that you hit every red light. I hope that when you wake up in the morning and head outside to snag the paper from the lawn, you walk through your front door and into a spider web. But primarily, I hope none of your family or friends suffer from your complete failings as a functional member of society.

Death after vaccine: Vinessen Magon wanted to emigrate to Canada

This 20-year-old inhabitant of Grand-Baie was obliged to be vaccinated at AstraZeneca to be able to travel to Canada in order to ensure a better future for his family. Since his first dose on August 18, he has complained of excruciating headaches. He died on Wednesday at Victoria Hospital in Candos. His family lodged a complaint with the Grand-Baie police station.

His relatives say that he did not want to have the vaccine, but in order to be able to take the plane, he had to comply with this requirement. Thus, accompanied by his twin brother, Vanessen, and a cousin, they went to the clinic to be vaccinated. The doctor explained to them beforehand that the possible side effects of the vaccination were fever and body aches. Upon returning home, Vinessen Magon began to have headaches. "Mo'nn dir li bwar enn panadol, li pou kalmé. Mo zanfan zamé inn won his bann douler la. He couldn't stand them. He was grabbing his head and screaming," says his mother.

Unable after a few days, he went to a doctor, who found nothing abnormal and prescribed painkillers. The practitioner advised her to see an ophthalmologist as the headaches could be related to her eyesight. What he did. The ophthalmologist consulted found nothing abnormal in his eyes. As the appalling headaches persisted, on Saturday he went to SSRN Hospital, where he was informed that he would undergo a CT scan.

On Saturday night, the young man allegedly suffered an epileptic seizure, according to staff members. He was then transferred to Victoria Hospital, where he was placed in the intensive care unit. He was in a comatose state

Morto dieci giorni dopo Pfizer

Mistero sul malore improvviso che a Trento ha stroncato un giovane. Stava bene, non aveva patologie, era uno sportivo. La madre sospetta dell'iniezione e presenta denuncia

Quando i sanitari del 118 l'hanno trovato privo di vita nel bagno della sua abitazione di Trento, come causa del decesso hanno scritto «malore a domicilio». Ma la mamma di Traian Calancea, ventiquattrenne moldavo iscritto alla facoltà di economia e commercio, non crede alla fatalità. It is with a heavy heart that I share the passing of my nephew—Joseph Sidney Mishkin, a completely healthy 35 YoA, hard working single father of twins. Joey, as he was called, suffered a massive heart attack hours after getting the #pfizer vaccine. Joey didn't want to get the vaccine but he also did not want to get fired from his job for not getting it, so he did.

Hours later, while chilling by the pool at his new home, his heart stopped. The condition, which the vaccine is reported to cause, is know as #myocarditis, which inflames, enlarges, and weakens the heart muscle to the point of sudden death.

Rescue arrived and restarted his heart but it failed again on the way to the hospital. Upon arrival, it restarted; failed; and restarted again.

Joey remained unconscious and on a ventilator for several days before doctors pronounced him brain dead.

In an effort to honor his wishes, Joey remained on a ventilator while the hospital arranged to donate his organs; however, his heart gave out a final time before being able to do so.

Teen girl dies after second Pfizer vaccine shot

By Thuy Quynh January 20,

A 9th grader in the northern province of Phu Tho died Tuesday after getting her second Pfizer vaccine dose, the local medical center said Thursday.

She had her second dose last Monday. Her mother had told health workers about the girl's side effects following her first shot, but they asked her to get the second shot anyway. Twenty minutes following the second shot, the girl experienced tightness in her chest, dizziness, difficulty in breathing and seizures.

She received emergency treatment on the spot before being transferred to the Ha Hoa District medical center. On arrival, she began to vomit blood, fell into a coma and her heart stopped. Her family received news that she died Tuesday morning.

Baby drowned in three inches of bathwater when her lawyer mother fainted a day after taking AstraZeneca vaccine

By TOM PYMAN FOR MAILONLINE
PUBLISHED: 06:10 EDT, 13 May 2022

A baby tragically drowned in three inches of bathwater when her mother fainted 24 hours after taking the AstraZeneca Covid vaccine, an inquest has heard.

Lawyer Louise Atkinson blacked out as she bathed nine-month-old Eleanor, nicknamed Ellie, the day after receiving the first dose of the jab.

Her husband James came home from a trip to the dentist and pushed open the bathroom door to discover it had been blocked by his unresponsive wife on the floor. To his horror, he saw their baby daughter face down in the bath turning blue.

Mr Atkinson picked her out of the water and woke his wife by grabbing hold of her. He then laid Ellie on the bathroom floor where he began CPR while calling 999 on speakerphone.

Ellie was sat in a bath seat in three inches of water

She said she experienced another black-out while visiting Ellie's grave the day after receiving her second Oxford-Astrazeneca jab in June 2021.

A passer-by saw her fall to the ground and came to her aid.

Vaccino Astrazeneca, Fdl to the Minister of Health: "Evaluate the suspension"

Two deaths occurred in the Catania area after the administration of the anti Covid serum: the Meloni party has announced a parliamentary question. A member of the navy and a policeman on duty in Catania died a few days later: the prosecutor is investigating

Following the death of Stefano Paternò , a Navy soldier, originally from Misterbianco and of Davide Villa, a policeman on duty in Catania, the deputy Edmondo Cirielli of Fratelli d'Italia intervened, announcing a parliamentary question on the Astrazeneca vaccine. Both Paternò and Villa had in fact received the first dose of the anti Covid serum and there are investigations by the prosecutor in progress.

"I will present a parliamentary question to the Minister of Health Roberto Speranza on the possible danger of the Astrazeneca vaccine, whose administration has been suspended as a precaution in Austria, Estonia, Lithuania, Luxembourg and Latvia and today also in Denmark - says the Fdl parliamentarian. - The situation is also very worrying in Italy, given that two members of the Sicilian law enforcement agencies died suddenly after receiving the very first dose of this vaccine in recent days. Therefore, I will urgently ask Minister Speranza on the basis which guarantees the Government has entrusted to AstraZeneca for the supply of vaccines and what actions it intends to take to protect the health of Italians ".

"It is with a heavy heart that we announce the unexpected passing of Blanche Mamo" Ibragg Parish church said on Sunday. And of course, it was unexpected. Blanche Mamo, 67, was perfectly healthy up until last week.

Her husband, Albert Mamo is in shock. He's just lost his wife, a much loved figure in the community who taught catechism to generations of young people. Until her retirement 8 years ago she was a dedicated teacher at the Paola government junior school. Later she took up a part time role as teacher at San Anton School.

Albert recounts the story, speaking to SideStreet about the events leading up to her death:

13th March

On the day he and his wife were vaccinated, Albert felt fine except for a sore arm. His wife, on the other hand, immediately started to report feeling exhausted and feverish.

19th March

Blanche Mamo is feeling feverish again, this time for three consecutive days. Suspecting she may have contracted COVID, she took a PCR test and the result was negative.

27th March

Ms. Mamo was still feeling unwell and now her speech had become incoherent. The following day, she woke up late and could not eat or drink. Albert asked one of his daughters to call her mother and speak to her. His daughters confirmed that their mother was not herself. She was clearly suffering from something that made her unable to speak and communicate properly.

28th March

Albert asks his wife to join him to church so that they could pray. She stood up, put on her mask and proceeded to the door in her underwear. Panicked, Albert called a doctor who advised him to take her to the Hospital Emergency. She was immediately diagnosed with a blood clot in her brain.

The next day

Blanche Mamo lies in a hospital bed. She is receiving blood platelet transfusions is largely unresponsive.

Easter Sunday

On Easter Sunday at about 00.30 hrs Albert was informed that her condition had become critical, he rushed to hospital to find her taking her last breath. She passed away at 01:50hrs.

DMX Received Covid Vaccine Days Before Heart Attack – Family Says NO DRUGS!

April 8, 2021

Rap legend DMX, real name Earl Simmons, is currently in the ICU after suffering from a massive heart attack. Early reports speculated that DMX's condition may have been brought about because of an alleged drug overdose.

But MTO News spoke with a member of the Simmons family who believes that it was NOT drugs that caused the heart attack.

In an EXCLUSIVE interview, MTO News spoke with DMX' family member who told us that the rapper received the COVID vaccine about a week before he suffered from the heart attack.

DMX's family member told MTO News, "[DMX] got the vaccine when they opened it up to people over 50. He got it so that he could go travel and perform, stuff like that."

The family member explained, "Everyone [in the news] keeps saying that [DMX] had a drug overdose. How do they know. I'm in the family and no doctor told me anything about an overdose."

CDC says it is NOT REQUIRED to vaccinate teachers to make it safe to return. Some teachers and support staff have been working in a classroom with kids since November. In fact we didn't have a choice whether or not we wanted to come back. We have plexiglass shields, plenty of PPE, its warm enough to open doors and windows.... Vons workers, postal workers, Costco workers...they come into contact with thousands of people in a day, (long before vaccinations) why do we think it's safe for them to be at work but not all teaching staff? Phase I, II and III teachers and support staff have been back and no one bats an eye.... Why is it safe for us to be there but not you?

Stephanie Wasil posted on Feb 15 that she did not want to take the vaccine and wanted to get back to her teaching job (in person), However, due to pressure from work and family, she took the Moderna shots. Her second one was 4/2/21 and on that day she developed a fever, headache, no appetite or energy. On 4/6/21 she wrote in her personal journal that she couldn't even walk 10 feet. On 4/10/21 she dialed 911 and sent a message to her ex-husband Zach "HELP" (he lives on the same property). He arrived finding her on the floor saying she couldn't breath. She was rushed to the ER where they worked on her for 3 hours before she passed.

19 health workers dead after COVID-19 vaccination; health experts demand investigation

The COVID-19 vaccination drive was kicked off on January 16 in India. Since then, at least 19 health workers have died post-vaccination. Doctors and public health experts write to the health ministry, demanding an investigation into the deaths.

On February 1, 47-year-old Mannu Pahan, a health worker from Ranchi in Jharkhand, died within 48 hours after being vaccinated against COVID-19. He died at the Medanta Hospital and his body has been sent for a post mortem.

Pahan is one of the 19 health workers in the country to lose his life after receiving the COVID-19 vaccination since the launch of COVID-19 immunisation drive on January 16.

While the government has denied any connection between the deaths and the vaccine, the country's public health officials, wrote to the Union ministry of health and family welfare on January 31, raising questions and demanding an immediate investigation into the deaths.

The letter also demanded that the minutes of AEFI committees formed at the national, state and district levels on adverse incidents arising post-vaccination, be made public. The letter drew attention to several facts: the death of health workers has occurred within a few hours to up to five days after taking COVID-19 vaccine; the deceased were aged between 23 and 56 years; media reports highlighted cardiovascular problems or brain trauma as the cause behind each of the deaths;

"So far, most of the cases of COVID-19 vaccine deaths have reportedly been due to cardiovascular and brain trauma. All these groups need to be examined immediately so that, at least, the reasons behind it are known," Amar Jesani, an independent consultant, researcher and teacher in bioethics and public health told Gaon Connection. He is also editor of Indian Journal of Medical Ethics, and one of the signatories of the letter. Jesani urged that the investigations be made public so that

Woman died of rare brain bleed after taking COVID-19 vaccine, coroner says

Mrs Lockwood, who had two sons Jayden (14) and Jax (7) was "kind, fun-loving and always the first on the dance floor."

A mother died from a "catastrophic" bleed on the brain caused by a rare side-effect of the Covid-19 vaccine, a coroner has concluded.

Kim Lockwood, 34, complained of an excruciating headache eight days after her AstraZeneca jab in March 2021.

Her condition quickly deteriorated and she was pronounced dead 17 hours after being admitted to Rotherham Hospital.

Ms Mundy said an MRI scan should have been arranged sooner, but this, combined with other measures such as a blood platelet transfusion and lumbar puncture would not have saved Mrs Lockwood due to the massive, "sudden and catastrophic" bleed on her brain.

At Doncaster Coroner's court, she recorded the cause of death as Vaccine-Induced Thrombotic Thrombocytopenia (VITT)

(UK) Government figures show the type of reaction Mrs Lockwood experienced is considered extremely rare. There have been 438 reported cases and 78 deaths

Lowenberg said Stonehouse thought she had the same symptoms many others were having after being vaccinated, then her health worsened.

OC woman's death after vaccination spurs concern from family

Fri, April 30, 2021, 2:38 AM

- The Orange County Coroner's Office is investigating the death of a woman who passed away several days after getting her second Moderna vaccine. The family says, the mother and grandmother was healthy before she got her shot, and that her sudden death came as a shock. Video Transcript:

- This Orange County son worries his mom died because of her second Moderna COVID-19 vaccine dose. A conversation with staff at the OC Coroner's Office about Griselda Flores' death raised red flags for Richard Cardenas and his family.

- They made it seem like this was, like, not the first call that they had.

- OC Assistant Chief Deputy Coroner Brad Olsen says, that's right. Olson tells Eyewitness News, a handful of deaths, including Griselda's are under investigation. Because they happened one to three days after the person got a COVID-19 vaccine dose.

- Cardenas says, his mom was a healthy, outgoing, hard working mother and grandmother.

- The day after her second shot on April 14 at a CVS in Orange, Griselda complained of the expected side effects, chills, body aches, and a fever. She looked really pale. She said she was tired, and was going home to sleep.

Two days after her second dose, Griselda's family says, they found her dead in her room.

NC woman died from massive brain aneurysm 2 days after getting Johnson & Johnson vaccine,

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (FOX 46 CHARLOTTE)- A local woman says her mother died two days after receiving the Johnson and Johnson vaccine. She believes the dose is what caused her mother's sudden death.

FOX 46 sat down with Allyson Hendrix, who said her mother was someone who helped other people out a lot and now that she's gone, Hendrix said she has a huge hole in her life.

Hendrix says her mom decided to get one of the COVID vaccines and settled on the Johnson & Johnson.

"She was like, 'I'll just go do that, it's easier, I don't have to do that, you know, two trips.' She got that on March 30." Then two days later, she was in the hospital.

"They couldn't figure out what was going on, so they did a CT scan and that's when they found all the bleeding on the brain," she said. "It was so massive at first that they thought it was actually two aneurysms, but it was only one. It was just so big."

"That night that, we decided to we had to end life support. We were sitting at my grandmother's house and the news was kind of turned down on low but I was reading the headlines and it said Johnson & Johnson vaccine put on hold and it was stopped," Hendrix said. Christina, 61, died after receiving Astra Zeneca's covid-19 vaccine. Doctors have determined that she was a healthy woman who after vaccination got a fatal coagulation disorder.

Christina's family is now demanding an apology from Astra Zeneca and the Medical Products Agency.

- This must not happen again. Christina must not just be a number in the statistics, says Daniel, one of Christina's sons.

On February 17, 61-year-old assistant nurse Christina was vaccinated with Astra Zeneca's covid-19 vaccine. She had felt anxious before the vaccination but still decided to take the injection in solidarity with the elderly she took care of at work.

Christina continued to feel unwell. She had a headache for several days - only to feel a little better one day - then the headache returned, now with cold sweats and nausea.

Gets worse for several days

One week after the vaccination, Christina had severe stomach problems. She vomited and had diarrhea. In addition, she suffered from double vision, something she had never had before.

It did not go over.

In the end, Christina only vomited bile and was not allowed to keep any food at all. She called her son Daniel in a panic.

- She said that "you have to drive me to the emergency room".

The next day, the doctors had managed to stabilize Christina's condition by adding two bags of platelets.

- The platelets were raised to a more stable level, Daniel explains.

But early Sunday morning, Christina's condition deteriorated drastically. She had a cardiac arrest and then a brain haemorrhage. Her doctor contacted her husband Thomas and explained that the situation was serious. He hurried to book a plane ticket home.

The doctors in charge explained to the family that they had not been able to determine a 100% cause of death, but that they had not been able to see any other probable cause than the vaccine.

The hypothesis is that the vaccine has caused a so-called disseminated intravascular coagulation, a condition in which the blood begins to coagulate too much and many blood clots form simultaneously in several places in the body. In the final stage, massive internal bleeding occurs.

The hospital reported the death to the Medical Products Agency as a suspected serious side effect of the vaccine. After the autopsy, it was established that Christina was a previously healthy woman without underlying diseases.

After the vaccination, she had suffered from six different life-threatening conditions, which occurred more or less in parallel with each other:

- Massive cerebral hemorrhage
- Myocardial infarction
- Plugs in the left lung
- Bleeding in and around the adrenal gland
- Heavy bleeding in the intestinal system
- Plugs in the venous system

Family left heartbroken after 'loving' father's sudden death

According to his family Pawel, who suffered with thrombosis, became ill three days after having his first dose of the AstraZeneca vaccine in early April.

She said doctors at the hospital informed her that by the time of Pawel's death he had developed blood clots in his lungs, heart, and brain.

On Pawel's death certificate it reads that he died of cerebral infarction contributed to by acute chronic thromboembolic pulmonary hypertension with patent foramen ovale. Cerebral infarction refers to damage to the brain due to loss of oxygen supply.

"But since the vaccine he became much worse, his veins bulged much more, and his legs at the bottom were twice as big as mine. Even if tried to walk a little bit he would vomit and have a nosebleed."

His family said while in intensive care in Cwmbran the doctors discovered some clots on Pawel's lungs which they attempted to clear before transferring him to the University Hospital of Wales in Cardiff where further clots were discovered on his heart.

On Tuesday, June 22, Agnieszka and Lukasz were asked to go to Cambridge where 10-year-old Lukasz spoke to his father for the final time.

Pawel died at the hospital on Thursday, June 24.

Mystery death of healthy student under investigation

By Natasha Donn - 8th August 2021

The family of 19-year-old university student Inês Rafael who died suddenly, five days after receiving her vaccination against Covid-19, believe there is a link between the two events.

As reports explain, only an autopsy can help unlock this mystery – and even then, discovering the cause of death may not answer the family's questions.

"Good morning. If you haven't heard yet a CT scan was done last night and showed dad had a stroke. They think possibly 2-3 days ago. He did not present with any symptoms prior intubation that the nurses are aware of. They have considered the cdc protocol for vaccine reaction and switched his heparin to lovenox (a different blood thinner). Dads Doctor verified with U of M doctors before starting. The doctor filed a report to the cdc but will need to update it with stroke information. (The CDC has received more reports of stroke following vaccine)

I didn't want this issue to interfere with the celebration for my Mother but the lack of communication from the Office of the Chief Medical Examiner for the State of Maryland and elected representatives at the State and County level is appalling. As you may know, exactly one week ago today, my Mother, Brenda Pettitt died unexpectedly at home. She died less than 24-hours after receiving the 2nd dose of the Moderna vaccination for COVID-19. Upon review of her medical history, the Office of the Chief Medical Examiner for the State of Maryland declared that my mother had died from "Natural Causes" and thus an autopsy was not required. Her death certificate was then presented to her Primary Care Physician (PCP) for review and signature. Upon review, the PCP adamantly disagreed with the Chief Medical Examiner's decision as they concluded that my Mother's medical history should have not caused sudden and unexpected death. Right now, there is a stalemate and my Mother's remains are currently sitting in limbo. The State of Maryland is refusing to acknowledge a link between her death and the vaccine.

Moradabad: Ward Boy Dies 30 Hours After Taking Covishield, ACOMO Denies Vaccine Caused Death

46-year-old Mahipal Singh, a ward boy at the Moradabad district hospital died about 30 hours after he received the Covishield vaccine. While his family members have alleged that he fell sick only after receiving the vaccine, Additional CMO of Moradabad district, Dr Dinesh Kumar Premi, while speaking to Outlook, said that Singh died due to a heart attack and that his death has nothing to do with the vaccine.

Which vaccine was he administered and when?

He was administered Covishield on January 16 at 1 PM at the District Main Hospital. He was kept in the hospital for observation for some time as we did with all the other vaccinated individuals. He didn't show any symptom of any side effect. At the time of his release from the hospital, he was completely fine and he had neither any fever nor any rashes or anything.

Then in the evening, he developed chest pain again and faced breathing issues. His family rushed him to the district hospital. He was admitted in the emergency ward and the doctors found him dead. He died on the way to the hospital.

Father of 2 passed away after taking Covid Vaccine

My wife's sister just lost her husband, a father of two kids, from blood clot that could potentially be caused by the covid vaccine.

When the covid vaccine became available, it was his high hope, and the only ticket to protect his family from covid and put an end to this pandemic. So he went to get the covid vaccine on Tuesday April 20th when he became eligible. After a couple days, his body started to react.

He was sweating heavily, he had chest pain, his body went numb and cold, he went to the ER but was discharged because the doctors didn't find his condition to be critical. His condition got worse and worse, until he could no longer endure it and collapsed. When arrived at the hospital, they found that blood couldn't flow to any of his organs, his organs were failing and his brain was damaged. His body pretty much died by the time he got to the hospital without any hope of recovery. All signs were shown as a result of blood clot.

Kelly Dunley, 38, died at the Royal Stoke Hospital on Monday (May 17) and will be sadly missed by all who knew her.

On Monday, Kelly collapsed and had a fit at home in Stoke and was rushed to hospital. While having a CT scan, Kelly had another fit and sadly, despite all care and efforts, she could not be saved and was pronounced dead a short time later.

Kelly, who is said to have had a history of blood clots, had suffered one in her leg after receiving the AstraZeneca Covid vaccine, and medical practitioners suspect she suffered another one on her lung.

Daughter says 75-year-old mother died after first COVID shot at medical center in Oregon

by Ambar Rodriguez, KTVL | Monday, May 24th 2021

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (KTVL) - The daughter of a Klamath Falls resident said her 75-year-old mother died less than 72 hours after receiving her first dose of the COVID-19 Moderna vaccine.

Carrie Creswell said her mother, Darlene Bartholomew was given her first dose on April 23 at Sky Lakes Medical Center. By Monday, April 26 her mother was found dead inside her home.

"She called me all excited that she was going to get her shot, she said she was going to an estate sale, out to lunch, and at 12:30 pm I am going to get my Moderna shot," Creswell said.

She said 45 minutes after Bartholomew received her first dose, her caretaker called Creswell to let her know her mother was not feeling well.

"The caretaker said she has chills everywhere, she's throwing up, she got her shot and she was fine before all of this," Creswell said.

Creswell said on Monday morning, April 26 while she was on her way to Oregon, she could not get ahold of her mother. She said she got ahold of the caretaker and asked her to check on Bartholomew.

"Everybody does video camera now, so the camera was on, I watched her go up the back stairs of my mom's house, go through the kitchen, in through the living room, when she turned the corner to go into my mother's room, all I saw was my mother's lips were white and she was gone," Creswell said.

AstraZeneca vaccine: 'Doctors had inkling it was the Covid jab', say family of blood clot victim, 51

EXCLUSIVE

inews.co.uk / April 15, 2021

Like so many others, Michelle Barlow was delighted to get her coronavirus vaccine. The mother-of-two and her husband, Ian, booked their appointments as soon as they got the call, knowing it was the right thing to do.

But their relief at finally being given the vaccination turned to concern when Michelle fell ill in the days after having the AstraZeneca (AZ) jab on 7 March.

Ms Barlow, 51, had flu-like symptoms in the first couple of days after her jab, which is a common side effect. But a week later she developed severe headaches, diarrhoea and sickness for which her GP gave her medication.

She got "progressively worse and worse" and – as reports started to emerge from around Europe of extremely rare side effects from the jab – she was admitted to hospital on 20 March.

She was pronounced dead three days after being admitted to hospital, and is one of at least 19 people who have died from unusual clots soon after having the vaccine.

The civil servant, who had no underlying health conditions, was found to have low blood platelets and two clots on her lungs.

Recalling the moment his wife was admitted to the Royal Albert Edward Infirmary, also known as Wigan Infirmary, Mr Barlow, 56, from Wigan, said: "It was a shock because Michelle was fit and healthy."

"She was active and always walking the dog. She told me that the doctors had said they had an inkling it could well be the vaccine."

According to her death certificate, the cause of her death was pulmonary embolisms and blood clots in her abdomen and portal vein. A coroner ruled she died from natural causes, which her family have asked to be reconsidered after more information about the vaccine's risks have emerged.

She told BBC News clinicians told her they were 99.9 per cent sure the clot was due to the vaccine and that her brother was extremely unlucky.

She said: "The human being, the sister in me, still feels absolutely furious and very angry that this has happened to my brother."

I also wanted to see my mom & didn't want to risk giving her covid. I didn't know that the vaccine is actually very risky for people with underlying conditions. my mom passed away on Friday... 1 week after getting her first Moderna vaccine. Her symptoms started the night she got her vaccine (seems to be exactly the same timing the rest of us start getting symptoms). She was a diabetic, had heart disease & kidney disease but all managed and not showing signs of sickness there. NIGHT one her blood sugar dropped and she passed out. We googled and it looked like in rare cases the vaccine could effect blood sugar of diabetics. Her dr told her to just change her insulin until symptoms subsided. Then her blood sugar was high for 2 days (Then it balanced). THEN she was very nauseous and throwing up for 2 days (then that stopped) THEN she had shortness of breath for 2 days. Nothing to call the ER. She thought it was vaccine symptoms that would go away. She passed Friday peacefully.

A TRAGIC dad-of-four died of Covid after getting the first dose of the Pfizer jab just two days before he was diagnosed.

Chris Moore, 48, had been shielding during the pandemic but returned to his job as an NHS administrator at the end of last year.

He was given the first dose of the vaccine on January 2 but began to show Covid symptoms two days later.

Chris, from County Durham, was diagnosed with the virus and taken to hospital with breathing difficulties but sadly died four weeks later.

David said: "Again, he made a little bit of a recovery after seeing Helen but she was told he needed kidney dialysis as well but he didn't really get any better after that.

"They were called again and they were told he was seriously poorly and Helen had to go and be with him. He passed away then.

"Even though Chris hadn't gone out the only days Chris really could have caught Covid were going to work or actually the trip to hospital to get the Covid vaccination, so tragically it could be ultimately that going for a coronavirus vaccination that led to him catching coronavirus.

Norway: Risk of Dying From AstraZeneca Higher Than of COVID-19

by Igor Kuznetsov

Norwegians run a greater risk of dying from being inoculated with AstraZeneca's vaccine than from COVID-19, the National Institute of Public Health (FHI) concluded in its analysis, recommending the vaccine, previously linked to serious complications in the form of rare blood clotting and haemorrhage amid low platelet counts.

Abstaining from the vaccine could possibly prevent up to 10 deaths related to side effects, the FHI said, according to the newspaper Verdens Gang.

So far, Norway has seen five cases of serious incidents reported shortly after vaccination, with three fatalities. FHI has calculated the mortality rate from the AstraZeneca vaccine as 2.3 people per 100,000 vaccinated.

The FHI stressed that continuing to inoculate will by contrast expose younger women to an "unreasonably high risk", given the current relatively levels of infection in Norway.

"We believe that such an alternative may appear unethical and with a high risk that those who make such a choice have not fully understood the risk to which they are exposed," the institute said.

Inquiry ordered after two women die from vaccine-related complications in Kerala

THE NEW INDIAN EXPRESS

24th August 2021

KOTTAYAM: The back-to-back deaths of two women, who took the Covid-19 vaccine in Kottayam and Pathanamthitta, has raised concerns over the safety of the vaccines.

According to reports available, Mahima Mathew, 31, a pregnant woman and a native of Kanjirappally in Kottayam and Divya R Nair, 38, a native of Naranganam in Pathanamthitta died with similar symptoms two weeks after receiving their first dose of Covishield vaccine. While the authorities at a private hospital in Pala, where Mahima had been admitted for treatment, said she died of cerebral venous thrombosis (a form of stroke) and vaccine-associated thrombocytopenia (low blood-platelet count), those at Pathanamthitta district Health department have ordered an inquiry to ascertain the cause behind Divya's death.

Mahima Mathew had received her first dose of Covishield from a primary health center on August 6. However, she reportedly developed a severe headache and was admitted to a private hospital in Pala on August 15. The next day the hospital declared her brain dead, and confirmed her death on August 20.

Meanwhile, Divya R Nair received the first dose of Covishield vaccine at a government facility at Naranganam on August 2 and died on Monday after suffering an intracerebral haemorrhage at a private hospital in Tiruvalla. Her husband Ginu has approached the Aranmula police and the district collector alleging that her condition worsened after she received the vaccine.

According to Ginu, Divya had headache and body pain after taking the vaccine. "After some days, she was taken to a private hospital. But her health turned critical. An MRI scan done on August 14, detected a brain bleed, following which she was shifted to a private hospital in Kochi. On the same day, she underwent two surgeries. On August 19, she was shifted to a private hospital in Tiruvalla. Her condition worsened after the vaccination. So we have lodged a complaint demanding an inquiry into her death," Ginu said.

Trinidad retiree dies after taking Covid vaccine, and suffering clots, paralysis

April 16, 2021

(Trinidad Express) The 60 year old man who suffered a blood clot and paralysis after taking the AstraZeneca vaccine has died.

The man, a retired Local Government regional corporation health inspector was warded at the San Fernando General Hospital for a week.

Last Wednesday he took the AstraZeneca vaccine at the Princes Town health facility.

By Friday his body became partially paralysed.

A CT scan at a private institution was conducted revealing a blood clot blocking a main artery.

On Thursday Ali pleaded with authorities to not cover up his uncle's ailment but take action to ensure that it does not happen to someone else.

The family shared photographs of the man's body with the Express which showed that his body from the waist down to his toes have turned black in colour.

Ali had said his uncle had undergone CT scans, X-Rays, ultrasound and countless blood samples taken.

Chief Medical Officer (CMO) Dr Roshan Parasram said on Wednesday there are some studies coming out of the European Group where there were 79 cases of a cluster of diseases that occurred in Germany and some other countries in Europe a couple weeks ago.

Parasram said these cases have been investigated by the European Medical Agency as well as WHO (World Health Organisation), which is in the process of doing their final report on that particular cluster. The CMO said there seemed to be a causative link between the vaccine and clotting.

A head CT scan showed hemorrhaging expanding up to 1.6 centimeters and eventually, cortical vein thrombosis, as listed in the six other cases.

She died on March 18, Richmond.com reported - 12 days after receiving a dose administered by a school.

Her daughter Joanne Drake said: "Two days after mum had her first Covid jab she started feeling very weak. From then on she wasn't eating or drinking, and could barely get to the toilet.

Joanne recalled: "She was given antibiotics for a chest infection which she actually didn't have. Her symptoms were exhaustion, shortness of breath, fever, unexplained cough, skin that was warm to the touch and long periods of immobility.

"She had an autopsy and the coroner said she passed away from a pulmonary embolism which her doctor said was probably due to the AZ jab.

A new report reveals the death of the Marbella teacher could be related to AstraZeneca vaccine

A new report of the autopsy carried out on the Marbella teacher who died on March 16 after receiving a dose of AstraZeneca now points to the fact that the administration of the vaccine could be related to the cerebral hemorrhage that caused her death.

As the newspaper "Sur" has advanced this Friday and confirmed by the Andalusian Deputy Minister of Health, Catalina García, the new report contradicts the provisional result of the autopsy, reflected in a preliminary report in which it was indicated that no links had been found between death and administration of the vaccine.

Apparently, the episode suffered by the professor could fit with what is known as VIPIT, a term recently coined by a group of German hematologists to define the syndrome of vaccine-induced immune prothrombotic thrombocytopenia

Western Australia woman's death linked to AstraZeneca COVID-19 vaccine

Linda Burns received her AstraZeneca COVID-19 vaccine early last month.

Not long after, she began feeling ill with a nose bleed, sore throat, cough and headache. Her GP told her to go to hospital.

Three days later she was admitted to St John of God in Midland then transferred to Royal Perth where she suffered a brain bleed.

Instead, she had a severe case of immune thrombocytopenia or ITP - a rare bleeding disorder.

The Therapeutic Goods Administration today confirmed her death was "likely linked to the vaccine".

Immune thrombocytopenia (ITP) is a rare bleeding disorder that occurs when the immune system mistakenly destroys platelets, which helps the blood to clot.

It can occur after the immune system is activated, for example by a viral infection or vaccination, and has been reported with other vaccines for hepatitis B, measles, mumps, rubella and influenza.

Complaint filed as student dies after taking vaccine

The death of a BDS student after getting vaccinated has led her family to file a complaint at the local police station in Kozhikode district. The family has alleged that the negligence of the Pariyaram Medical College authorities led to the death of Mitha Mohan (24), a final year BDS student.

She had received the vaccine at the Pariyaram Medical College and began experiencing headache and vomiting thereafter. Her test results later showed that she was Covid positive, according to Manorama Online. She was admitted to the isolation ward of the teaching hospital, but the hospital authorities couldn't save her life.

It was earlier in 2021 that 24-year-old Mitha Mohan, along with her batchmates took the first shot of Covishield, the COVID-19 vaccine developed by the University of Oxford and produced by pharma giant AstraZeneca. The second shot was due in a few days for her, a Bachelor of Dental Surgery student of Government Medical College, Kannur and her batchmates. However, her classmates remember how Mitha developed rashes, allergies and vomiting, following which she was subjected to an RT PCR test and her result turned out to be positive.

The protest which is being organised by the students' union chairman Vinayak Vijay has entered its third day. The students say that they will continue the protest until the college comes out with a statement. "The second shot of our vaccine is due in a few days. We do not know if the vaccine caused her death, but had the treatment been better, Mitha would have still been alive," says Sreelakshmi. Earlier, a health worker who received the vaccine jab had also died in Telangana.

That's not how medicine works. We are not herds of cattle where you force compliance that might kill us. You save some and you lose some, oh well type thinking. We are humans who have rights. That includes the right to not be psychologically manipulated.

You can't ethically knowingly give preventative treatment to unsick people when you know that treatment can cause death. Especially not when that person has preexisting conditions which make death from the treatment more likely.

I am vaccinated and, no, I don't know what's in it - neither this vaccine, the ones I had as a child, nor in the Big Mac, or in hot dogs, or in other treatments...whether it's for cancer, AIDS, the one for polyarthritis, or vaccines for infants or children. I trust my doctor when he says it's needed. I also don't know what's in Ibuprofen, Tylenol, or other meds, it just cures my headaches & my pains ...

As a child and as an adult I've been vaccinated for mumps, measles, rubella, polio, chicken pox, and quite a few others; my parents and I trusted the science and never had to suffer through or transmit any of said diseases. I'm vaccinated, not to please the government but:

- * To not die from Covid-19.
- * To NOT clutter a hospital bed if I get sick.
- * To hug my loved ones
- * To Not have to do PCR or antigenic

Man who died in Singapore's first case linked to COVID-19 vaccine was otherwise healthy: Coroner

28

According to the coroner's findings which CNA obtained on Monday (Feb 20), Mr Rajib had no known chronic illness and had not reported sick at work before.

Mr Rajib, who is known by one name, worked as a welding supervisor for Sunlight Engineering and stayed at CDPL Tuas Dormitory.

He underwent a full medical assessment by the Ministry of Manpower in February 2013 as part of the usual process for a work permit and was deemed fit for employment.

He received his first dose of the Moderna/Spikevax COVID-19 vaccine on Jun 18, 2021. He did not complain that he was unwell, and worked the following day.

Three weeks after his jab on Jul 9, 2021, Mr Rajib was working on a tank located under the main deck of a vessel, the Zohan Castberg – FPSO, that was being constructed at Sembcorp Shipyard.

After completing their work at about 6.30pm, the pair began climbing up sets of ladders to the main deck.

Mr Sarker climbed up first and turned to see Mr Rajib climbing. However, when Mr Rajib had ascended one or two rungs, he suddenly fell backwards onto the metal floor of the tank.

He was unconscious and his safety helmet had fallen off.

An autopsy by Associate Professor Teo Eng Swee of the Health Sciences Authority's Forensic Medicine Division found that Mr Rajib's internal organs were mostly normal, except for his heart.

Microscopic examination revealed myocarditis in his heart, and the final cause death was determined to be myocarditis.

Woman died of myocarditis that was likely linked to COVID-19 vaccine booster she received 4 days earlier: Coroner

SINGAPORE: A 43-year-old woman who received a COVID-19 vaccine booster died about four days later, a coroner's court heard on Friday (Apr 14).

The cause of Madam Ontal Charlene Vargas' death was determined to be myocarditis, or inflammation of the heart.

State Coroner Adam Nakhoda said on Friday it was likely that the myocarditis was related to the COVID-19 booster vaccine that Mdm Vargas had received, and ruled that her death was a medical misadventure.

Mdm Vargas, a Filipina maid, received her Pfizer-BioNTech's Comirnaty booster shot on Dec 9, 2021. During the 42 minutes of observation at the clinic, she did not exhibit any adverse effects.

She went home and completed her domestic chores and did not complain of any issue to her employers, son or friends.

Later that day, she felt unwell again and told her employer about it before taking a taxi to Singapore General Hospital.

According to the coroner's findings, Mdm Vargas stated at the hospital that she had no family history of heart disease or congenital heart problems.

She also said that she did not have any reaction to the first and second doses of the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine.

Her condition worsened on Dec 12, 2021 and she suddenly became unresponsive. Despite receiving appropriate medical care, her condition deteriorated rapidly and she died on Dec 13, 2021.

AUTOPSY

The forensic pathologist who conducted the autopsy found inflammation of Mdm Vargas' heart muscle, which was consistent with myocarditis.

The coroner said Mdm Vargas was a healthy woman with no chronic illnesses.

He said myocarditis is a known adverse effect following an mRNA vaccine.

American Airlines pilot Wilburn Wolfe suffered a major seizure following his COVID-19 vaccination, which cost him his life. Fortunately, Wolfe was not on duty when his seizure hit.

Claudia Wolfe, his widow, shared her late husband's story with The Defender.

Wolfe, a former Marine just a few years from retirement, "was definitely against getting this vaccine but was put in the position to take it or lose his job as a captain," Claudia Wolfe said.

He received the Johnson & Johnson vaccine on Nov. 9, 2021.

Claudia Wolfe told The Defender:

"[The] first 10 days were without any event ... [on] day 11, it started with a migraine-like headache which got better that afternoon after taking a couple of aspirin.

"On November 22, 13 days after the COVID vaccine, he had a seizure. When paramedics arrived and my husband came out of the seizure, he was paralyzed on his right side, arm and leg, and was taken to the emergency room."

At the emergency room, a CT scan showed he was experiencing brain bleeding, and he was admitted into intensive care. There, according to Claudia Wolfe, "he continued to have convulsions on his right hand ... shortly after he was admitted, he had another seizure and doctors decided to sedate him and put him on a ventilator."

Wolfe never regained consciousness and died on Nov. 26, 2021 — only 17 days after receiving the COVID-19 vaccine. Even if he had survived, he likely would not have been able to work as a pilot again.

Japan man who died after COVID shot eligible for gov't relief over one year after application

TOKYO -- A man who died three days after receiving a COVID-19 vaccine shot was granted a lump sum death payment by the Ministry of Health, Labor and Welfare over one year after the man's wife applied for the Japanese government's relief system for health damage caused by vaccination.

Shotaro Suda, an office worker from the town of Taiwa, Miyagi Prefecture, died aged 36 in October 2021, three days after receiving his second coronavirus vaccine shot.

As of Feb. 10, there have been 30 cases nationwide where people who passed away after being vaccinated received official recognition for relief

At around 6:30 a.m. on Oct. 7, their 10-year-old son found Suda lying still on his bed, before Mutsuko called for an ambulance. He was brought to a nearby general hospital in a state of cardiopulmonary arrest, and was confirmed dead about an hour and a half later. Autopsy results stated the cause of death as acute circulatory failure.

Young woman died after 'catastrophic reaction' to Covid vaccine

February 17, 2023

A young woman with an unknown neurological condition died in her sleep after receiving two doses of a Covid vaccine, an inquiry into long Covid was told.

On Friday, the standing Committee on Health, Aged Care and Sport heard from Australians who have felt neglected or dismissed after they sought help for long Covid or the ill effects of the Covid vaccines.

The inquiry was told Amy Segdwick died "suddenly and unexpectedly" in her sleep in April last year after she experienced negative side effects from the Pfizer vaccine.

The decision set off a "catastrophic" chain of events, her mother said.

"She fell off a cliff after receiving her Pfizer vaccines," Mrs Segdwick told the inquiry.

Amy noticed she had numbness in her feet and became unbalanced over the month in between vaccinations.

She told the inquiry her daughter's condition deteriorated rapidly, to the point where she was unable to stand, walk, write or cut up her own food.

Intracranial Hemorrhage After Pfizer-BioNTech (BNT162b2) mRNA COVID-19 Vaccination: A Case Report

Published: April 18, 2023 / DOI: 10.7759/cureus.37747

A 56-year-old Caucasian female patient with underlying essential hypertension and hypothyroidism was admitted to the infectious diseases department for her first dose of the Pfizer-BioNTech mRNA COVID-19 vaccine in March 2023. The patient had no significant family history of chronic illnesses, does not use illicit drugs, and had no history of previous surgeries. The patient was a high-school math teacher. Upon admission, her pre-vaccination physical examination revealed 110/70 mm Hg blood pressure, 36°C body temperature, and 129 mg/dL blood glucose level. Her initial physical examination of all systems was intact, and her Glasgow Coma Scale (GCS) score was 15 out of 15 (best possible score), her eyes were open spontaneously 4/4, and she obeyed commands 6/6 and spoke fluently and meaningfully 5/5; she was oriented to time, person, and place). Immediately after the vaccine injection, she became dizzy, experienced temporary cognitive dissociation, and exhibited decreased verbal responsiveness. The supervising physicians from the infectious diseases department referred the patient to the emergency department. Fifteen minutes after vaccination, the patient lost consciousness and demonstrated neither verbal nor motor responses to painful stimuli, with a GCS score of three out of 15 (worst possible score), no motor responses to painful stimuli 1/6, no verbal response 1/5, and no eye opening 1/4). The patient was intubated, and a non-enhanced cranial CT scan revealed a 6x6 cm hyperdense area in the left temporal lobe extending into the intraventricular space, accompanied by perilesional edema (Figure 1). Major sulci were obliterated, the left lateral ventricle appeared faint, and a mass effect with a 9 mm midline shift was observed. The neurosurgery department was consulted, and urgent surgical exploration was planned. Due to the emergent nature of the surgery, a contrast-enhanced cranial MRI or CT angiography could not be obtained. A hemorrhagic area extending to the cerebral cortex was observed during the surgery. Following transsylvian dissection, active arterial bleeding from an aneurysmatic dilatation was macroscopically identified at the bifurcation of the left middle cerebral artery. The aneurysm was clipped, and the hematoma was evacuated; thus, the middle cerebral artery bifurcation aneurysm was considered the primary cause. The postoperative neurological examination revealed no response to painful stimuli and no pupillary reaction to light, with a GCS score of three out of 15 (worst possible score, no motor responses to painful stimuli 1/6, no verbal response 1/5, and no eye opening 1/4). The patient could not be extubated, and unfortunately, she was pronounced deceased on the second postoperative day.

Covid booster not cause of mother's fatal heart attack

7MAR2023 - Divya Simon, 31, a rest home nurse, had her third booster vaccination four days before suffering a massive heart attack. The Hamilton woman had the booster on January 25 last year, and took the next day off work at the Tamahere Eventide Rest Home because she felt unwell. She complained of pain in the left side of her neck and shoulder. Simon, who had two children, worked a night shift on January 28 returning home early the next morning and went to sleep at 10am.

After she woke mid-afternoon she went to have a shower and told her husband she felt dizzy and had chest pains. That evening she had a cardiac arrest. Her husband began CPR and called for an ambulance at 6.53pm but one did not arrive at their Nawton address until 7.21pm. There she was intubated and taken to ICU but was not responsive and continued to deteriorate, dying the next day at 11am.

An angiogram was unable to determine the cause of the cardiac arrest. There were no medical records to indicate why Simon would suffer a heart attack. She had no history of cardiovascular disease.

While St John accepted its errors, it was unknown whether an earlier arrival would have prevented the outcome. Dunn ruled Simon died from a heart attack and no further inquiry into her death was needed.

Ontario man whose son died after COVID vaccine denied compensation

New Tecumseth, ON, resident Dan Hartman was denied money from the Vaccine Injury Support Program (VISP) on March 7 despite his son Sean dying after taking a COVID-19 vaccine.

"My son died 33 days after his first Pfizer vaccine, and he was a perfectly healthy boy with no underlying conditions," said Dan in a Thursday interview.

Sean, 17, took a COVID-19 vaccine to be allowed to play hockey. Dan said he took Sean to the emergency room four days after his first dose because he had brown circles around his eyes, a rash on his face, and pain in his right shoulder.

He was sent home from the emergency room soon after. He was found dead on his bedroom floor one month later.

An autopsy was performed, and a coroner determined the death was unascertained. All the medical examiner could find was an enlarged heart.

Despite her history of orthostatic dysregulation, she was healthy by nature and was active in her middle school athletic team. The day after vaccination, she developed a fever of 37.9°C, which resolved by the same evening. Her sister, who had slept with her that night, reported that she woke up briefly because she was having difficulty in breathing, talked with her sister, and went to bed soon after. The following morning, her mother noticed that she was not breathing and had a pale appearance, and she immediately called an ambulance. The patient was

After the first dose of vaccine on 12th September 2021, she had arm pain without fever. The day after the second dose on 3rd October 2021, she missed school because she had a fever of less than 38°C.

Since there was no preceding infection, allergy or drug toxicity exposure, the patient was diagnosed with post-vaccination pneumonia, myopericarditis, hepatitis, nephritis, gastroenteritis, cystitis, and myositis.

In November 2021, Yasser Nagy was found lifeless at his parents' home - he had suffered cardiac arrest. One-hour attempts by rescue workers to get the heart beating again were unsuccessful. Also earlier this month, authorities promised the mainstream media that an autopsy would be conducted to determine the cause of death. Japan reports first death directly linked to COVID-19 vaccine

A health ministry panel said Friday that a causal link between the November death of a 42-year-old woman and the COVID-19 vaccine shot preceding it "cannot be denied" — the first acknowledgement of such a link among nearly 2,000 reports so far of deaths following COVID-19 vaccinations in Japan.

The woman received a Pfizer shot targeting the omicron variant on Nov. 5 at a mass vaccination center. She felt sick seven minutes later, and her breathing stopped after about 15 minutes. Initially suspected to be having an anaphylactic shock, a doctor at the center performed CPR and tried to administer an adrenaline shot, but could not

The woman was taken to a hospital but died of acute heart failure an hour and 40 minutes after receiving the COVID-19 shot. A postmortem CT scan showed that she had experienced acute pulmonary edema, a sudden buildup of fluid in the lungs, the report said.

"From the data obtained from (CT) images, no abnormalities were found that could have caused the death other than the vaccine. All things considered, the direct causal link between the vaccination and the death cannot be denied," the report said.

Family to be compensated over death of daughter

Feb 27, 2023

Members of the National Vaccine Injury Compensation Program (VICP) committee at their latest meeting agreed to provide compensation of NT$3.5 million (US$114,829) to the family of a child who died of fulminant myocarditis after receiving her second dose of the Pfizer-BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine.

Centers for Disease Control (CDC) Deputy Director-General Philip Lo (羅一鈞), the Central Epidemic Command Center's (CECC) spokesperson, said the girl lost consciousness three days after receiving the shot, and a cardiac ultrasound scan showed preserved systolic function, suggesting fulminant myocarditis.

A forensic autopsy found lymphocytic infiltration within her myocardial fibers, of which viral infection is the most common cause, as the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine is an mRNA vaccine that is non-pathogenic, he said.

However, Lo said that considering the sequence of events, the committee cannot rule out fulminant myocarditis being associated with the vaccine, as the risk of myocarditis after a second shot is higher than the first shot of the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine.

The committee agreed to offer the girl's family NT$3.5 million in compensation and NT$300,000 for the funeral, which is the highest compensation amount for an adverse reaction after receiving a COVID-19 vaccine.

COVID vaccine: Aussie mum breaks down over daughter's death after Moderna jab during senate inquiry into mandates

Eli Green | NCA NewsWire
May 2, 2023 2:59AM

Mum-of-two Deborah Hamilton said her life had been “destroyed” after her daughter Natalie died in what she said was a “brutal, unnecessary death from a COVID-19 vaccination” in March 2022. She told the senate committee examining two bills relating to the vaccines that her daughter was a “healthy 21-year-old with her whole life ahead of her” before she received the Moderna shot as her booster injection in February 2022. “My daughter would still be alive today if not for that Moderna vaccination,” she told the inquiry.

Natalie began to experience ill-health the day after receiving the shot, but would not receive medical treatment for the vaccination-related illness for weeks as a general practitioner and the staff at two hospitals misdiagnosed her as having reflux. She eventually spent three weeks unconscious in ICU at the Alfred Hospital where her “heart and body gradually collapsed”.

“All because of the Moderna vaccine, her heart and kidneys were failing, her foot went black from a blood clot and she lost feeling in her leg,” Ms Hamilton said. “She couldn’t breathe on her own and was put on the highest form of life support, the ECMO.”

Oli Akram Hoque, 26, from Ilford, died from a rare blood clot weeks after taking the AstraZeneca vaccine.

The trainee solicitor received his first dose on March 19, 2021, before suffering increasingly 'excruciating' headaches and vomiting blood.

People in their late 20s were not called forward for the initial jab rollout until June.

It is unclear if Oli was called in for a jab early or if he was able to get a vaccine sooner than expected in his area.

He died at Queen's Hospital in Romford on April 15, 2021 — one month before his 27th birthday.

His father told an inquest that Oli had gone to the urgent treatment centre located at the Royal London Hospital on April 5.

He later had a seizure and was taken back to Queen's Hospital where a CT scan identified a blood clot. He was then put on blood thinners but later died in hospital.

It is not clear if the father-of-two was called forward for a jab early as some people who lived with vulnerable Brits were or, as happened at various points during the initial vaccine rollout, he was able to get a jab early in his area.

Tom, who worked as a carpet salesman, soon began to suffer headaches — a common side effect of the British-made vaccine that normally fades within days.

Two weeks after getting the jab, he was found unresponsive in the early hours at the home he shared with his partner Simone and their two daughters.

Stephen Ward died from a blood clot just 11 days after getting the AstraZeneca vaccine.

His clot was confirmed to be caused by the jab.

The father-of-two, who had recently retired from the Coop after working there for 40 years, received his first dose on March 12, 2021.

Around one week later, he developed a headache that saw him take himself to bed, where, within a couple of days, he developed a pins and needles sensation in his right arm, struggled to speak and was unable to walk.

His wife Sheila called for an ambulance, which took him to hospital, where doctors said he had a venous clot and a bleed in his brain.

Medics said they were treating the 57-year-old, from Newcastle-under-Lyme, for VITT.

Doctors proceeded with surgery after Stephen had seizures while in hospital and further scans revealed he had more bleeds on the brain.

But the procedure was unsuccessful — medics told Stephen's family that the damage to his brain was too severe for him to survive.

He died on March 23, 2021, with Sheila and his two sons, Joe and Sam, by his side.

An inquest confirmed that Stephen's death was the 'result of medical vaccination'.

Neil Miller, a father-of-two, died on May 1, 2021, about one month after getting his first AstraZeneca jab.

The 50-year-old, from Leicester, suffered from cold-like symptoms, including headaches, in weeks following the initial dose.

Neil, who wrote IT manuals, took himself to bed on April 6 as his condition worsened.

The next day, he was rushed to A&E, complaining of what he felt like was a heart attack. There, medics found he had a blood clot near his heart and, after a couple of nights in hospital, sent him home, armed with medication.

Two days later, on April 13, he collapsed and was rushed back to hospital, where doctors found that there was also blood clots in his legs.

This was when medics realised AstraZeneca's vaccine could be to blame.

By April 19, Neil was struggling to speak, read and walk as blood clots had gone to his brain. He was discharged from hospital on April 26. But just a few days later, Neil collapsed again. His family called 999 and started CPR.

When paramedics arrived, they spent 45 minutes trying to resuscitate him. But Neil was declared dead at the scene.

Despite Neil being diagnosed with vaccine-induced thrombosis, one of the major complications of AstraZeneca's jab, prior to his death, his autopsy ruled that he died of natural causes.

His wife, Kam Miller, 57, fought for a year to change the cause of death on the certificate, which now explicitly states the jab was to blame.

One of the youngest victims of the AstraZeneca jabs is thought to be 18-year-old Kasey Turner, who died in February 2021.

The student paramedic died two weeks after receiving the vaccine after being prioritized in the jab roll-out as a healthcare worker.

While as a healthy young person she had a low risk of suffering serious health complications from Covid, health staff like her were given the jab to reduce the risk they might pass it on to elderly and vulnerable people they worked with.

Kasey, from Barnsley in south Yorkshire, was admitted to hospital after experiencing intense headaches.

These were later revealed to be caused by cerebral venous thrombosis, an extremely rare complication of the vaccine itself.

An inquest in March last year found that she had died due to VITT.

One week after his first dose of the AstraZeneca vaccine in March last year, the unthinkable happened to Richard Todman.

The 60-year-old part-time employment judge from North London suffered catastrophic blood clots in his bowel.

The condition can quickly become life-threatening, as the clots can break off and travel elsewhere in the body, stopping blood and nutrients from reaching vital organs.

Within three weeks, Richard was dead.

A coroner's report later confirmed the cause of the clots that killed him was the AstraZeneca jab.

Nicola Weideling died of a stroke caused by the AstraZeneca jab.

The 45-year-old Oxford University Press executive suffered catastrophic bleeds on her brain after being hospitalised with blood clots caused by the vaccine.

She received the jab 24 days prior on April 21.

Nicola had complained to her GP following her jab about neck pain but the link to jab was not made until she was taken to hospital with several other symptoms of blood clots.

A post-mortem examination showed Nicola died on May 15, 2021 after suffering a stroke caused by VITT.

Cardiologists link Covid vaccine to Warne's death

Two cardiologists believe Shane Warne's sudden death last year may have been caused by the Covid-19 vaccine.

British cardiologist Dr Aseem Malhotra and Dr Chris Neil, who is president of the Australian Medical Professionals' Society, said Warne's post-mortem had revealed coronary atherosclerosis or heart disease.

Both claim their research has shown that a Covid-19 mRNA vaccine (which uses a copy of a molecule called messenger RNA to produce an immune response) can cause a rapid acceleration of coronary disease, especially in those who already have undetected mild heart disease.

"It's quite unusual for former international sportsmen to suffer a sudden cardiac death at such a young age, 52," the PTI (Press Trust of India) news agency quoted Dr Malhotra as saying, in reference to Warne.

"It's likely that some mild underlying furring of his arteries – as I've seen with my own patients and how my own father died – rapidly progressed in the months after he received two doses of the Pfizer mRNA Covid vaccine."

Dr Neil said the evidence showed Covid vaccines can adversely affect the cardiovascular system in more ways than just myocarditis and pericarditis or forms of heart inflammation.

"Looking at the data, 20% of all notifications of heart attacks as suspected drug reactions ever reported to the TGA [Therapeutic Goods Administration] over 52 years have nominated a Covid vaccine as the suspected medicine. Most of these reports were made by doctors, so we know that many – including cardiologists – are concerned."

"If he'd not taken the Covid vaccine, he'd likely still be alive today," he added. "He wouldn't want others to be harmed, so I fully support these doctors' calls for an immediate suspension of these jabs in Australia and around the world."

The legendary Australian spin bowler died on Thailand's Koh Samui island in March 2022 at the age of 52.

UFC fighter's mother gets 3rd shot 2 weeks → stroke/coma/death

UFC Light Heavyweight fighter Anthony "Lionheart" Smith has publicly announced his stance against COVID-19 vaccinations. Smith's declaration comes on the heels of a personal tragedy; his mother fell into a coma two weeks after receiving the Pfizer booster shot and sadly never recovered. Moreover, Smith claims he developed a blood clot shortly after his COVID-19 vaccination.

Smith shared his experiences and concerns on Thursday during a conversation with Former UFC middleweight Champion Michael Bisping on 'Believe You Me.' They were joined by Themba Gorimbo, who discussed his recent win and life growing up in Africa.

Smith revealed, "When my mom passed, right, she got sick immediately after getting her booster. She was fairly healthy, but she got sick immediately after that. So she got her booster and was in a coma in like two weeks."

Smith further linked Pfizer's recent admission of increased stroke risk in people over 60 receiving their final booster to his mother's passing. "It just doesn't make any sense. Like that was really weird, right? And then recently Pfizer came out and said in people over 60 on their final booster, they had to come out and say that there was a higher risk of stroke. Well, that's essentially what ended up happening to my mom," Smith said.

You who are a father or a mother don't deserve to lose a child. It goes against human nature. It's only by the will of God

Today we are living HARDLY, VERY PAINFUL, one day at a time.

Anyone who HAS NOT LOST A CHILD, anyone like that cannot imagine the pain. Can't !

When you meet a person who has lost a child, look closely into their eyes and you will see a tip of sadness, a heart that will be forever broken, a chest that will always have an emptiness. Nothing and no one will ever fill this void, heal this heart or fully fill this person with joy. There will always be a missing, a pain, an emptiness. All the time.

Tomorrow will be 3 weeks since our little cutie named Helena left.

In a shocking revelation made just three weeks prior to his death, Jo Linder had an insightful discussion with renowned fitness guru and social media influencer, Bradley Martyn.

A focal point of their dialogue was on vaccination, with Martyn inquiring if Linder had received the vaccine. He claimed he got peer pressured into the vax. "I got the vax... Even four," Linder reported. "I went to the doctor, and I did my blood work again because I take my blood work all the time. We see these particles and I'm like, what is this?" "This is from this [vaccine]," the doctor said. Linder revealed he underwent plasma fluorosis to clean his blood. "They take all your blood out, put it into this machine, and then clean it and bring it back. So we did this with the heavy metal cleaning and all this stuff, which supposedly cleaned my blood," Linder said.

"Covid-19 vaccine killed our son" says lawsuit against Dept. of Defense

Watts died in October of 2021 after taking two doses of the Pfizer-BioNTech Covid-19 vaccine. His family said he had no prior medical issues. Because he wanted to take his classes in person, George needed to be fully vaccinated. He received his first shot of Pfizer in August and his second in September. His parents said he chose that vaccine because it was recently fully approved by the FDA. According to his parents, blood was in his urine after the first shot.

He then received his second dose September 17, where he experienced flu-like symptoms that did not resolve. "He had a cough and I decided to take him to the ER to see what was going on," explained George's father. He complained of several symptoms, but none that were cardiac-related, according to the report. After a workup and a negative COVID-19 test, doctors diagnosed George Jr. with a sinus infection and prescribed antibiotics. A week later, they went back to the ER for another assessment as he was still ill. By the end of October, his symptoms were even worse. He began coughing up blood and experienced pain in his feet, hands, and teeth. He also became extremely sensitive to sunlight. George died on October 27th, 2021 after collapsing in his room.

An autopsy report from the Bradford County Coroner's Office says he died from "COVID-19 vaccine-related myocarditis" which is an inflammation of the heart.

Australian Woman's Death Linked to COVID-19 Jab

BY AAP | June 10, 2021

The Australian Therapeutic Goods Administration says the benefits of the AstraZeneca vaccine far outweigh the risks after a woman died from a blood clot in the brain in the state of New South Wales (NSW).

The TGA says the 52-year-old who died was among four new clotting cases linked to the vaccine.

The clotting condition linked to the vaccine is called thrombosis with thrombocytopenia syndrome (TTS).

So far Australia has seen 35 confirmed cases of TTS, and 13 probable cases.

The first death involved a 55-year-old-man from NSW who died eight days after being vaccinated.

The woman - who was under the age of 40 - died on May 21, after being admitted to hospital with severe thrombosis and platelet deficiency, the statement said.

Twenty-three people died in Norway within days of receiving their first dose of the Pfizer COVID-19 vaccine, with 13 of those deaths — all nursing home patients — apparently related to the side effects of the shots, health officials said.

Common reactions to the vaccine, including fever and nausea, "may have contributed to a fatal outcome in some frail patients," Sigurd Hortemo, chief physician at the Norwegian Medicines Agency, said in a Friday statement.

The news comes just over a week after officials reported the deaths of just two nursing home residents after they received the Pfizer jab.

It should be noted that in the three weeks since the start of the coronavirus vaccination campaign, two elderly people died a few hours after receiving the vaccine, but the Ministry of Health estimated that there was no connection between the deaths and the vaccine.

In the first case, a 75-year-old man, a resident of Beit She'an, died as a result of heart failure two hours after the injection. The next day, an 88-year-old man collapsed in his home hours after the vaccination and was later pronounced dead. The Hadassah Mount Scopus

Woman dies after first dose of AstraZeneca vaccine

Health officials in South Australia have confirmed a 72-year-old woman died after having the AstraZeneca vaccine.

Premier Steven Marshall said the Therapeutic Goods Administration confirmed a case of thrombosis with thrombocytopenia syndrome (TTS) in a 72-year-old woman was likely linked to the AstraZeneca vaccine.

Son 'dearly regrets' telling his mum to get the AstraZeneca vaccine

Prasad used to speak to his mum every day but all that changed "in a split second" last month.

Three days after the Canberra man's 79-year-old mother Rama received her second dose of the AstraZeneca vaccine in India, he called her about 4pm (AEST time) to ask how she was feeling and she said she was fine.

When he called again, just two and a half hours later, she was already in a coma.

From what he can gather from relatives in India, his mum went into the backyard to put some garbage out for collection and went back into the kitchen.

"She was holding on to the bench, she called out to my niece twice and by the time my niece got there she was already closing her eyes and went into a deep coma," he said.

She never regained consciousness, although she survived for roughly five days before dying on May 6.

He says his family and friends know of seven people in India who have all died after getting the vaccine.

Now most of his family and friends don't want to take the risk of getting the vaccine themselves.

A feeling is also spreading among them that older people are being "sacrificed" and that Prime Minister Scott Morrison and the government have written them off.

"They feel they are too old and that society doesn't need them anymore so they (the authorities) wrote them off," Prasad said.

"It's that kind of feeling, I have heard the comment from six work colleagues and friends."

Prasad believes the vaccine did play a part as his mother was the youngest of six siblings who are all still alive. A MRI (magnetic resonance imaging) report also showed Ratna had a massive haemorrhage in the left frontal lobe of her brain.

Two die in Japan after shots from suspended Moderna vaccines - Japan govt

TOKYO, Aug 28 (Reuters) - Two people died after receiving Moderna Inc (MRNA.O) COVID-19 vaccine shots that were among lots later suspended following the discovery of contaminants, Japan's health ministry said on Saturday.

The 49-year-old man had his second shot on 11 August and died the following day. His only known health issue was an allergy to buckwheat, the health ministry said on Monday. The shot came from the same batches that were found to have fragments of stainless steel in them, leading to a recall of 1.63m doses of the Moderna vaccine on 26 August. The three batches were manufactured in Spain under contract by Moderna.

A panel of experts has advised the Norwegian government not to use Covid-19 vaccines made by Johnson & Johnson and Oxford/AstraZeneca in its inoculation programme.

Ministers earlier this year suspended use of the AstraZeneca injection amid fears over extremely rare but potentially dangerous blood clots.

In an announcement on Monday, the panel said neither jab should be used after a number of cases of blood clots in people who had been inoculated.

Norway's Institute of Public Health (FHI) also on Monday advised the government against using the Johnson & Johnson shot in its programme, citing similar evidence.

Exclusive: Athlete Who Recovered From COVID Facing 'Very Different Future' After Second Dose of Pfizer Vaccine Triggers Myocarditis

ARMY ROTC

Greyson Follmer, an Ohio State University (OSU) student, was an elite athlete and member of the university's chapter of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC).

But, according to his mother, the 19-year-old from Ohio is looking at a very different future now, after he developed severe heart complications following his second dose of Pfizer's COVID vaccine.

Marie Follmer said nobody warned her about the potential for increased risks of COVID vaccine-related adverse events for people like her son, who already had COVID and had acquired natural immunity.

Greyson has played sports since he was 4 years old. He was an athlete who played in the state soccer championship in high school and then went on to OSU and started college during the COVID pandemic. He also joined ROTC his freshman year and was very active — running several miles every day with heavy packs on his back.

Greyson was perfectly healthy and had no underlying conditions except for asthma — which didn't affect his athletic abilities — and food allergies.

Like most students early on in the year, Greyson and his friends got COVID. Though most had no symptoms, Greyson experienced mild flu symptoms — though they were nothing like his post-vaccine symptoms, Follmer explained.

Greyson received his first dose of Pfizer on April 16, and a second dose on May 7. After the first dose Greyson experienced minor symptoms, but his mother didn't connect them to the COVID vaccine.

It was after his second dose that things really changed, Follmer said. Greyson experienced significant symptoms shortly after his second dose. Three times he was taken to Nationwide Children's Emergency Hospital.

"My son feels like he's having a heart attack 24/7," Follmer said. "He now has high blood pressure, severe chest pains, back pain, elevated kidney levels, hypothyroidism, inflamed lymph nodes in different areas of his body, and he can't work or exercise."

Greyson has seen numerous doctors and specialists. His family has spent more than $12,000 in one month. Lab work is covered by insurance but his other treatments are not. Greyson is doing stem cell treatments, taking Ivermectin and numerous supplements to support his condition.

Follmer said she has since reported her son's adverse reaction to VAERS (ID1395886), but no one has followed up on her son's case nor has the report been added to the system. She also tried calling the CDC to see if someone there could help them.

Las Vegas woman, 18, suffered seizures, clots in brain after J&J vaccine, family's pastor says

18 year-old Emma is now responsible for over $1MM in medical bills that J&J will not pay

LAS VEGAS (FOX5) -- An 18-year-old Clark County woman suffered seizures and clotting in the brain after receiving the Johnson & Johnson COVID-19 vaccine on or about April 1, according to a GoFundMe campaign raising money for her medical expenses.

The woman, identified as Emma Burkey, was one of six women across the country who experienced a serious clotting side effect after receiving the one-shot vaccine.

spokesperson, Burkey was initially treated at St. Rose Hospital, Siena Campus in Henderson but was subsequently airlifted to Loma Linda Hospital's special neural treatment unit near San Bernardino, California. "Emma was put into an induced coma, ventilated and at least three brain surgeries have been done to repair blood clots," the GoFundMe states.

Gabe (17) received the second dose of Pf—and the following day began experiencing severe chest pains, dizziness, high fever, nausea, and vomiting. After spending ten hours in the emergency room he was diagnosed with myocarditis, inflammation of the heart wall. US Military Confirms Heart Inflammation After COVID Vaccine

- Reports of an increased risk of myocarditis (heart inflammation) after the COVID vaccine were recently confirmed by a study of U.S. military personnel, finding the rate of diagnosis was much higher than would be expected in the same population without a vaccine
- The new reports also include stories of children dying after the vaccine, including a 13-year-old boy who died days after his second dose of the Pfizer vaccine and a 16-year-old boy who had a heart attack while exercising after his vaccination
- Evidence demonstrates the spike protein used in the vaccine is dangerous and is responsible for many of the reported vaccine adverse events, including endothelial damage leading to blood clots, inflammation and heart attack
- Reports to the Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System (VAERS) have been growing each week, recently showing an increase of 849 deaths, 1,451 hospitalizations, 286 diagnosis of myocarditis and 55 miscarriages over seven days

"I'm a Division 1 student athlete with no prior health issues.

I got the second v—ine Tuesday and within four days I have been diagnosed with myocarditis. I was told I probably won't be able to play my senior season now.

It is a side effect from the v—ine and it's really not being reported or addressed. It's a serious issue that we should all be informed about before making this decision . . .

No one knows the long term effects about what is going to possibly happen from this. It's uncharted territory because everyone else with the same heart issues from the v—ine are all being tracked and monitored, we're basically test subjects . . .

A lot of people in our age group apparently are at higher risk for heart issues from the v—ine and it really needs to be talked about." — John Stokes

17-year-old diagnosed with heart condition after receiving COVID vaccine, father tells 'Fox & Friends'

Dr. Nicole Saphier: CDC 'cherry picked the way they present the data' on adverse effects of vaccine

A 17-year-old student who received the Pfizer coronavirus vaccine in order to attend school and play soccer was diagnosed with heart issues soon after the shot, his father explained Tuesday on "Fox & Friends."

"A week later, he came home and started telling me that his heart was hurting every time he had a heartbeat," Fabio Berlingieri told "Fox & Friends."

After assuming the issue came from a pulled muscle from playing sports, Berlingieri took his son to the walk-in clinic to get his heart checked out. He said the clinicians did an EKG to check for different heart conditions. He also took his son to a cardiologist to get a sonogram.

Berlingieri said he received "bad news" the next day when the results came back and he was advised to take his son to the emergency room immediately on the day of his prom.

"His troponin levels were off the charts," he explained, adding that his son was in the hospital receiving care for a couple of days.

Now that Berlingieri's son has a heart condition, he missed his prom and can't do "all the things he loves to do," including playing soccer in the fall and surfing.

I started get a pain in the back of my knee that just wouldn't go away.

I was completely sidetracked away from my pain as my 18 year old was hospitalized on May 19-20th (at RUH Saskatoon) for bilateral pulmonary embolisms caused by the J&J vaccine that he received in Arizona while going to school.

Once he was home and settled and set up to make his adverse event on VAERS.

My leg got worse. 6 days after taking my son to RUH, I had him drive me to City Hospital (Saskatoon) because I couldn't walk on my leg. So much pain. No swelling, no redness none of it.

Because the triage nurse heard my story about my son, they did some quick blood work for my D-Dimer (looking for evidence of a clot.)
Your results should be between 0-500.

My D-Dimer was 101630!!!!

They did a Doppler ultrasound on my leg and found a massive DVT from my ankle past my groin into my abdomen.

Severe Adverse Reaction: Myocarditis resulting in a Heart Attack
Age: 18 Years Old

Hours after attending his college graduation, Isaiah Harris was rushed to the emergency room after complaining of being unable to breathe. Once at the hospital, Harris suffered a heart attack while waiting for treatment. The first hospital he visited after suffering an adverse reaction to Pfizer's COVID refused to believe his symptoms were a result of the COVID shot. Isaiah was diagnosed with inflammation of the heart, or myocarditis. After being hospitalized for four days in Rogers, Arkansas, Harris was released and sent home with medication to numb his heart and reduce the swelling. But when he tried to phone the doctor to say he was still suffering from heart pain, the nurses stonewalled him, he said. "One of the nurses who treated me picked up," said Harris. "Some words were exchanged and she ended up hanging up on me and wouldn't get me through to the doctor."

Isaiah went to see Dr. Allen Kline at the Cleveland Clinic in Ohio, after being referred by a friend. Kline is aware of the link between mRNA COVID vaccines and myocarditis.

He's witnessed hundreds of cases, said Harris. Isaiah told Kennedy he felt pressured to get the vaccine. He said he thought it was safe, that there weren't any risks. "I plan on going to medical school and thought it was a requirement," said Harris. "There's a lot of pressure to get it right now."

Oregon teen who said his heart hurt was hospitalized with myocarditis after COVID-19 vaccination

The teen, who asked that his name not be used to protect his privacy, had his second shot of the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine last Thursday, and was looking forward to getting back to a semblance of normal, even if it was just hanging with his friends in public with no mask.

The next day, however, he started feeling some of the more common side effects of the vaccine: a fever, lack of appetite. He even mentioned to his mom that his heart hurt.

age 15

A half hour later, they were walking into a deserted emergency room at Providence St. Vincent Medical Center. The docs took some blood, did an electrocardiogram, and 45 minutes later he was being admitted to the hospital, put on anti-inflammatories and oxygen, his mom said.

The diagnosis, according to Providence: myocarditis, inflammation of the heart.

The Oregon Health Authority is aware of at least 11 cases in Oregon of myocarditis or pericarditis, inflammation of the sac surrounding the heart, following COVID-19 vaccinations.

3 days after having the Pfizer vaccine. Kaden presented at 2 AM in the morning as though he was having a heart attack. He was diagnosed with Myopericarditis. Please listen to your child if their chest hurts feels like they're going to vomit and can't breathe well. If anything odd happens within days after the shot take them to the hospital do not hesitate! Kaden had a 4 day hospital stay He even had to be transported by ambulance for one of the tests.

My 15 year old son was hospitalized with myocarditis three days after receiving the second dose of the pfizer vaccine. He was perfectly healthy and never hospitalized a day in his life before this. He has been out of the hospital for a couple of weeks. He is restricted from strenuous activities for at least 3-6 months. His outpatient cardiac MRI still shows some small areas of inflammation. I am just praying that his heart fully recovers.

We were trying to do the right thing and protect him by getting the vaccine. Now I feel so guilty that it hurt him.

I am VERY pro-vaccination but we are one of the rare cases. My teen son had his vaccine on Wed. He started having chest pain and fatigue on Friday. He's been hospitalized with vaccine induced myocarditis since.

Aiden Jo, 14, is spending his freshman year of high school sitting alone on the sidelines because he can't engage in any physical activity, his mother said. On June 10, several days after his second dose, Aiden woke his mother up at 4:30 a.m. because his chest hurt and he couldn't breathe. The first night Aiden stayed in the hospital his troponin number quadrupled overnight. Aiden's mother said the cardiologist reported it to the CDC's Vaccine Jo said prior to her son having the reaction, she was not aware vaccine makers were exempt from liability. She thinks parents need to know there is little recourse should their child get injured by a vaccine.

So my son Trevor has been in Peace Health pediatrics since Friday mid day and he has myocarditis and Pericarditis which has to do with inflammation of the sack around his heart and inflammation of the muscles of his heart.

Sarah (16) received the second Pf. v—ine on May 4th. Within a few weeks, she developed a bad stutter and started experiencing uncontrollable head movements.

"She looked like someone who has Parkinson's. She had never stuttered or had these tics before."

She was admitted to the hospital where she spent two nights and underwent numerous tests, before being discharged and told that it was a "nervous tic," and to see a mental health provider.

Her parents argued for a referral to see a neurologist, who diagnosed Sarah with Functional Movement Disorder, and told that it was "related to the v—ine, but not v—ine related."

They also said that it was an 'extremely rare' side effect, despite having seen several cases of it in their own practice over the past year.

Sarah had ended the last school year with a 4.7 GPA, where she was enrolled in an Early College program, on track to graduate with an Associates Degree. Given her current condition and limitations, she had no choice but to drop her college classes for this upcoming semester.

In August she started her regular classes but has found it impossible to look down or write without triggering violent tremors and spasms. Her teacher will be typing her notes for her instead.

"I am heartbroken because she has worked so hard and everything has changed for her - and I'm so damn mad! Our whole lives have changed, and for what? A v—ine that doesn't even work!" — Marie, her mother

Trainee nurse, 18, who received the AstraZeneca vaccine is hospitalised with THREE severe blood clots

My 17-year-old son got the Covid Pfizer vaccine and ended up having to spend a week in the hospital with blood clots in his leg.

It all started about a week and a half after getting his second Covid shot. He started having tingling and numbness in two of his toes which spread to his other toes and his foot.

One morning, before we even had a chance to get in to see the doctor, he had pain in his calf and his foot was white as a ghost with purpling toenails. We rushed to the emergency room, and they found blood clots in his arteries behind his knee and his ankle and in the veins of his calf.

He was taken by ambulance to Phoenix Children's Hospital, and he remained in the ICU for five days while they worked to remove the clots. They were able to remove all of the clots from his arteries, but he still has clot in the vein in his calf.

My son is a normal teenager that likes to spend time with his friends, play video games, and go swimming. There was no trauma to his leg, no health issues that could cause clots, and no history of genetic blood issues in our family.

The doctors at the hospital could not find any cause for these blood clots. It seems that the only remaining possible cause for the blood clots is the Covid vaccine.

The hospital and I have reported this on the Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System (VAERS).

On August 14th I shared this about my healthy 12 year old niece, Bailee :

This was Bailee's post before getting her shot yesterday afternoon. She is the absolute youngest age that is acceptable to receive the Pfizer v---. As soon as the medication entered her body her eyes went crossed and fell on the floor exhibiting seizure like symptoms. She has zero history of anything like this. The line of people at the pharmacy where the vaccine was being administered cleared the room and chose against the shot after seeing what happened to her.

August 26th, after being quarantined because Bailee had tested positive for C 2 days later, she returned to school and half-way through 1st period she was short of breath, and fainted her bp drops with any increased heart rate! She was taken to the ER for tests to determine what happened.

My 13 year old boy was admitted last week to Aalborg hospital with myocarditis (inflammation of the heart), after 2. vaccine stabs. Fortunately, he is improving and

The symptoms were severe chest pressure and high fever. The watch doctor said Panodil as usual. Own doctor afterwards made ECG, which showed disturbances on heartbeat and immediately admitted my boy...

I haven't questioned the vaccine before, but have subsequently experienced what a madness it is to vaccinate healthy and healthy young people.

Young people don't get seriously ill from the covid!!! They, after being infected, are 13 times better protected from new infection than vaccinated people do.

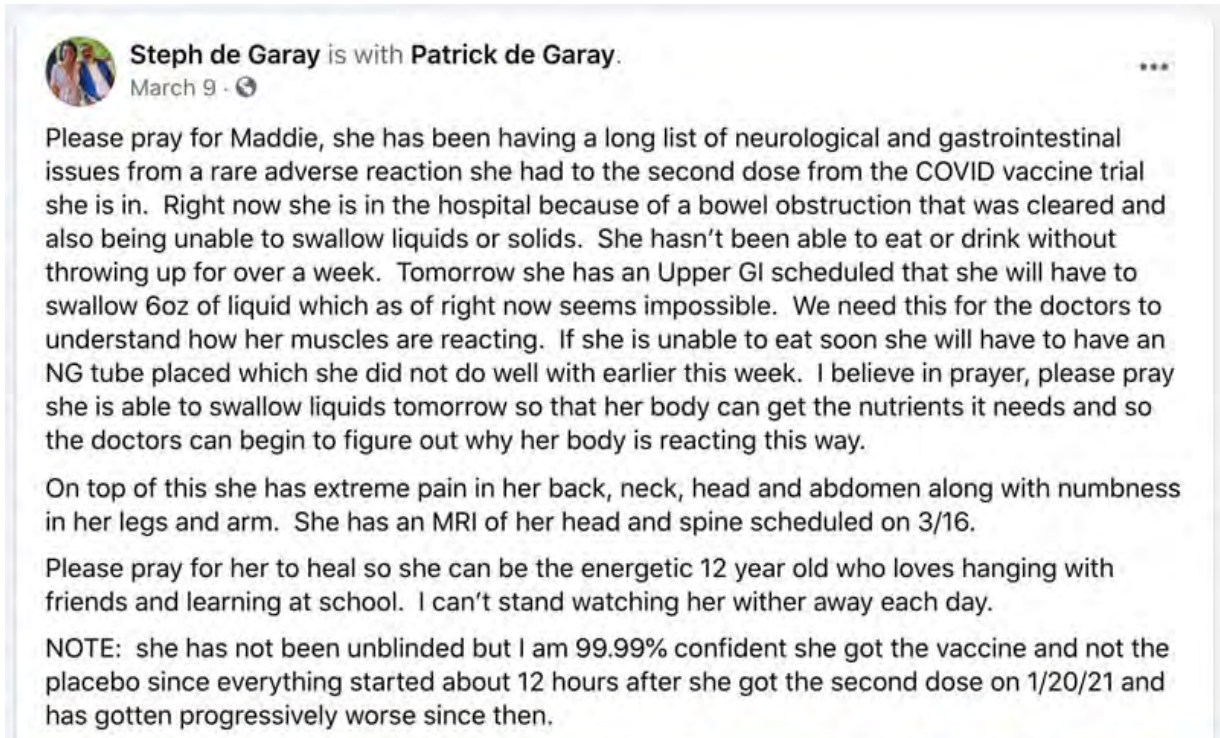

Apparently Myocarditis occurs mainly in young men and in the United States there has been an increase in cases. at 3000 %, since the start of the vaccine.

12-Year-Old Suffers Severe Reaction in COVID Vaccine Clinical Trial

After seeing many specialists, MRIs, endoscopies, etc., Maddie finally got an actual diagnosis on March 12:

"So based on her physical symptoms and ruling out everything with all these tests, it's safe to say her diagnosis is Functional neurological disorder (FND). This is a medical condition where there is a problem with the functioning of the nervous system and how the brain and body sends and/or receives signals. We are thankful Maddie's team of doctors were able to give her a diagnosis with a name and a way to treat all of her symptoms. Most doctors do not even know about FND!

FND is usually triggered by something traumatic and most people have some pre-existing anxiety but not all do. It's no secret she has always been a type A personality, especially with grades (the apple doesn't fall far from the tree)!

Maddie's severe reaction to the second dose of the vaccine triggered it. We expected similar side effects to the flu shot. When she got her second dose not many people had even gotten their first dose so there wasn't the extensive list of symptoms that there is today. She was one of the first people in the study to have some of the symptoms she had which scared her and us. Then being told everything is normal time and time again when it clearly was not made her symptoms worse.

Her symptoms did continue and she was admitted to the hospital again. She is currently paralyzed from the waist down. April 11 update:

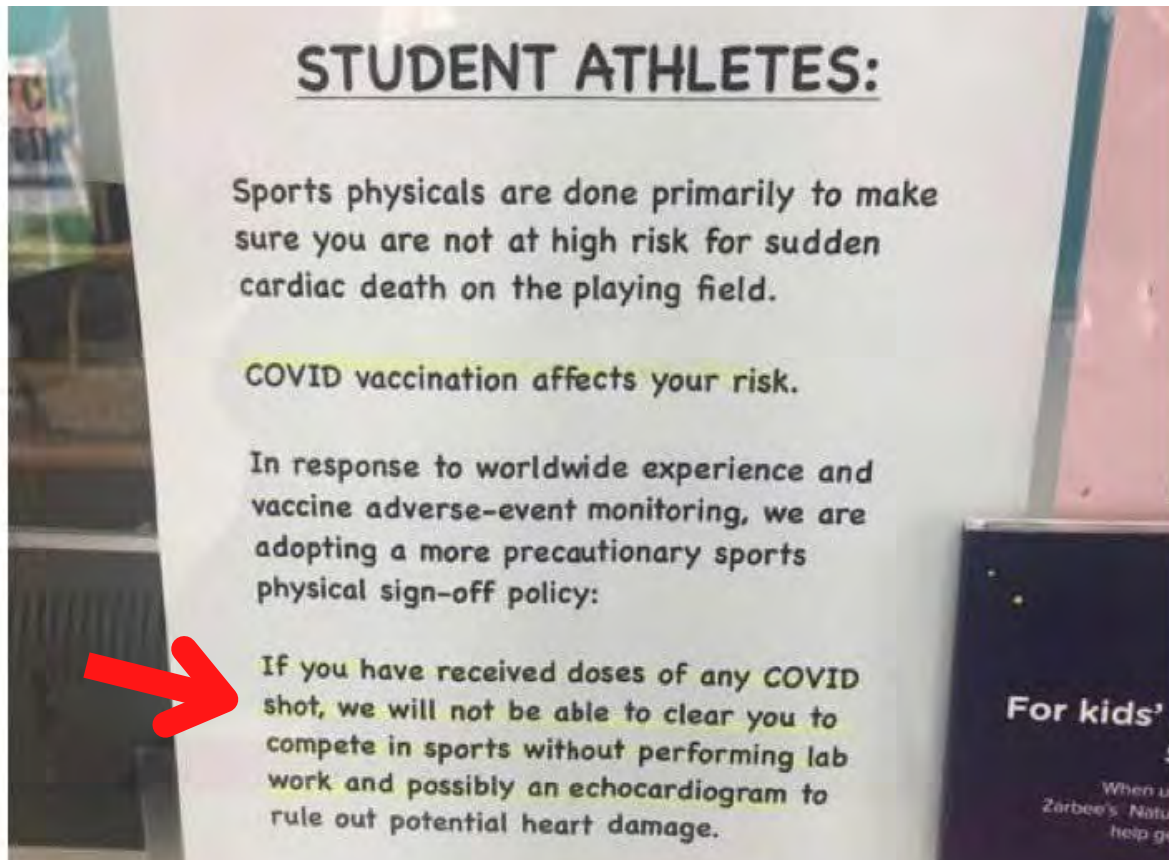

"Maddie was admitted to the hospital again on Friday. I'm not sure how long we will be here. She has significantly declined since she was discharged in March and is unable to eat without regurgitating her food. This caused her blood sugar to drop to 47 and she lost about 15 pounds in a month. Her blood sugar is stable and for now she has to be fed through an NG tube which she is having a hard time with. It was really bad for the first few hours and she threw up a bunch of stomach bile. She's been able to tolerate it a little better throughout the day and says it hurts her throat and she hates how she can feel the cold when they do her feeds or meds plus it makes her nauseous.

Maddie was also having up to 20 blackouts/episodes a day 3 weeks ago, they decreased after we weaned her off the Lyrica but she did have 2 today in the hospital. She also has tremors in her arms, especially when she is in pain and random verbal tics.

A new symptom is chronic urinary retention (can't empty bladder). They do an ultrasound of her bladder if she hasn't gone to the bathroom in 16+ hours or if she has severe pain in her lower abdomen. If it measures over 500ml of urine they have to use a straight catheter.

She still isn't able to walk and she can't feel from her lower hips down. She has no leg movement against gravity with her legs. This time we are on the Neurology floor so the team of doctors that do rounds in the morning are all in that group and pull the other doctors in. We have met with the nutritionist, PT/OT and Child Life. Physical Medicine & Rehabilitation will be here tomorrow. She is also seeing a Speech Therapist and they are doing a video swallow test or FEES study for her swallowing/regurgitating problems. Please pray that she is able to tolerate the NG tube better tomorrow and her urinary retention resolves itself. And please pray the team of doctors/nurses/therapists come up with a plan to help her eat and walk again. We hate watching her suffer and I wish I could take it away from her.

Vaccine study of 23 million shows risk of 'heart problems' from Moderna or Pfizer jab

By IAN RANDALL

16:00, Wed, Apr 20, 2022

Overall, the team identified 1,077 cases of myocarditis and 1,149 of pericarditis among their four study cohorts.

Examining those subjects who had been jabbed, the team found that the likelihood of developing myocarditis was higher following a second dose of coronavirus vaccine.

Specifically, the risk appeared to increase by 75 percent with the BioNTech/Pfizer vaccine, and 557 percent with the Moderna vaccine.

Moreover, the team found that myocarditis risk following two jabs was highest for young men between 16–24 years of age.

“For individuals receiving two doses of the same vaccine, risk of myocarditis was highest among young males after the second dose.

MIT study finds COVID vaccines 'significantly associated' with jump in emergency heart problems

May 3, 2022

C OVID-19 vaccination was "significantly associated" with a 25% jump in emergency medical services (EMS) for heart problems in 16-39 year-olds in Israel, whose vaccination rate is among the world's highest, according to a peer-reviewed study by MIT researchers.

Published last week in the Nature journal Scientific Reports, the study found no association with COVID infections, however.

"While not establishing causal relationships, the findings raise concerns regarding vaccine-induced undetected severe cardiovascular side-effects and underscore the already established causal relationship between vaccines and myocarditis, a frequent cause of unexpected cardiac arrest in young individuals," the study says.

FDA restricts use of Johnson & Johnson COVID vaccine due to blood clot risk

The Food and Drug Administration put rigid limits on who can receive Johnson & Johnson's one-dose COVID-19 vaccine on Thursday, saying the vaccine should only be given to people who cannot receive a different vaccine or those who specifically request it.

After the single-dose vaccine was authorized in February 2021, the FDA and Centers for Disease Control and Prevention temporarily paused administering the shot in April after reports of blood clots in a small number of people who received it. The pause was lifted 11 days later, with the health agencies determining the benefits of the J&J vaccine outweighed the risks.

But the FDA has reversed course, ruling the risks of the side effect, called thrombosis with thrombocytopenia syndrome, outweigh the benefits. The condition, also known as vaccine-induced thrombotic thrombocytopenia, is the combination of a blood clot with low platelet count. The blood clots form in unusual places, such as veins that drain blood from the brain.

Stamford man vows to battle back after losing his leg weeks after receiving AstraZeneca vaccination

A former taekwondo champion who had his leg amputated weeks after receiving the covid vaccination has vowed to battle back.

Dave Mears was crowned world champion in 1984 and went on to build a successful teaching career before moving to Thailand.

Dave's flu-like symptoms started within hours of having the AstraZeneca vaccination against Covid-19 on March 4. His symptoms got progressively worse over the following month.

His foot started to swell and he was rushed to Addenbrooke's Hospital for treatment on April 10. His left leg was later amputated below the knee.

He said: "It started with a horrendous fever. I was admitted to hospital on the 10th and on the 12th my foot just exploded. There was blood everywhere.

"At first they said I might lose a couple of toes, but then it was half my leg.

Man has leg amputated after three weeks after vaccine

A MAN'S leg was amputated because of a rare blood clot he suffered three weeks after his first dose of AstraZeneca vaccine.

Construction worker Goran D., 50, told reporters in Austria that had severe pain in his leg and "spat blood once or twice".

A scan at the Favoriten Clinic revealed he had a pulmonary embolism and thrombosis.

Goran was operated on a few days later, before having two more lots of surgery in the same week - with each operation lasting five to six hours.

He even had to be put into an induced coma for the third operation.

"Fortunately, my lungs started working again," he said.

Doctors then gave him the bad news that his lower leg would have to be amputated.

The procedure was carried out in another hours-long operation.

Goran, who spent nine days in intensive care following the surgery, said: "I will never forget that pain when I woke up for the rest of my life."

Doctors believe the pulmonary embolism and thrombosis he suffered were directly linked to the AstraZeneca jab.

The SUNDAY POST

Monday, September 6th 2021

Alex, from Cambuslang, Glasgow, had his Covid jag on March 20 and, aside from a sore arm and tiredness, seemed fine. But 12 days later, he was struck down with sore calves. The scaffolder said: "The nature of my job is heavy lifting, so we do get aches and pains sometimes. Sore muscles are common. I had a hot bath and an early night. I didn't think much of it."

The pain continued over the next few days and on April 4, Alex collapsed at home. "One minute I was doing the ironing and the next my legs buckled," he said.

With wife Michelle in the kitchen and unable to hear him shouting, Alex dragged himself downstairs and told her to call an ambulance.

"I knew straight away something wasn't right," he said. "And when the sweat started pouring off me and I began hyperventilating, I knew I was in trouble."

Alex was taken to hospital where a CT scan confirmed multiple blood clots in his lower abdomen and in both legs. Rushed into theatre, surgeons removed the clots which thankfully hadn't moved into his liver and kidneys.

"It was a worrying time," Alex said. "The doctors were speaking to consultants all around the world about me, because it was unheard of for someone with this level of clotting to survive."

"I asked if they could amputate below the knee, just so that there were more options when it came to getting mobile again," said Alex. "But unfortunately it had to be above. Every vein in my left leg was collapsing."

"It has given me a whole different perspective," Alex said. "It has changed my life. I've lost my leg and my livelihood. I won't be able to do scaffolding again"

Minnesota-Wisconsin Baptist Convention is organizing this fundraiser on behalf of Philip Nache.

A Note From Leo Endel, Executive Director of the Minnesota-Wisconsin Baptist Convention

Many of you have been praying for Jummai and Philip Nache during these difficult days. Their faith in the Lord has continued strong despite the difficulty of their journey. As most of you know, Jummai has undergone the amputation of her two legs below the knee and will later lose most of her two hands. What lies ahead is an expensive and painful journey of healing that will include costly prosthetics, additional surgery, and necessary modifications to their lifestyle including modifications to their home and a different vehicle.

My name is Philip Nache and my wife is Jummai. We are church planters with the North American Mission Board, sent to serve under MWBC in the Twin cities, Minnesota among the African community and also reaching out and training churches to know how to develop relationship with their Muslim neighbors. We had been missionaries in the northern part of Nigeria, an area dominated by Muslims for 20 years before we came to America to further our theological studies.

My wife Jummai is a medical assistant who worked in one of the clinics in Minneapolis, where she was instructed to take the covid-19 vaccine. After receiving her second Pfizer Covid-19 vaccine on February 1, 2021 she started to experience chest pain at work. Three days after the chest pains I took her to Urgent Care on February 6, 2021. After the checkup, EKG and other tests, the doctor said there was nothing wrong with her chest and every test showed she was okay. She took a covid-19 test and the next day was confirmed positive.

So Jummai followed the CDC guidelines but then a few days later she ended up at Fairview ER and then was transferred to U of M medical center. The next day, 2/14/21 the doctor called and told me that her heart was deteriorating, her oxygen levels and blood pressure were low and she needed to be put on a ventilator. My wife is suffering unbearable excruciating pain and permanent catastrophic damage. The consequences of the adverse event are as follows: 1. Arterial blood clot; 2. Respiratory distress—ventilator; 3. Cardiomyopathy; 4. Anemia; 5. Damage to fingers of both hands and toes of both feet; 6 Ischemia; 7. MIS-Multiple Inflammatory Syndrome. (NOTE FROM EDITOR - MIS is what killed 36-year-old Memphis surgeon Dr. Barton Williams on February 8)

As a result of the above complications, the Infectious Disease Dr decided to forward the case to CDC. According to the Dr, after going back and forth with the CDC, they decided to meet to deliberate with many experts around the country in which about 70-80 doctors met on a virtual call to discuss Jummai's case. About 8 weeks after the meeting the CDC sent us a letter of their conclusions which stated that Jummai was infected with MIS-A and covid-19. My request to be in that meeting was not granted. (NOTE FROM EDITOR - The CDC and the 70+ advisory panel of doctors are now aware this is a CV19 vaccine consequence, but continue to recommend this shot to public with zero informed consent).

I have appreciated God's grace of healing her from the life-threatening impact of the vaccine destruction, but it has required high risk surgeries for amputation of both legs (below the knees). When those are healed, she is yet to undergo amputations at both hands. My experience on this journey has been so difficult but I can't imagine the excruciating pain mentally, physically and emotionally that my wife is going through. I can only equate her experience and challenge with Job's experience and trial in the sense that the challenges have come in degrees, one after another. She would have one challenge and we would thank God as overcomers and then the devil would present the next challenge and we would overcome yet again. Time and again, challenge after challenge. I wasn't asking why the righteous suffer and I also encouraged Jummai to take the same approach, not because we have a strong faith but because of the example of the heroes of faith like Job.

Minnesota medical worker has both of her legs AMPUTATED

By MANSUR SHAHEEN FOR DAILYMIL.COM

PUBLISHED: 11:50 EDT, 26 July 2021

- Jummai Nache, from Minneapolis, Minnesota, received the second dose of her COVID-19 vaccine on February 1
- Doctors diagnosed her with arterial blood clots multiple inflammatory syndrome (MIS), a condition where multiple organs in the body become inflamed.
- Jummai's health rapidly deteriorated and she had to have of her legs amputated
- Jummai will soon need her hands amputated as well,

About the Naches (from www.texasbaptists.org) - Philip Nache came from Nigeria, Africa, to the US to attend seminary. When he visited the Twin Cities, he realized many Africans were living there — more than 100,000 immigrants and refugees. But there were few churches for them. "They were like sheep without a shepherd," he said. So Philip and his wife, Jummai, moved to the Twin Cities in 2015 and planted Hope of Nations Gospel Church as NAMB missionaries. Of course, Africa has many nations and language groups. Africans began asking him to plant churches in their various languages. So Phillip started teaching classes training Africans to plant churches. One man he trained returned to South Sudan to plant churches. The Naches' ministry is reaching people at home and overseas.

He said that his wife suffered from an arterial blood clot, respiratory disease, cardiomyopathy (heart muscle disease), anemia, ischemia and multiple inflammatory syndrome (MIS) - a condition where multiple organs in the body become inflamed.

Dr. Barton Williams, a Memphis surgeon, died from MIS shortly after his COVID 19 vaccine. His story is included in this compilation.

Help Me Get Artificial Fingers Due To Amputations.

Hi, my name is Jeff Diamond and I'm asking for your help in obtaining artificial fingers because of multiple amputations that I received that was caused by the Johnson & Johnson Covid-19 shot. Blood clots formed in my hands, fingers, and legs/feet. I made my living by singing, and playing guitar for many decades. My voice was also affected by being on a ventilator with a tube down my throat for a couple of weeks. I'm working on getting my voice back however it has been very difficult. My hope and prayer is that one day in the not too distant future if I can make it is that I'm able to play my guitar again and also perform/entertain. There have been many other health issues that I'm currently experiencing however my hope and main goal as I mentioned is to play guitar once again. The surgeon that I saw at the Mayo Clinic said that this type of transplantation surgery is not performed at this time however there is an independent business (based in Rochester, Minnesota) and The Mayo Clinic works very closely with them. They design and develop what are called artificial fingers that might work. These are custom designed and made each finger one at a time. Thank you for reading and considering my request. God

The next day while he was at a family party, his right leg started hurting all of a sudden, the pain got stronger and more sharper, and his leg started turning blue. He was rushed to the emergency room as the pain became unbearable. The doctors after evaluating his situation, decided that in order for him to be saved they had to amputate his leg from the knee and below. Kujtim now is on crutches, and is going through a lot of emotional, psychological and physical pain. He has not lost hope, and he believes that one day he'll be able to go outside and have a normal life again. There is an option for him to attach a prosthetic leg, but that costs him a lot of money. He can not afford it on his own, as he is not able to work now. He is hoping that the generosity of many of you in this world - will help him get back on his feet. Every penny counts, and he knows that one day he'll pay it forward and help the next person that's needs him, today he needs you. To check his story and the credibility of his claim, you can reach out to the Lodi Hospital of Milano Italy, and make a phone call asking if Kujtim Kaloshi was treated there on July 2021, and was amputated a leg. Once again he thanks each one of you for helping him.

Langley-area man loses 2 metres of intestine after a blood clot following his AstraZeneca jab

A formerly healthy 43-year-old father from Langley, B.C. — who is in hospital recovering from complications following a rare blood clot — is warning others to watch for signs of trouble after receiving an AstraZeneca-Oxford COVID-19 vaccine.

Shaun Muldoon and his wife Tara say that doctors confirmed to them that he's a victim of the unusual but dangerous syndrome linked to the AstraZeneca vaccine. The clot in his abdomen will leave him with life-long effects after two metres of his small intestine was removed.

Shaun Muldoon believes he wasn't adequately warned of the vaccine's risks or protected from them.

The AstraZeneca-Oxford COVID-19 vaccine has been linked to vaccine-induced immune thrombotic thrombocytopenia (VITT). Symptoms include severe headache, pain, swollen limbs, nausea, vomiting and shortness of breath.

"This is life changing for us," she said. "I feel like we have a long road ahead of us as far as his recovery goes. He's lost half of his small intestine."

Her husband was vaccinated on April 22 and ended up in emergency surgery on May 9. She said that he initially felt nauseous but symptoms progressed to fever, headache and vomiting. Each time he felt ill he called his doctor or the HealthLinkBC line at 811 and was advised to stay home — even after going in to have a test for COVID-19 — which turned out to be negative.

He finally went to emergency on May 8 after he began to vomit and pass blood.

Muldoon posted on social media that he wished he'd had more insight into the "worse case scenario."

"Seventeen days after my vaccine [I] ended up going into emergency surgery to remove over six feet of my small intestine. I had a massive blood clot. Second surgery two days later to remove more. My surgeon told me it was very close."

Tara Muldoon said the ordeal has been difficult for the family which includes two school-aged children.

Utah scientist testifies before FDA panel, asks not to approve COVID-19 vaccine for kids

by HEIDI HATCH | KUTV Staff | Wednesday, October 27th 2021

SALT LAKE CITY (KUTV) — COVID-19 vaccines for children ages 5-11 in the U.S. are one step closer to approval after a unanimous vote from a Food and Drug Administration advisory panel, with one abstention.

The group voting Tuesday said the vaccine's benefits in preventing COVID-19 in that age group outweigh potential risks.

During the eight-hour hearing, doctors, scientists and concerned citizens were given a chance to testify.

Dr. Brian Dressen, Ph.D., is a Utah father, husband and chemist who testified before the panel.

Dressen's wife Brianne took part in the Utah-based portion of the U.S. AstraZeneca trial in 2020. She suffered significant neurological injury after the first dose and withdrew from the trial. She spoke to KUTV News reporter Jim Spiewak Tuesday, saying her kids will not receive a COVID-19 vaccine, if approved.

Dressen told the FDA advisory panel their "decision is being rushed, based on incomplete data from underpowered trials, insufficient to predict rates of severe and long-lasting adverse reactions."

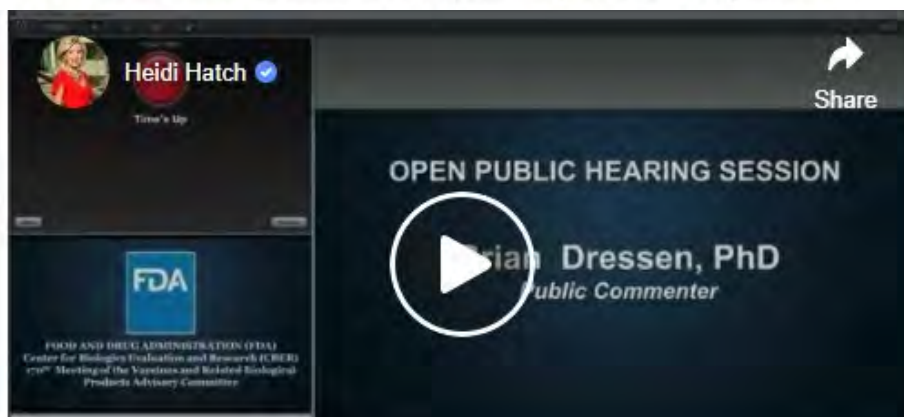

"Each of you hold a significant responsibility today and know that without a doubt, when you approve this for the 5-11-year-old's, you are signing innocent kids and uninformed parents to a fate that will undoubtedly rob some of them of their life," he said.

Brianne Dressen said she will not vaccinate her children because she is still suffering from neurological injury she said came on from being a participant in the AstraZeneca vaccine trial a year ago. (KUTV News 2) (Dressen)

"My family's life has changed forever," he added. "The clinical trials are not appropriately evaluating the data, the FDA, CDC and drug companies continue to deflect the persistent and repeated cries for help and acknowledgement, leaving the injured as collateral damage."

AstraZeneca vaccine legal fight: 'Doctors had to remove part of my skull because of the pressure on my brain'

EXCLUSIVE

March 24, 2023

Michael Barnes was hesitant about getting a Covid vaccine, but felt he should for the benefit of the wider population. The rare serious side effects he suffered have turned his life upside down

For Michael Barnes, the psychological effects of coping with the damage his body suffered from a rare severe reaction to the Covid vaccine are as bad as the physical injuries. "I used to be very outgoing, but now I'm at the opposite end of the spectrum," the 35-year-old music tech engineer in Banbury, Oxfordshire, tells i. "I was very well spoken and had a good vocabulary, but now I struggle to get the words out. I don't go out much any more."

Michael is one of at least 445 people in the UK known to have suffered a severe and damaging reaction to the AstraZeneca vaccine.

"I felt a bit iffy the day I had the jab, which they said was to be expected. After a couple of days I started to feel better, but after about five days or so I started getting vertigo. Then I started feeling sick all the time."

Doctors could not tell what was causing the problem and sent him home from hospital, but a few days later Michael suffered a stroke and was put into an induced coma. The vaccine had caused a clot in his brain and led to brain haemorrhages, meaning he needed a decompression hemi-craniotomy.

"I can't remember the week before that at all. I was in the induced coma for more than three weeks. The doctors had to operate and remove part of my skull because of the pressure on my brain. Waking up from that was very surreal. It took me quite a while to realise where I was and what was going on.

"I couldn't walk at all by this point, which was quite depressing. I just didn't have any of my faculties at all. It was about a month afterwards that I realised the extent of the paralysis." After moving out of intensive care, Michael spent two months recovering at the John Radcliffe Hospital in Oxfordshire, then a rehab centre for another two months, where he had to learn to walk again.

He says: "My mobility is still severely restricted. I can't really do anything at all with my right hand. I can't write particularly well. My peripheral vision is really bad. My ability to see things on a screen is bad; I can't read very well. Walking is a struggle. I can't really go anywhere on my own. My balance is poor. I struggle with conversations, following what people are saying, talking. It's a real struggle. The rehab has definitely slowed down in recent months, partly because I'm improving but also partly because there just aren't enough sessions for me anymore."

Michael's legal team said he is quite representative of hundreds of others in the UK who have suffered grievous injury and now have severe disablement as a result of the Oxford/AstraZeneca vaccine, including 81 deaths.

Early March - gets shot —————> Mid March - 85% of small intestine removed, multi organ failure, coma

Kendra Lippy, a healthy 38-year-old, nearly died this spring after severe blood clots thought to be caused by the Johnson and Johnson vaccine sent most of her organs into failure. Now facing a life without most of her small intestine, she wants to see a complex and opaque federal compensation system for those who suffer a COVID-19 vaccine injury improved.

Her blood clots developed in March before the severe potential side-effect from the Johnson and Johnson vaccine was well publicized. She spent 33 days in the hospital as her doctors tried to determine the source of the problem. The treatment, including 22 days in intensive care, left the Colorado Springs resident with hundreds of thousands of dollars in debt. She is anxiously awaiting the final total of her uninsured care.

For Lippy, who had no underlying health conditions, the rare risk became very real.

The first sign that Lippy's vaccine had caused problems was a headache, she said.

"It felt like needles were pressing in my brain," she said. "So I left work early, came home, tried to rest and take a nap."

A few days later, she suffered severe abdominal pain and then started vomiting, she said. She was admitted to St. Francis Hospital in mid-March before the Johnson & Johnson blood clots had become major national news, and the federal agencies sent guidance to doctors on how to treat them.

For much her time in the hospital, physicians were perplexed and struggled to diagnose her condition, at one point they tried to determine if she had a blood disease, Lippy said.

Lippy was in a coma and most of her organs were failing, when a doctor called a meeting with her family to see if she would want her care to continue, her mother Debbie Lippy, recalled.

"I said, 'She would want you to fight for her,'" Debbie Lippy said.

Debbie Lippy also suggested to doctors the COVID-19 vaccine could have caused her daughter's blood clots after hearing about the rare side effect on the news. That was a key first step to recovery and led to doctors eliminating heparin as part of the treatment, she said.

Now back at her parent's home recovering, Lippy is learning to live with a small intestine that is 90 centimeters long and working with professionals on a long-term diet. A large portion of the intestine died without blood supply and left her reliant on receiving some nutrition intravenously, through her arm.

'Young, healthy' South Mississippi man suffers stroke hours after receiving J&J vaccine

ST. MARTIN, Miss. (WLOX) - When the news broke about the pause of the Johnson & Johnson vaccine Tuesday, one Coast family was already living with a tragedy they believe was caused by the vaccine.

It started out as a normal day for 43-year-old Brad Malagarie of St. Martin. This busy father of seven spent the morning at his D'Iberville office before heading to get a Johnson & Johnson vaccine a little after noon.

He returned to work, and within three hours coworkers noticed he was unresponsive at his desk.

"They called me and said he had that vaccine and something is wrong, we think it's a stroke," said Celeste Foster O'Keefe, Malagarie's aunt.

Malagarie was rushed to the hospital and diagnosed with a stroke. A blood clot had lodged in his left middle cerebral artery. O'Keefe, who is also Brad's boss, said the family believes without a doubt that the vaccine caused the stroke.

"He can't talk now and he can't walk. He's paralyzed on the right side. He knows who we are and he will just cry when he sees us," O'Keefe said.

Barbara Buchanan said the one-dose Johnson & Johnson vaccine was appealing, so she made an appointment in early May. Buchanan said at first she didn't have any reactions, not even a sore arm. Days went by and then she said she started coughing up a lot of blood. "The doctors, I think, immediately knew something was seriously wrong," said Buchanan. "It turns out there are blood clots in my brain and in my neck," said Buchanan.

Actress Sally Kirkland After Moderna Vaccine: In My 79 Years, I've Never Experienced This Level of Pain

Sally Kirkland has been acting since she was 17, and has appeared in more than 250 movies. But she didn't sign up for the role she's playing now — an advocate for not getting the COVID vaccine.

Kirkland, 79, was healthy before she took the vaccine. But almost immediately after the second shot, she experienced excruciating headaches, vertigo, nausea and joint pain.

Kirkland said she also has "terrible heart pain," which makes her feel as though she's having a heart attack.

Today, Kirkland takes multiple prescriptions for pain, nausea and vertigo, and alternates between applying moist hot packs and ice on her joints. Still, she continues to work, she said, because she needs to support herself.

During a recent acting job in New Orleans, Kirkland had to be rushed to a hospital where one doctor told her, "You're not the first person. We've had other people who got the Moderna vaccine, which attacked the nerve in their brain, causing all these symptoms."

'I've battled over whether to send this post from hospital or not. But decided after 27 years of being a journalist who's primary goal is to discover the truth - it would be hypocritical not to,' he wrote on Instagram.

'I'm NOT anti-vax. But I'm really not pro-vax either. I'm pro-choice - and pro-information to make that choice.

'Probably a little late to hospital - but here I am - diagnosed with pericarditis - or inflammation of the heart due to the Pfizer vaccine.'

Professional Footballer Suffers Myocarditis After COVID-19 Vaccines, Possible End of Career

ITALY – Professional footballer Pedro Obiang has been diagnosed with myocarditis as a result of the COVID-19 vaccines. Mr. Obiang was hospitalized for around ten days. He was recently discharged but can't play football for a minimum of 6 months.

Myocarditis, inflammation of the muscle tissue of the heart (the myocardium), is a particularly serious problem for athletes, since it damages and destroys the cells of one of the most important organs for competitive activity. It was reported yesterday that 38-year-old Italian volleyball player Francesca Marcon, suffers from pericarditis as a result of her second Pfizer COVID-19 dose.

NBA Player Says COVID Vaccine Caused Blood Clots, But Team Officials Told Him to 'Keep Quiet'

In the midst of the standoff between the National Basketball Association (NBA) and Kyrie Irving — who's been banned from practicing or playing with the Brooklyn Nets until he gets vaccinated — another player has sounded the alarm on how the COVID vaccine ended his season last year, and how his team officials attempted to cover up the blood clots he suffered from the shot.

Brandon Goodwin, former point guard with the Atlanta Hawks — who on Thursday signed a new contract with the New York Knicks — in May pulled out for the season for what was described as a “minor” respiratory condition.

Goodwin said during an Oct. 3 Twitch stream:

“I got sick, then I never recovered from it. I would always have back pain. I was just super tired in the games, like when we played Philly [Apr. 28-30] back to back. Bro, I was so tired, like I couldn't run up and down the court. Then we went home, that's when my back really started hurting bad. Then I'm like I have to go to the doctor, that's when I found out I had blood clots.”

Goodwin said the symptoms “all happened in the span of a month” after getting vaccinated.

“I was fine up until then, up until I took the vaccine,” Goodwin said. “I was fine. So people trying to tell you it's not the vaccine, how do you know? You don't know. Yes, the vaccine ended my season, one thousand percent.”

Goodwin expressed no animosity toward the Hawks, but did express some confusion about how they handled his hospitalization.

“Nothing against the Hawks, but they called me the next day while I was in the hospital and told me, ‘We're going to tell the press your season's over,’” he said.

Goodwin said the team asked him to keep quiet about his condition, which explains why the public is only now learning that the so-called “minor” condition was blood clots.

Bethel Park woman paralyzed 12 hours after getting first dose of Pfizer vaccine, doctors searching for answers

BETHEL PARK, Pa. — There have been some negative side effects reported worldwide from the Pfizer, Moderna and Johnson & Johnson COVID-19 vaccines, but a Bethel Park woman told Channel 11 she has been affected by something that hadn't been seen at all yet: paralysis.

The 33-year-old woman, who asked to remain anonymous, said she felt fine in the hours after getting the first dose of the Pfizer vaccine last week. However, she said 12 hours later, she woke up in the middle of the night with no feeling in her arms or legs.

Paramedics came and rushed her to Jefferson Hospital. In the coming days, she was moved to Allegheny General Hospital in the Northside and then the Cleveland Clinic -- as doctors ran a multitude of tests to figure out how and why this happened. An MRI and spinal tap were clear, and her blood work all came back negative, ruling out any rare diseases or disorders.

"There is just nothing they can find wrong with me. No underlying conditions, I have nothing in my history and they are basically telling me, 'You're healthy and we can't figure out why this is going on,'" the woman told Channel 11.

Alberta man says AstraZeneca shot led to serious health issue, wants federal compensation

"I couldn't pick up things that I could normally grasp and pick up, and then I went to leave the work station and my left leg wouldn't work and I went down to one knee, and then I started panicking," he said.

The Edson, Alta., man said after being sent home from the hospital a second time, he was eventually sent to meet with neurologists in Edmonton. That's when an issue was discovered in his spine and he underwent an intravenous transfusion.

"The one doctor asked me straight out: 'Did you have the AstraZeneca vaccine in the last two weeks?'" Hellekson said.

Hellekson said he was diagnosed with Guillain-Barré Syndrome (GBS) — a rare neurological disorder that results in the body's immune system mistakenly attacking part of its peripheral nervous system. GBS can range from a very mild case with brief weakness to nearly devastating paralysis.

Man, 60 paralysed, near death after Covid vaccination

A Princes Town family is blaming the AstraZeneca vaccine for the sudden paralysis of a 60 year old relative who suffered a blood clot and is hospitalised.

The man's relatives told TV6 News that doctors at the San Fernando General Hospital have given the man days to live.

They said the father of two took the vaccine last Wednesday and by Friday he was in a state of paralysis.

The man is a recently retired Local Government regional corporation health inspector .

The man's nephew, Faleel Ali, told TV6 that doctors admitted it was the vaccine that caused the blood clot.

"They say that there is no other complication that can cause a blood clot to his body, the only thing that they see was the vaccine that caused the blood clot," he said.

Ali said last week his uncle was his regular strong vibrant self but everything changed when he took the AstraZeneca vaccine.

He said by Thursday morning his uncle began experiencing abdominal pains and by Friday he suffered partial paralysis, causing relatives to rush him to the Princes Town district health facility.

"At this point everything from his waist go down to his toes is totally black," he said.

South Korea to compensate nurse paralysed after COVID-19 shot

SEOUL, Aug 6 (Reuters) - For the first time in South Korea, a nursing assistant who was paralysed after receiving a COVID-19 vaccine was recognised as a victim of an industrial accident, making her eligible for government benefits and compensation.

The nursing assistant, who has not been identified, received AstraZeneca's (AZN.L) shot on March 12 and later suffered from double vision and paralysis and was diagnosed with acute encephalomyelitis, the state-run Korea Workers' Compensation & Welfare Service said on Friday.

The KDCA said a total of 1,562 cases, including 14 deaths, had been reviewed for compensation regarding damages from COVID-19 vaccination, of which 983 had been compensated. There has been no compensation for a case involving a death.

AstraZeneca has been granted protection from product liability claims related to its COVID-19 vaccine by most of the countries with which it has struck supply agreements.

Stoke-on-Trent family's despair as dad 'paralysed by coronavirus vaccine'

6 JUL 2021

Anthony Shingler has been in the Royal Stoke hospital since March

The family of a dad-of-two are demanding answers after he was left 'paralysed' in what they believe is an extremely rare side effect of the coronavirus vaccine.

Security manager Anthony Shingler is currently completely bedbound as he 'fights for his life' on a ventilator in hospital.

The 57-year-old's loved ones say he started going downhill after having his first dose of AstraZeneca three months ago.

The formerly 'fit-and-healthy' grandad, from Northwood, has since been diagnosed with Guillain-Barré syndrome (GBS), a very rare and serious condition that affects the nerves.

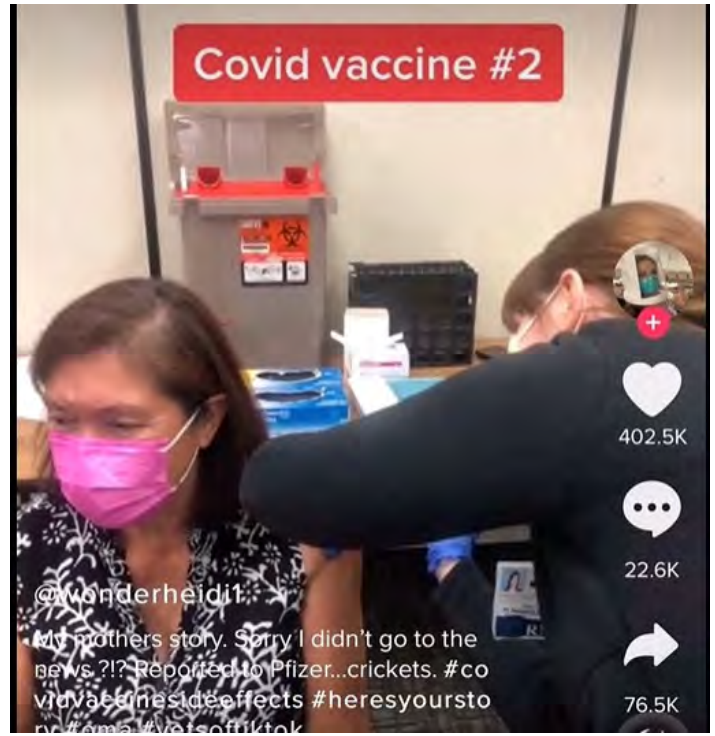

Now his devastated wife Nicola is calling for more help from the Government after highlighting Anthony's condition.

Nicola told StokeonTrentLive: "I'm adamant it was the vaccine, he was fine until he had it. They've found no other trigger."

This vibrant, 65-year-old retired nurse, suffered a thrombotic stroke 8 days after her second shot.

Her daughter has reported it to Pfizer but has yet to receive a response.

Almost all cases of disseminated intravascular coagulation (DIC) or cerebral venous thrombosis (CVT) after receiving the AstraZeneca vaccine were among women under age 55. Nine of these individuals died, according to the EMA statement.

Eric Clapton after COVID vaccination: 'I should never have gone near the needle'

May 12, 2021

Mordechai Sones

In February this year, before I learned about the nature of the vaccines, (and being 76 with emphysema) I was in the avant garde. I took the first jab of AZ and straight away had severe reactions which lasted ten days, I recovered eventually and was told it would be twelve weeks before the second one...

About six weeks later I was offered and took the second AZ shot, but with a little more knowledge of the dangers. Needless to say the reactions were disastrous, my hands and feet were either frozen, numb or burning, and pretty much useless for two weeks, I feared I would never play again, (I suffer with peripheral neuropathy and should never have gone near the needle.) But the propaganda said the vaccine was safe for everyone....

Then I met a member of this group, who counselled me to be careful and to have a look at what goes on with you guys...

I felt like a veil had been lifted, that I was no longer alone, that it was okay, in fact essential, to hold on to my intuition and follow my heart...

I continue to tread the path of passive rebellion and try to tow the line in order to be able to actively love my family, but it's hard to bite my tongue with what I now know...

My dad got vaccinated... 36 hours later he was in the hospital with heart failure. We thought we were going to lose him.

Me: Dr Cardiologist (DC), what's wrong with our dad?

DC: Well, at first he had all the symptoms of COVID, but he tested negative. Then we discovered he had heart failure.

Me: How bad was it?

DC: Your dad was very sick. We didn't think he would make it the first night.

Me: So what happened to his heart?

DC: Well, his arteries are clear and there's no blockage. So it's hard to say. We did find 2 liters of fluid we drained from his lungs that we think is secondary to the heart. And there's no infection.

Me: So what caused the heart failure and fluid in his lungs?

DC: We still don't know.

Me: Could it have been the experimental vaccine he received about 36 hours earlier...?

DC: Oh, no.

Me: Why not?

DC: There's no evidence for that.

Me: And you confirmed my dad doesn't have diabetes, metabolic syndrome or any other comorbidities, correct?

DC: Correct.

Me: So what caused him to have sudden heart failure? And what explains why he is now doing so much better?

DC: We still aren't sure.

Me: And you're sure it wasn't the vaccine?

DC: Yes.

Me: How can you be sure?

DC: It's just not.

What has to happen for something to be considered, even as an association (not causation) an adverse reaction in the reporting data?

I'm sensing things are likely not being recorded or documented accurately in the medical community.

I cared for a previously healthy patient yesterday who came in with a massive intraparenchymal hemorrhage about 36 hours after receiving his second dose of the Pfizer vaccine. Poor guy had complete left sided hemiparesis and total unilateral left sided neglect. He was vomiting secondary to the increased intracranial pressure and all he kept repeating was "I'm ok, I'm ok, I got the vaccine. I got both doses of the vaccine." Intubated, ventilated, emergency ventriculostomy, mannitol, anti-seizure meds. His prognosis is abysmal. Was it related to the vaccine? Don't you dare ask that question!!!

Wonder if he will show up in the VAERS database. I

P.E.I. woman hospitalized over 'extremely rare' COVID-19 vaccine allergy shares her story

Sara Fraser · CBC News · Posted: Apr 06, 2021

Toni Lannigan, shown in an engagement photo with her fiancé, says she is having a serious allergic reaction to the Pfizer BioN-Tech vaccine. (Tracy Stewart)

Last week, Toni Lannigan's excitement over getting her COVID-19 vaccine turned into a panic.

The 32-year-old had no known allergies, but sometimes felt slightly unwell after annual flu shots, so staff at the King's County Memorial Hospital in Montague, P.E.I., flagged her to wait 30 minutes after her Pfizer-BioNTech shot instead of the usual 15, to make sure she would be all right.

Luckily, the emergency department was just steps away and staff rushed her there, where she said her heart began to race, her blood pressure dropped dramatically and she began having sharp pelvic pains.

She remembers being treated with epinephrine, a drug used to treat severe allergic reactions, and starting to shake uncontrollably. An ambulance took her to the Queen Elizabeth Hospital in Charlottetown, where she was admitted to intensive care.

Back home in rural Montague, she said the vision in one eye is still severely blurred — her doctor is keeping an eye on that — and she is weak, extremely nervous and jumpy. Her head aches, she has no appetite and she isn't sleeping well.

"I couldn't really get any answers as to why that happened. And I still don't have any answers," Lannigan said. She would like to know what vaccine ingredient caused her reaction, and why.

Beckie Wilson had the jab on March 11 and says she soon started to experience symptoms such as shortness of breath.

"The results from those came back last week and I received a phone call asking me to go in where the consultant was waiting for me.

"I rushed there and the consultant told me I have got quite a few blood clots in my right lung.

"It's a really dangerous situation to be in. You can die from these blood clots.

"The hospital has now put me on blood thinning tablets for three months to try to get rid of the clots and I've been told to stay off work. Without the blood thinning medication I'd probably be dead.

"They explained that you can get blood clots through not moving around or through having an operation, but other than that the only other thing was the vaccine.

"The doctor has advised me not go for the second vaccine because it could lead to more blood clots.

"I've never had any issues with clots before."

BAKERSVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA — Ms. Kristi Simmonds has been a registered nurse since 2007. Her hard work and dedication to the profession led to a clinic manager position at Kindred at Home Care Services in October. Ms. Simmonds wanted to lead by example. She received the Moderna mRNA shot on January 19, according to her Facebook page. The goal was to protect her patients and co-workers, while also demonstrating that the shots are safe. She is now warning people to exercise due diligence before getting the jab.

Ms. Simmonds throat and tongue swelled up so much that she could barely breath. She went to the hospital on January 21. Doctors prescribed her Benadryl and sent her home. Ms. Simmonds rested for four days and returned to work, thinking the worst was over. Her whole world changed that night when she got home. Ms. Simmonds started having uncontrollable convulsions and muscle spasms.

Tinnitus reports grow amid COVID-19 vaccinations

By Brian Buntz | March 11, 2021

A handful of patients in Johnson & Johnson's Phase 3 COVID-19 clinical trial complained of tinnitus, or ringing in the ears.

After reporting on the subject, we've received a steady stream of reports from Moderna and Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine recipients who experienced tinnitus.

The U.S. Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System (VAERS) database cites 152 reports of tinnitus among 25,072 COVID-19 recipients of vaccines from Pfizer-BioNTech and Moderna. The database also has 11 reports of sudden hearing loss and 39 reports of hypoacusis (loss of hearing acuity).

A U.K. database cataloging adverse events related to AstraZeneca and Pfizer-BioNTech vaccines also lists a number of cases of tinnitus. In a summary of adverse reaction reports for the 54,180 recipients of the AstraZeneca vaccine from Jan. 1 to Feb. 28, there were 320 tinnitus reports. For the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine, there were 196 tinnitus reports among 33,207 recipients in the same time frame.

He went to the doctor, who prescribed muscle relaxers and pain meds. Just a few, short days later, on February 10, Scott couldn't walk. While getting up one time, his legs gave out and he fell to the ground. Someone who walks 11,000 steps per day at work suddenly couldn't walk. Scott and Mary immediately contacted Scott's doctor, who wouldn't approve Scott for an immediate MRI or emergency care.

By February 13, Scott still couldn't use his legs. Three days of not being able to go to work, not being able to take himself to the bathroom, not being able to get his own food, not being able to play with his dogs or take them for a walk...not being able to move anywhere on his own. This is also three days of Mary being out of work to help care for Scott at home.

Finally, after no advancement with the doctor, Scott went to the Emergency Room where he was diagnosed with Guillain Barré syndrome (GBS), which was triggered by his COVID-19 vaccine.

Drama about Bayern basketball players: Paul Zipser had an emergency operation

Ten days ago, at the last semi-final match between the Bayern basketball team and Ludwigsburg, Paul Zipser and his team walked into the Audi Dome as normal. However, the 27-year-old was no longer used this Friday. He felt limp and his knee pinched after a long season.

The diagnostics got rolling on Saturday after the Ludwigsburg game thanks to the quick action of the Munich medical team led by team doctor Dr. Sebastian Torka. Zipser's dizziness symptoms, which also occurred in the morning, made the Bayern doctors prick up their ears because they knew that the Heidelberg man had been vaccinated against corona with the Johnson and Johnson vaccine - a vector vaccine with the same mechanism of action as the Astrazeneca vaccine. And this is suspected of causing so-called cerebral vein thrombosis in rare cases. So the FCBB docs urged a quick CT scan.

Four (4) weeks later I [again reluctantly] received the second dose of the Pfizer COVID-19 vaccine on April 13, 2021 at 9:36am. Ten (10) hours later, my entire body ached and I was feverish at 103 degrees – I had the same thoracic/chest pain which intensified but my entire body was in pain at the time intensifying through the night capped off with the coldest/hottest chill/convulsions I have ever experienced. This all lasted about one (1) day. The aches and fever subsided, the thoracic/chest pain remained but decreased back down at the 5/10 level I was used to over the past month – again, convincing myself I must have a herniated disc or muscle strain or something... because

I found myself back to the ER, walking inside this time, at 9:32am on May 9, 2021. As soon as I said chest pain, I was taken back immediately, hooked up to some machines, given some meds to chew on, and had blood drawn amongst other tests/scans. The bloodwork came back very quickly showing elevated Troponin – indicating heart injury. I was transported to a different hospital, the cardiac ward. The first cardiologist I saw was dumbfounded upon my entry saying "by the initial results and description, I would have thought you would be a 60 year old man"... his curiosity would continue as he learned more about my [extremely healthy] lifestyle. This cardiologist, and every cardiologist since, would not have any answers as to why this happened. They all said "maybe this, maybe that" (none of which were the vaccine) and after the longest 30+ hours of my life and still with no answers but Troponin levels trending downward, they decided to release me with a prescription for 90 days of Colchicine, 14 days of Motrin, an order for a Heart MRI, and a follow up.

The final diagnosis was a non-ST elevated myocardial infarction and myo/pericarditis.

Since that day, many new reports have come out regarding the Pfizer COVID-19 vaccine relating to myocarditis in [specifically] young males. I have noted this multiple times with all of my doctors who have all seemingly dismissed the possibility. Finally, during my most recent follow-ups with my primary care doctor, and with the CDC finally looking into the issue, we submitted my symptoms – soon after which, the VAERS team asked for my medical records and just this past week I received a call from the Vcheck vaccines follow up team who have marked my case as "serious" and say I will be contacted by the CDC.

Woman's sudden paralysis linked to Johnson & Johnson

9 people vaccinated against COVID-19 in Arizona reported rare nerve disorder

PHOENIX (3TV/CBS 5) – Nine people who received a COVID-19 vaccine in Arizona reportedly have experienced a rare condition in which the body's immune system attacks the nerves.

It's called Guillain-Barré syndrome, and the first symptoms are usually weakness and tingling in the feet and hands, according to MayoClinic.org. "These sensations can quickly spread, eventually paralyzing your whole body," the site explains. "In its most severe form Guillain-Barré syndrome is a medical emergency. Most people with the condition must be hospitalized to receive treatment."

In early April, 46-year-old Kelly Francis said she received Johnson & Johnson's COVID-19 vaccine.

Francis suffered no immediate side effects, but a week later, her feet started to hurt, and then her legs. Days later, she woke up with intense neck pain.

"I was walking back to bedroom. I fell and was completely paralyzed from the waist down," said Francis.

In mid-May, an MRI and spinal tap revealed a diagnosis, a rare neurological condition called Guillain-Barre Syndrome (GBS), where the immune system attacks nerve cells, causing muscle weakness and in extreme cases, paralysis.

"My neurologist said he believed 100% that it was from the Johnson & Johnson vaccine, and he was reporting it to the proper officials," said Francis.

"I was angry. We were told to get this to prevent COVID, and I end up with something that has long-term consequences," said Francis.

"Things progressed pretty quick. So, I have this week's long neurological decline, and no one knew what was going on. I called the test clinic several times, finally two days later they had me come in and they did a neurological exam and they said, 'oh it looks like you have MS, so you probably need to get that checked out,'" Dressen said.

She said her symptoms continued to worsen, and just before Thanksgiving, she said her legs stopped working, sending her to the emergency room. However, after running several MRI's, cat scans, and lumbar punctures, no one could tell her what was wrong.

She spent months teaching herself how to walk, eat, and form sentences again — all while she traveled near and far to try and get some answers.

"The hospital didn't know what was going on...none of the neurologists that I saw knew what was going on...I called the test clinic several times and they had no idea what was going on," Dressen said.

In February 2021 we knew that thrombocytopenia was a COVID vaccine adverse effect

The New York Times

Covid Vaccine Recipients Developed a Rare Blood Disorder

By Denise Grady

Feb. 8, 2021 Updated 5:07 p.m. ET

One day after receiving her first dose of Moderna's Covid vaccine, Luz Legaspi, 72, woke up with bruises on her arms and legs, and blisters that bled inside her mouth.

She was hospitalized in New York City that day, Jan. 19, with a severe case of immune thrombocytopenia — a lack of platelets, a blood component essential for clotting.

The same condition led to the death in January of Dr. Gregory Michael, 56, an obstetrician in Miami Beach whose symptoms appeared three days after he received the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine. Treatments failed to restore his platelets, and after two weeks in the hospital he died from a brain hemorrhage.

"I think it is possible that there is an association," Dr. James Bussel, a hematologist and professor emeritus at Weill Cornell Medicine who has written more than 300 scientific articles on the platelet disorder, said in an interview. "I'm assuming there's something that made the people who developed thrombocytopenia susceptible, given what a tiny percentage of recipients they are."

He added: "Having it happen after a vaccine is well-known and has been seen with many other vaccines. Why it happens, we don't know."

Ms. Legaspi was strong and in good health before receiving the Moderna vaccine. But when she was admitted to the city hospital in Elmhurst, Queens, her platelet count was zero. Normal readings range from 150,000 to 450,000, and anything under 10,000 is considered very dangerous and in urgent need of treatment.

Doctors ordered Ms. Legaspi to not even get out of bed without help, for fear that if she fell and injured herself she could hemorrhage. They began giving her the standard treatments, including platelet transfusions along with steroids and immune globulins meant to stop her immune system's war on her platelets.

Nothing worked. Her platelets would rise a bit and then crash again between treatments.

As the days passed with no progress, Ms. Legaspi's daughter, aware of Dr. Michael's death, worried increasingly that her mother would suffer a brain hemorrhage.

"I don't think she understands she's like a ticking bomb," the daughter said in an interview on Jan. 28, after her mother had been in the hospital for more than week with no improvement. "I don't use the term. I don't want to tell her that."

Dr. Gregory Michael

Ms. Legaspi,

Another vaccine recipient, Sarah C., 48, a teacher in Arlington, Tex., received the Moderna vaccine on Jan. 3. She asked that her full name not be used to protect her privacy.

Two weeks later, she began to have heavy vaginal bleeding. After two days she saw her obstetrician, who ordered blood work and scheduled other tests. A few hours later, he called and urged her to go straight to the emergency room. He was stunned and hoped it was a lab error, but her blood count showed zero platelets. She had had a checkup with completely normal blood-test results less than a week before being vaccinated.

The reading of zero platelets was not a lab error. The results were confirmed in the emergency room, and doctors there also noticed red spots on her wrists and ankles, caused by hemorrhages under the skin. Sarah C. had seen the spots, but ignored them.

She spent four days in the hospital, receiving platelet transfusions, immune globulins and steroids to restore her platelet count.

She described the experience as terrifying. "Especially when people say they'd never seen this before, that you could bleed out or hemorrhage," she said. "That was the biggest concern, and just not knowing. The gentleman in Florida, he didn't make it. Certainly the fear was there."

If she had known enough to recognize the red spots and bleeding as danger signs, she said, she would have gone to the emergency room much sooner.

The first episode developed 5 hours after the 61-year-old man received the first dose of the vaccine, reported Abigail Burrows, MBBS, of Royal Surrey County Hospital NHS Foundation Trust in Guildford, England, and colleagues.

The second occurred 2 days after he received the second dose and was more severe, they wrote in BMJ Case Reports. On both occasions, the patient was diagnosed with Bell's palsy.

Two studies: Covid-19 vaccines trigger Graves' disease in some female health care workers

DATED: JULY 11, 2021 BY SHARYL ATTKISSON — LEAVE A COMMENT

- Two medical reports describe cases of five previously healthy female health care workers who developed the autoimmune disorder Graves' disease shortly after Covid-19 vaccination.
- Two of the women were breastfeeding when diagnosed.
- Graves disease has previously been connected to human papillomavirus (HPV) vaccine, flu shots, and hepatitis B vaccines.
- Autoimmune/inflammatory syndrome induced by [vaccine] adjuvants (ASIA) was first described a decade ago.
- ASIA is triggered by several adjuvants, substances used in vaccines to enhance the antigen-specific immune response.

The researchers conclude: "Our patients met the diagnostic criteria for ASIA [autoimmune/inflammatory syndrome induced by adjuvants], they were previously healthy, were exposed to an external stimulus (vaccine), developed manifestations of AIEDs, and tested positive for autoantibodies. These cases represent an example of the diversity of clinical manifestations of vaccine-induced autoimmune conditions."

Herpes infection possibly linked to COVID-19 vaccine, study says

By Jackie Salo

April 20, 2021 | 9:29am | Updated

Herpes infections may be a side effect of a COVID-19 vaccine, experts have revealed.

Scientists in Israel identified six cases in a new study of patients developing a skin rash known as herpes zoster — or shingles — after receiving the Pfizer vaccine, according to a study in the Rheumatology journal.

Herpes zoster starts off as a small, itchy skin rash, but if left untreated, it could cause nerve damage and pain, the Jerusalem Post reported.

Out of 491 patients, six people or 1.2 percent experienced the infection, researchers said.

Herpes zoster following BNT162b2 mRNA Covid-19 vaccination in patients with autoimmune inflammatory rheumatic diseases: a case series FREE

The prevalence of HZ was 1.2% ($n = 6$) in patients with AIIRD compared with none in controls. Six female patients aged 49 ± 11 years with stable AIIRD: rheumatoid arthritis ($n = 4$), Sjogren's syndrome ($n = 1$), and undifferentiated connective disease ($n = 1$), developed the first in a lifetime event of HZ within a short time after the first vaccine dose in 5 cases and after the second vaccine dose in one case. In the majority of cases, HZ infection was mild, except a case of HZ ophthalmicus, without corneal involvement, in RA patient treated with tofacitinib. There were no cases of disseminated HZ disease or postherpetic neuralgia. All but one patient received antiviral treatment with a resolution of HZ-related symptoms up to 6 weeks. Five patients completed the second vaccine dose without other adverse effects.

Conclusion

Epidemiologic studies on the safety of the mRNA-based COVID-19 vaccines in patients with AIIRD are needed to clarify the association between the BNT162b2 mRNA vaccination and reactivation of zoster.

Mother's legs erupt in blisters 'after getting AstraZeneca's jab'

Luke Andrews Health Reporter For Mailonline 10 hrs ago

A mother has claimed her legs erupted into painful blood-filled blisters that 'merged together' after receiving AstraZeneca's coronavirus vaccine.

Sarah Beuckmann, from Glasgow, said she suffered flu-like symptoms after getting her first dose in mid-March — a very common side-effect. But the 34-year-old began to feel a tingling sensation in her legs just a week later and noticed a rash flaring up around her ankles.

She called the GP to arrange an appointment that morning, but by the afternoon her skin was already breaking out into blisters.

The mother-of-one was rushed to Queen Elizabeth University Hospital, and claimed at one point she feared her legs might have to be amputated.

Ms Beuckmann spent 16 days in hospital, with blisters also appearing on her hands, face, arms and bottom. She was discharged to recover at home but is wheelchair-bound because she struggles to walk due to the bandages on her legs and blisters on the soles of her feet.

COVID Vaccine Caused Woman's Skin to Rot

• August 19, 2021 • 5 minute read

A recent case study of a woman from New York shows that at least one recipient of the Pfizer covid vaccine experienced Toxic Epidermal Necrolysis, which doctors have attributed to the vaccine.

Toxic epidermal necrolysis is a life-threatening skin disorder characterized by a blistering and peeling of the skin.

Toxic epidermal necrolysis usually presents as a fever initially, and other flu-like symptoms one to three weeks later, which is also followed by painful skin lesions that tend to coalesce. Erosions and vesiculobullous lesions and epidermal detachment over wide body surface area begin to develop after this

According to the case study:

"A 49-year-old woman with no previous medical history presented to the emergency room with a history of fever and skin eruption. She has received COVID-19 Pfizer (BNT162b1) vaccine with a dose of 0.3 mL given intramuscularly one week before the development of her symptoms. The patient started to develop fever, fatigue, and headache followed by skin lesions affecting her trunk and starting to spread to her face and upper limbs with oral ulceration. The patient was seen in the primary health care center and was given paracetamol and did not notice any improvement. The patient had no history of taking any new medication or any cosmetic treatment in the past two months before the development of the skin lesions. Upon examination, the patient was vitally stable, anxious, and in severe pain. She had numerous purpuric and dusky red macules involving the chest, abdomen, upper limbs, face, genitalia, and upper thighs with areas showing coalescence of lesions with flaccid bullae and areas of epidermal detachment with positive Nikolsky's sign.

The mucosa was involved in her condition, where she had extensive oral ulceration and hemorrhagic crusting over the lips, as well as bilateral conjunctival congestions along with upper eyelids erosions and genital mucosal lesions. Her body surface area (BSA) involvement is estimated to be more than 30%."

Man's skin 'peeled off' in rare reaction to Johnson & Johnson COVID vaccine

By Jackie Salo

March 30, 2021 | 3:32pm | Updated

A Virginia man suffered a rare reaction to a COVID-19 vaccine that caused a painful rash to spread across his entire body and skin to peel off, doctors said.

Richard Terrell, 74, of Goochland began suffering strange symptoms four days after receiving the one-dose Johnson & Johnson vaccine, news station WRIC reported.

"I began to feel a little discomfort in my armpit and then a few days later I began to get an itchy rash, and then after that I began to swell and my skin turned red," Terrell told the outlet.

But soon the rash covered his entire body, Terrell said.

"It all just happened so fast. My skin peeled off," Terrell told the outlet.

"It was stinging, burning and itching. Whenever I bent my arms or legs, like the inside of my knee, it was very painful where the skin was swollen and was rubbing against itself," he continued.

He went to the emergency room at the hospital, where doctors determined that he had experienced an adverse reaction to the vaccine, WRIC reported.

"We ruled out all the viral infections, we ruled out COVID-19 itself, we made sure that his kidneys and liver was okay, and finally we came to the conclusion that it was the vaccine that he had received that was the cause," Dr. Fnu Nutan told the outlet.

She said that the medical episode could have been life-threatening if left untreated.

COVID-19: ARE THERE ETHICAL ISSUES WITH JABS OR MANDATES?

JULY 6, 2021

By Jane M. Orient, MD

If your faith forbids sterilization, or your respect for human rights forbids involuntary sterilization, then you need to consider the risk of infertility from COVID jabs.

We do NOT know that the COVID jab will cause infertility. But we also do not and cannot know that it doesn't. There simply has not been enough time to see.

Despite the uncertainty, thousands of our youth are being forced to choose between taking the jab or putting their educational plans or careers on hold. How much risk can we ethically take, or coerce others to accept—whether the risk is of infertility, miscarriage, disability, chronic disease, or death?

The ethical and legal issues of a mandate are outlined in a letter to colleges and universities from the William J. Olson law firm in Vienna, VA. The letter also requests a commitment to assume financial liability for death, disability, or illness of students being required to take the COVID-19 inoculation. While manufacturers are immune from product liability, those who coerce students or employees to receive it might not be.

Investigations that might inform us about the reproductive risks have not been done (or reported). More than 1,300 post-injection miscarriages have been reported to the Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System (VAERS). Where are the pathological examinations of the placentas? Were there spike-proteins in the blood vessels, and inflammation that cut off oxygen or nutrients to the baby? We don't know. An NEJM article that concluded there were no safety signals had no information on the placentas.

Was there damage to the reproductive organs of the nearly 13,000 persons who died post injection? The first (only?) autopsy report, of an 86-year-old man, published in June, did not address this.

Nanoparticles are meant to be distributed widely, and do accumulate in ovaries, testes, and uterus. What happens to the lipid nanoparticles that enclose the genetic material in the mRNA vaccines? Pfizer did not perform standard biodistribution studies.

College students are probably delaying marriage and family until educational or career goals are achieved. So, they might not discover infertility for years. But there are early warnings from fertility clinics about failed in-vitro fertilization with previously successful donors.

Once injected, the genetically engineered materials cannot be removed. We do not know how long the mRNA or the spike proteins it codes for will remain in the tissues.

Risks and benefits need be considered for different age groups. Persons past reproductive years have a higher risk of disease; younger persons seldom get seriously ill with COVID. A one-size-fits-all mandate is without justification. Those deciding whether to accept the shots, and their spiritual, parental, and career advisors, have a heavy responsibility with a potential impact on all future generations.

 41 weeks today and I'm officially fully vaccinated with the Pfizer vaccine! Clearly [REDACTED] wants a fully vaccinated mama! 🌱💉👶

I am scheduled to be induced on Wednesday evening if he hasn't arrived by then!

It's crazy. This time last year we were exactly 2 weeks away from beginning our journey with IVF. Now our precious babe is about to make his entrance into the world. It is not lost on me how incredibly lucky we are

Not sure if this is allowed... I don't have to read the rules as I'm currently 12 hours into induced labor with my precious baby who is no longer living.

My dream of becoming a mother came true 9 months ago after 2 years battling infertility and a successful go with IVF. And it was ripped away from me in the blink of an eye at 9am this morning.

Part of that dream into motherhood was breastfeeding. And so I'm reaching out to find out if

My friends sister was so excited to be 34 weeks and to be "allowed" to get her Covid vaccine to protect her and her baby. Her baby passed away pre-birth 48 hours later.

They are still waiting on autopsy results.

I had received a call from my dr to book my covid vaccine appointment.
I attended this appointment on the 16th of February. I was asked if I was pregnant. To which I replied yes.
They went and found a dr who was on site and she explained that she had to make it clear that there hasn't been enough tests on pregnant mothers to be sure of the risks.. however she did say she wouldn't think the vaccine would reach the baby.

I went home, I had a headaches and a sore arm ... I wasn't too concerned,
5 days later on the 21st of feb .. I woke to blood just pouring out of me, I was hemorrhaging and I lost 4 pints of blood as well as my baby at 17 weeks.

A Utah andrologist (male fertility specialist) just wrote me about the smoking gun, and I have permission to share this about the fertility clinic she works in:

"It's as feared... about sterilizing people with the shot. We have a case study of a young woman we absolutely know was fertile before her shot as she had done three rounds of egg donation.

"She got the shot and came in for a fourth round. The sperm source has a history of healthy embryos (except for a genetic issue they traced to the wife, thus using an egg donor) so we know he is fertile as well.

"With this cycle, post-vaxx, over 30 eggs were retrieved but ZERO embryos survived past day 4-5 of development.

"That's when the cells that will be the placenta start to form which, many are concerned are too close in structure to the spike protein for this to be a safe product for men and women who ever hope to have children.

"(God knows this shot was built to be multifactorial in damage and will wreak havoc on the immune responses of people as well.)

"But it's starting, Robyn, as feared. It's not just her. We are seeing a lot of this but this case is totally controlled for both gamete providers.

"At our staff meeting this morning we discussed the incredible amount of miscarriage we are seeing. It is unprecedented, Robyn.

"I am trying to get data from our own doc—I know he suspects something. We had all embryos fail to fertilize or die on one of our patients and he immediately asked if they'd had the shot.

"They had. Just a few weeks ago".

My brother and his wife who are both front line workers living in Ontario got the ~~vaccine~~. They have a 6 month old daughter who was being breastfed. 3 weeks ago today she suddenly passed away. Cause of death is "idiopathic thrombocytopenia" which means her blood stopped clotting. I am copying and pasting the email straight from their pediatrician who has now refused to take part in this ~~vaccine~~ trial. "Babies don't just get this from breast milk unless there's something in the milk. So if this is being secreted in breast milk than it's also being secreted in the apocrine sweat glands which is where the pheromones come from. The antibody to the ~~spike~~ protein is being secreted in saliva, being secreted in feces. Your body has produced this synthetic antibody that we know cross reacts with 28 different human tissues."

Does anyone realize how frightening this is?! That ~~vaccine~~ is worse than ~~cancer~~ or ~~vax~~ combined?!? I am NOT a conspiracy theorist, I believe covid is real but I'm telling you, ~~begging~~ you even please say no to the ~~vaccine~~. If my sister in law did not get it my sweet niece Nora May, who I never even got to hold would still be here. Her doctors even agreed, so this should tell you something.

UK, report shocks experts. Covid infected: 89% are vaccinated

The British Ministry of Health at work: it is not clear why the vaccinated are infected more than the unvaccinated: 89% vaccinated versus 11% unvaccinated

In the country, 89% of people infected with Covid were vaccinated against the virus. The other 11% relates to unvaccinated people. The Delta variant, dominant in the UK, has infected 386,735 subjects of which 337,834 with an age below 50 and 48,264 with an age above 50.

Speaking of the over 50s, 48,264 are those who, even if vaccinated, became infected, while only 4,891 became infected and were unvaccinated, all probably always due to the Delta variant. In proportion, those who end up in emergency are a tenth of the amount of infected but the statistics again prove in favor of the unvaccinated: the ratio is about 4 vaccinated in emergency against an unvaccinated. And we always talk about over 50.

A surprising result. The unexpected data is questioning UK scientists who are always very pragmatic and unwilling to take biased interventions.

Are Vaccines Driving the Surge in New COVID Infections?

In the UK, Israel, Chile and other countries with high vaccination rates, COVID infections among the fully vaccinated are outpacing those in the unvaccinated, raising questions about vaccine efficacy and whether the vaccines themselves are to blame.

With now 82% of its population fully vaccinated (i.e. nearly all adults), Singapore has proven much more resistant to new Covid cases.

Top Chinese official admits vaccines have low effectiveness

By JOE McDONALD and HUIZHONG WU April 11, 2021

BEIJING (AP) — China's top disease control official, in a rare acknowledgement, said current vaccines offer low protection against the coronavirus and mixing them is among strategies being considered to boost their effectiveness.

China has distributed hundreds of millions of doses of domestically made vaccines abroad and is relying on them for its own mass immunization campaign.

But the director of the Chinese Center for Disease Control and Prevention, Gao Fu, said at a conference Saturday their efficacy rates needed improving.

"We will solve the issue that current vaccines don't have very high protection rates," Gao said in a presentation on Chinese COVID-19 vaccines and immunization strategies at a conference in the southwestern city of Chengdu. "It's now under consideration whether we should use different vaccines from different technical lines for the immunization process."

VAERS is a passive surveillance system in the U.S. which captures adverse events following vaccination.

'Events' are reported by hospital staff, nursing home staff, doctors, administrators, etc. It takes approximately 30-40 minutes to fill out a single report and therefore injuries are under reported due to overwhelmed and undertrained hospital staff.

It is a federal crime to file a false VAERS report.

Each VAERS case is assigned a unique ID number and has a description of the incident (death, disability, etc.)
